U. S. Gives Czechs 2 Weeks To Leave N. Y.

Is Third Time Czechoslovakian Consulate Asked To Close; Rejects Nation's Charges That U. S. Diplomats Engaged In Spying

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—The United States today gave Communist Czechoslovakia two weeks to close down its New York consulate, in the latest of a series of tit-for-tat crackdowns on Russian satellite countries.

It was the third time in recent weeks that a Czech consulate in this country has been ordered closed.

At the same time the state department made public a note which Ambassador Ellis Briggs delivered in Prague today to Czech Foreign Minister Viliam Siroky. In this note, the United States—

1. Rejected Czech charges that American diplomats have engaged in spying, but yielded to a Prague order to slash the official U. S. embassy staff to 12 Americans by June 6. This means withdrawal of 14 employes.

2. Declared its intention of closing the American consulate in Bratislava within two weeks—in a move to forestall the obvious Czech reaction to the closing of their consulate in New York.

The effect of all these actions is that the United States and Czechoslovakia will have 12 - man diplomatic staffs in each other's capitals. The Czechs had already cut to 12 in response to an American order several weeks ago for a two-thirds slash in their official staff of 33. Czechoslovakia earlier had compelled a reduction of the Americans in Prague from 76 to 26.

ACHESON RETURNS TO U. S. CAPITOL

Truman Commends Secretary Of State For Job In Promoting Cooperation

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson returned today from cold war strategy talks in London to receive President Truman's congratulations on "a wonderful job" in promoting greater cooperation among the western powers.

Acheson himself said he was "encouraged by the progress made in the North Atlantic treaty organization and by the talks I have had with the foreign ministers in London."

He will report fully on his mission to the president and to congress next week.

Meanwhile, Acheson faces a heavy array of problems as reflected in the day's other diplomatic developments.

Shortly before he arrived here, the United States dealt—and received—another blow in its continuing battle with the Soviet satellite states over diplomatic representation.

The state department disclosed that the Communist government of Czechoslovakia had been told to close its consulate in New York within two weeks. At the same time it said the United States is closing its consulate in Bratislava and yielding to a Czech order to cut the American diplomatic staff in that country from 26 to 12 persons.

$200,000 Libel Suit Case Ends In Mistrial; Was Against Mrs. McCullough

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27.—(AP)—The federal court trial of a $200,000 libel suit by entertainers Paul Draper and Larry Adler against Mrs. Hester R. McCullough ended today in a jury disagreement.

The jury of eight women and four men was unable to decide whether Mrs. McCullough, wife of a Time magazine staff member, libeled Draper and Adler when she accused them of pro-Communist activities.

Lawyers for both sides said the case automatically will go back on the court calendar for re-trial at a later date.

Indications were that a second trial would not take place for at least a year.

Federal Judge J. Joseph Smith discharged the jury when it reported for a second time its failure to reach a verdict in deliberations that began at 12:30 p.m. (EST) yesterday.

The actual time spent in deliberating was more than 11 hours.

Draper, a dance stylist, and Adler, a harmonica vituoso, issued this statement after the jury was dismissed:

"We have truthfully told our whole lives to the jury. In the present climate of public opinion, the failure of this jury to be convinced of the truth of the charges which have been made against us is vindication of our loyalty."

Mrs. McCullough, in tears over the outcome, told reporters:

"Naturally I am greatly disappointed. I know, however, that the members of the jury gave the case their most earnest and careful consideration.

"I am grateful to Judge Smith for his patience and impartial conduct of the trial. I still feel that communism is the greatest threat to our American way of life."

The end of the month-long trial came at 2:50 p.m. (EST).

German Youngsters Stage Peaceful Demonstrations

Half Million Youths Play, Cheer In Greatest Spectacle Since Hitler

By Thomas A. Reedy

BERLIN, May 27.—(AP)—A half million East German youngsters played and cheered in Berlin's Soviet sector tonight in the greatest ideological spectacle here since Adolf Hitler. The climax to the show comes tomorrow in a Whitsuntide parade.

East-west incidents were few and isolated.

A burst of harmless gunfire rattled through the carnival air once during the day. The shooting apparently was intended to warn West Berlin police against pursuing Red Police who seized a west Berliner and made off with him into the Soviet sector. None was reported hurt.

A full round of assorted Communist activities was carried out by the marching and milling youth on the eve of their big day of obeisance to Kremlin political leadership.

The "free German Youth" (F. D. J.) rally, dedicated to friendship with Russia, started rolling without any show of an organized putsch against wary but quiet West Berlin. Allied armor stood ready to stop any mass intrusions.

Violence in the early stages was mainly vocal — taunting and catcalling across the cold war front

WORKING ON BILL FOR LA. SPENDING

Proposal Will Affect State's Expenditures For Next Two Years

BATON ROUGE, La., May 27.—(AP)—The state budget office was putting the finishing touches today on the general appropriation bill that will outline Louisiana's governmental spending during the next two fiscal years.

The bill is to be introduced tomorrow night when the legislature goes back into session after its long weekend.

The appropriations it calls for will not be disclosed until the bill is introduced. But Gov. Earl K. Long has announced a "hold the line" policy on both spending and taxation, opposing major reductions or increases, so presumably the total will be in the neighborhood of the $455,030,774 which the budget office estimates as the total state spending for recurrent expenses during the 1948-50 biennium.

The expenses, normally carried in the general appropriation bill, do not include special building and other "one-time" expenses like the veterans' bonus, which usually are financed by bond. issues.

Gov. Long today announced his support of certain pay raises proposed in a bill already introduced by administration floor leaders. The officials whose pay would be increased include the governor, lieutenant governor, justices of the state supreme court and judges of the courts of appeal, public service commissioners and director of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The raises would be effective during the terms of present incumbents.

In addition to the big appropriation measure, at least 400 bills are expected to be introduced tomorrow night. It is the deadline for introduction of legislation, except for constitutional amendment proposals, which may be brought in for ten more days.

Most of Gov. Long's program for the session is already before the lawmakers.

RUSSIAN MISSION LEAVES SUDDENLY

Chief, 48 Top Members Of Red Group Leave Japan For Moscow Sunday

TOKYO, Sunday, May 28.—(AP)—The chief and 48 top members of the Russian mission to Japan left suddenly for Moscow this morning, it was learned from authoritative quarters.

The party was headed by Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, who has engaged in a long running quarrel with General MacArthur over nearly every phase of the occupation.

The Russians sailed aboard a Soviet vessel which had just brought in 35 replacements, described by the informants as very junior military men.

(Where they sailed from and other details were not mentioned, but the 3 a. m. filing time of this dispatch indicated the Russians departed in the dead of night.)

The mysterious Soviet move took diplomatic circles by surprise. They noted that Derevyanko took his wife with him—something he has not done on the two other occasions in past years when he reported back to Moscow.

They also noted that the move left the Russian mission without any official of either military or civilian rank usual for such an assignment.

On one previous occasion the mission in Tokyo was left in charge of Jacob Malik, who since has become a major Soviet figure in international diplomacy; on the other, when Dervyanko was away for an entire year in 1947-48, Maj. Gen. A. P. Kislenko was acting chief.

Memorial Day Deaths Mounting In Nation

(By The Associated Press)

Chilly weather kept Memorial Day outings — and drownings — at a minimum Saturday, but highway fatalities mounted steadily in all sections of the country.

The weather was chilly in most sections except the southeast, as the nation began swinging into the four-day holiday week end.

The violent death toll since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday was 69, including 55 traffic deaths, six drownings and eight deaths from miscellaneous causes.

The national safety council forecast that 290 persons would be killed in highway accidents by Tuesday midnight. Heavy road traffic was expected. But Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said the figure could be cut in half "if motorists meet the holiday hazards with extra caution and courtesy."

U. S. Will Honor War Dead With Services On Tuesday

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—The nation will honor its war dead Tuesday in services at cemeteries at home and abroad where American servicemen lie buried.

General of the Army George C. Marshall will be the principal Memorial Day speaker at a five-hour observance at the Arlington, Va., national cemetery.

President Truman will be represented at this ceremony by Captain [illegible]iam Eisenhauer, a White House army aide. He will place the chief executive's wreaths on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War I and at the monuments to the Union and Confederate dead of the Civil War.

Senator Bricker (R.-Ohio) will give the address at Gettysburg, Pa., from the spot where President Abraham Lincoln dedicated the battlefield 85 years ago.

The armed forces plan to place an American flag at each grave in the national cemeteries in the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaii, and on graves in foreign countries where the war dead still rest.

The national cemeteries contain more than 581,000 graves. More than 3,000 World War I dead and approximately 94,000 dead of the last war lie in burial grounds overseas.

Maj. Gen. Roy H. Parker, army chief of chaplains, has sent the following prayer to all army chaplains for use on Memorial Day:

"Lead us to know that Thou hast set us to be guardians of the priceless liberty and freedom enjoyed by our nation during the past centurys. Give us unity of purpose, so that individually and collective we may strive to safeguard our nation's heritage."

LaFargue Says State Supporting Sen. Long

Opens Campaign By Charging Administration With Attempting To Set Up Slush Fund Influencing Election Of Governor's Nephew

MARKSVILLE, May 27.—(Special)—Malcolm E. LaFargue, Shreveport attorney, today formally opened his campaign for the United States Senate in his home town with the charges that the present state administration is attempting to set up a slush fund to influence the election of Senator Russell Long, nephew of the governor.

Speaking before an attentive audience of approximately 500, LaFargue said that there is no doubt in his mind that if the proposed switch of $10,000,000 from the state welfare fund to the highway fund is accomplished it will be used for a slush fund for political purposes.

LaFargue branded Senator Long as an advocate of 'creeping socialism', and warned the audience that if Long is returned to the senate he will continue to be an exponent of such a program.

Referring to Long as the 'temporary senator from Louisiana' LaFargue is carrying advocacy of nephew is carrying advocacy of the state administration's program into the senate.

'The prevalent practices of our state and federal governments are as much alike as two peas in a pod, and if the present Fair Deal program in Washington is allowed to continue it will inevitably lead us to complete socialism and economic slavery," LaFargue said.

Swinging into his 25 minute talk on high taxes and socialism, LaFargue opened with a quotation from Thomas Jefferson — 'To preserve our independence we must not let our rulers kid us with less perpetual debt. We must make our selection between economy and liberty or confusion and servitude: If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessitities and our comforts, in our labors and our amusements.'

These warning words of Jefferson have been completely disregarded and we are now paying taxes on everything from the cradle to the grave, LaFargue said.

LaFargue said that the same thing can be said of our state government. Taxes increased 52.8 per cent in the first fiscal year of the Long administration, of which 'the temporary senator' is an advocator and promoter. LaFargue said.

Louisiana now collects the highest per capita tax in the nation — 92.19 per head — and collects 50 per cent more taxes in relation to its citizens than the next closest state, he said.

The state collected approximately $239,000,000 in taxes during the 1949 fiscal year, including $40,000,000 for old age pensions and other welfare grants, he said. This did not include, LaFargue said, almost $44,000,000 in federal assistance for this program.

"Although this huge sum should be more than ample to care for such benefits, it is my information that we may expect drastic cuts to be made in both the old age pensions and relief payments," he said.

He told the audience that the country is headed for national bankruptcy, and it's up to the people to elect to the congress men who will oppose the practice of tax and spend.

The audience applauded when

PLAN TO LOWER VOTING AGE IN LA.

White, Wall And Kennedy Will Introduce Bill To Legislature Tonight

Trends toward youth in state government will be felt in the Louisiana Legslature Sunday night when three of the youngest members of the House of Representatives introduce a bill to give 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Representatives Shady R. Wall, 28, R. C. White, Jr., 29, both of Ouachita parish and Bob Kennedy, 25 of Union parish, will introduce a bill which would lower the franchise from 21, wher it has stood since Louisiana was admitted to the union, to 18.

Stressing that the bill is a joint venture, Wall said that the move was prompted by the conviction that 18 year-olds of today are as well equipped mentally to vote intelligently as were 21-year - olds when the present age limit was set.

"Certainly the interest in youth, as expressed in the will of the voters in sending so many young

Says State Postage Meter Used For Long's Campaign

SHREVEPORT, La., May 27.—(AP)—The Shreveport Times will say tomorrow that campaign literature in behalf of re-election of United States Senator Russell B. Long is being mailed from the state capitol in Baton Rouge with the postage paid through use of a departmental postage meter.

The Times will print a facsimile of an envelope received by a Caddo parish school board member and will state that its check shows that other members of the board received the same material, with the postage paid in the same way.

The Times is supporting one of Senator Long's opponents, Malcolm LaFargue. Two other candidates, J. Y. Fauntleroy and Newt Mills, are in the senatorial race.

In the upper left hand corner of the brown manila envelope is a return address reading: "State of Louisiana executive department, Baton Rouge, La.," the newspaper will say. In the upper right hand corner are two meter stamped statements of postage. Each reads "Louisiana official mail."

"This is not franking in the federal congressional sense", the Times states. "The postage on the Russell Long campaign material must be paid to the post office in cash by the state from its tax revenue."

The Times says that a reporter checked with the capitol post office at Baton Rouge and was told by an employe there that the mail in question "came from the governor's office". The reporter asked A. A. Fredericks, executive secretary to Governor Long, about the mailing and Fredericks said he knew nothing about it, the Times says. I then showed one of the letters to Senator Long and he said: "I know nothing about that."

The circular inside read at the top: "Register immediately or you won't be able to vote on July 25th. Russell B. Long, candidate for reelection to the United States senate and other prominent speakers will speak att the following places and will discuss issues of the day"

Then is listed Long's northwest Louisiana speaking engagements for the past few days, followed by the statement: "We urge you to come out and bring all your friends. This is a free country. Nothing will be said to offend anyone."

Secretary Of Commerce Gives Reason As "Interest Of Good Administration"

OFFICIALS IDENTIFIED ARE REMINGTON, MICHAEL LEE

By John B. Owen

WASHINGTON, May 27. — (AP) — Two commerce department officials whose loyalty has been questioned in congress must quit or face ouster action, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer decreed today.

But he quickly added the action is no reflection on their loyalty, noting their cases are pending before the department loyalty board. His announced reason: "In the interest of good administration."

The two men are William W. Remington and Michael J. Lee, both $10,000 a year men in the office of international trade.

The senate commerce committee is reported to have put pressure on Sawyer to fire Lee. Some senators have said the committee would launch an investigation of the department if Sawyer did not act.

Meantime the controversy over Senator McCarthy's charges of disloyalty in the state department blazed anew, with Attorney General McGrath comparing McCarthy's methods to Hitler's Gestapo technique. McCarthy retorted that the justice department screams "each time the congress tries to dig out Communists."

Remington announced that he would not quit under fire; that he would see the fight through. He recently was questioned by the house un-American activities committee in a renewal of charges that he once was a Communist. He flatly denied it.

Lee, chief of the department's Far Eastern branch, has been under attack by Senator Malone (R.-Nev.) who called for his removal as a poor security risk. The senator contended that Lee impeded the flow of aviation gasoline to

A burst of harmless gunfire rattled through the carnival air once during the day. The shooting apparently was intended to warn West Berlin police against pursuing Red Police who seized a west Berliner and made off with him into the Soviet sector. None was reported hurt.

A full round of assorted Communist activities was carried out by the marching and milling youth on the eve of their big day of obeisance to Kremlin political leadership.

The "free German Youth" (F. D. J.) rally, dedicated to friendship with Russia, started rolling without any show of an organized putsch against way but quiet West Berlin. Allied armor stood ready to stop any mass intrusions.

Violence in the early stages was mainly vocal — taunting and catcalling across the cold war front

Proposal Will Affect State's Expenditures For Next Two Years

BATON ROUGE, La., May 27.—(AP)—The state budget office was putting the finishing touches today on the general appropriation bill that will outline Louisiana's governmental spending during the next two fiscal years.

The bill is to be introduced tomorrow night when the legislature goes back into session after its long weekend.

The appropriations it calls for will not be disclosed until the bill is introduced. But Gov. Earl K. Long has announced a "hold the line" policy on both spending and taxation, opposing major reductions or increases, so presumably the total will be in the neighborhood of the $455,030,774 which the budget office estimates as the total state spending for recurrent expenses during the 1948-50 biennium.

The expenses, normally carried in the general appropriation bill, do not include special building and other "one-time" expenses like the veterans' bonus, which usually are financed by bond issues.

Gov. Long today announced his support of certain pay raises proposed in a bill already introduced by administration floor leaders. The officials whose pay would be increased include the governor, lieutenant governor, justices of the state supreme court and judges of the courts of appeal, public service commissioners and director of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. The raises would be effective during the terms of present incumbents.

In addition to the big appropriation measure, at least 400 bills are expected to be introduced tomorrow night. It is the deadline for introduction of legislation, except for constitutional amendment proposals, which may be brought in for ten more days.

Most of Gov. Long's program for the session is already before the lawmakers.

RUSSIAN MISSION LEAVES SUDDENLY

TOKYO, Sunday, May 28.—(AP)—The chief and 48 top members of the Russian mission to Japan left suddenly for Moscow this morning, it was learned from authoritative quarters.

The party was headed by Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, who has engaged in a long running quarrel with General MacArthur over nearly every phase of the occupation.

The Russians sailed aboard a Soviet vessel which had just brought in 35 replacements, described by the informants as very junior military men.

(Where they sailed from and other details were not mentioned, but the 3 a. m. filing time of this dispatch indicated the Russians departed in the dead of night.)

The mysterious Soviet move took diplomatic circles by surprise. They noted that Derevyanko took his wife with him—something he has not done on the two other occasions in past years when he reported back to Moscow.

They also noted that the move left the Russian mission without any official of either military or civilian rank usual for such an assignment.

On one previous occasion the mission in Tokyo was left in charge of Jacob Malik, who since has become a major Soviet figure in international diplomacy; on the other, when Dervyanko was away for an entire year in 1947-48, Maj. Gen. A. P. Kislenko was acting chief.

Memorial Day Deaths Mounting In Nation

(By The Associated Press)

Chilly weather kept Memorial Day outings — and drownings — at a minimum Saturday, but highway fatalities mounted steadily in all sections of the country.

The weather was chilly in most sections except the southeast, as the nation began swinging into the four-day holiday week end.

The violent death toll since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday was 69, including 55 traffic deaths, six drownings and eight deaths from miscellaneous causes.

The national safety council forecast that 290 persons would be killed in highway accidents by Tuesday midnight. Heavy road traffic was expected. But Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said the figure could be cut in half "if motorists meet the holiday hazards with extra caution and courtesy."

U. S. Will Honor War Dead With Services On Tuesday

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—The nation will honor its war dead Tuesday in services at cemeteries at home and abroad where American servicemen lie buried.

General of the Army George C. Marshall will be the principal Memorial Day speaker at a five-hour observance at the Arlington, Va., national cemetery.

President Truman will be represented at this ceremony by Captain [illegible]iam Eisenhauer, a White House army aide. He will place the chief executive's wreaths on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of World War I and at the monuments to the Union and Confederate dead of the Civil War.

Senator Bricker (R.-Ohio) will give the address at Gettysburg, Pa., from the spot where President Abraham Lincoln dedicated the battlefield 85 years ago.

The armed forces plan to place an American flag at each grave in the national cemeteries in the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Hawaii, and on graves in foreign countries where the war dead still rest.

The national cemeteries contain more than 581,000 graves. More than 3,000 World War I dead and approximately 94,000 dead of the last war lie in burial grounds overseas.

Maj. Gen. Roy H. Parker, army chief of chaplains, has sent the following prayer to all army chaplains for use on Memorial Day:

"Lead us to know that Thou hast set us to be guardians of the priceless liberty and freedom enjoyed by our nation during the past centuries. Give us unity of purpose, so that individually and collective we may strive to safeguard our nation's heritage."

LaFargue Says State Supporting Sen. Long

Opens Campaign By Charging Administration With Attempting To Set Up Slush Fund Influencing Election Of Governor's Nephew

MARKSVILLE, May 27.—(Special)—Malcolm E. LaFargue, Shreveport attorney, today formally opened his campaign for the United States Senate in his home town with the charges that the present state administration is attempting to set up a slush fund to influence the election of Senator Russell Long, nephew of the governor.

Speaking before an attentive audience of approximately 500, LaFargue said that there is no doubt in his mind that if the proposed switch of $10,000,000 from the state welfare fund to the highway fund is accomplished it will be used for a slush fund for political purposes.

LaFargue branded Senator Long as an advocate of 'creeping socialism', and warned the audience that if Long is returned to the senate he will continue to be an exponent of such a program.

Referring to Long as the 'temporary senator from Louisiana' LaFargue is carrying advocacy of nephew is carrying advocacy of the state administration's program into the senate.

"The prevalent practices of our state and federal governments are as much alike as two peas in a pod, and if the present Fair Deal program in Washington is allowed to continue it will inevitably lead us to complete socialism and economic slavery," LaFargue said.

Swinging into his 25 minute talk on high taxes and socialism, LaFargue opened with a quotation from Thomas Jefferson — 'To preserve our independence we must not let our rulers kid us with less perpetual debt. We must make our selection between economy and liberty or confusion and servitude. If we run into such debts, we must be taxed in our meat and drink, in our necessities and our comforts, in our labors and our amusements.'

These warning words of Jefferson have been completely disregarded and we are now paying taxes on everything from the cradle to the grave, LaFargue said.

LaFargue said that the same thing can be said of our state government. Taxes increased 52.8 per cent in the first fiscal year of the Long administration, of which 'the temporary senator' is an advocator and promoter. LaFargue said.

Louisiana now collects the highest per capita tax in the nation — 92.19 per head — and collects 50 per cent more taxes in relation to its citizens than the next closest state, he said.

The state collected approximately $239,000,000 in taxes during the 1949 fiscal year, including $40,000,000 for old age pensions and other welfare grants, he said. This did not include, LaFargue said, almost $44,000,000 in federal assistance for this program.

"Although this huge sum should be more than ample to care for such benefits, it is my information that we may expect drastic cuts to be made in both the old age pensions and relief payments," he said.

He told the audience that the country is headed for national bankruptcy, and it's up to the people to elect to the congress men who will oppose the practice of tax and spend.

The audience applauded when

PLAN TO LOWER VOTING AGE IN LA.

White, Wall And Kennedy Will Introduce Bill To Legislature Tonight

Trends toward youth in state government will be felt in the Louisiana Legislature Sunday night when three of the youngest members of the House of Representatives introduce a bill to give 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Representatives Shady R. Wall, 28, R. C. White, Jr., 29, both of Ouachita parish and Bob Kennedy, 25 of Union parish, will introduce a bill which would lower the franchise from 21, wher it has stood since Louisiana was admitted to the union, to 18.

Stressing that the bill is a joint venture, Wall said that the move was prompted by the conviction that 18 year-olds of today are as well equipped mentally to vote intelligently as were 21-year - olds when the present age limit was set.

"Certainly the interest in youth, as expressed in the will of the voters in sending so many young

A group of boys from Northeast Junior college on adventure bent, coupled with financial returns that are promising, are to leave shortly for a summer in Alaska. That is they hope to be able to carry out their project in the far north. They will first proceed to Seattle, Wash. where they will apply for work on an extensive highway construction project of the government. If they are able to secure the desired employment, they will have their transportation paid to Alaska and the job, with adequate pay, will last through the summer season.

The experience of seeing and doing something different has intrigued them and when they return in early fall to resume studies they expect to have some rare experiences to relate. The collegians are as follows: Gene Grayson, John Cannoh, J. D'Lujac, John Rudd, Bill Escue, and Fisher Massingale.

Says State Postage Meter Used For Long's Campaign

SHREVEPORT, La., May 27.—(AP)—The Shreveport Times will say tomorrow that campaign literature in behalf of re-election of United States Senator Russell B. Long is being mailed from the state capitol in Baton Rouge with the postage paid through use of a departmental postage meter.

The Times will print a facsimile of an envelope received by a Caddo parish school board member and will state that its check shows that other members of the board received the same material, with the postage paid in the same way.

The Times is supporting one of Senator Long's opponents, Malcolm LaFargue. Two other candidates, J. Y. Fauntleroy and Newt Mills, are in the senatorial race.

In the upper left hand corner of the brown manila envelope is a return address reading: "State of Louisiana executive department, Baton Rouge, La.," the newspaper will say. In the upper right hand corner are two meter stamped statements of postage. Each reads "Louisiana official mail."

"This is not franking in the federal congressional sense", the Times states. "The postage on the Russell Long campaign material must be paid to the post office in cash by the state from its tax revenue."

The Times says that a reporter checked with the capitol post office at Baton Rouge and was told by an employe there that the mail in question "came from the governor's office". The reporter asked A. A. Fredericks, executive secretary to Governor Long, about the mailing and Fredericks said he knew nothing about it, the Times says. He then showed one of the letters to Senator Long and he said: "I know nothing about that."

The circular inside read at the top: "Register immediately or you won't be able to vote on July 25th. Russell B. Long, candidate for reelection to the United States senate and other prominent speakers will speak at the following places and will discuss issues of the day" Then is listed Long's northwest Louisiana speaking engagements for the past few days, followed by the statement: "We urge you to come out and bring all your friends. This is a free country. Nothing will be said to offend anyone."

PRESSURE USED

By John B. Owen

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP) — Two commerce department officials whose loyalty has been questioned in congress must quit or face ouster action, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer decreed today.

But he quickly added the action is no reflection on their loyalty, noting their cases are pending before the department loyalty board. His announced reason: "In the interest of good administration."

The two men are William W. Remington and Michael J. Lee, both $10,000 a year men in the office of international trade.

The senate commerce committee is reported to have put pressure on Sawyer to fire Lee. Some senators have said the committee would launch an investigation of the department if Sawyer did not act.

Meantime the controversy over Senator McCarthy's charges of disloyalty in the state department blazed anew, with Attorney General McGrath comparing McCarthy's methods to Hitler's Gestapo technique. McCarthy retorted that the justice department screams "each time the congress tries to dig out Communists."

Remington announced that he would not quit under fire; that he would see the fight through. He recently was questioned by the house un-American activities committee in a renewal of charges that he once was a Communist. He flatly denied it.

Lee, chief of the department's Far Eastern branch, has been under attack by Senator Malone (R.-Nev.) who called for his removal as a poor security risk. The senator contended that Lee impeded the flow of aviation gasoline to

SAYS DEMOCRATS ARE MORE UNITED

Vice-President Says Democratic Party Looks Forward, G. O. P. Looks Behind

AUSTIN, Tex., May 27.—(AP)—Vice-President Barkley said tonight that the Democratic Party despite its differences is more united than Republicans because "we look forward instead of backward."

Barkley praised the Democratic legislative record from Grover Cleveland to Harry S. Truman at a party rally in this southern Democratic state where some of the administration's ideas have had strong opposition.

Barkley paraded "this great record of progressive legislation and administration" but observed that war had interrupted the party's "domestic program of rehabilitation." And he noted the heavy burdens of the cold war.

Nevertheless, he said, "we have enjoyed a prosperity which is unequalled in any period of our history."

"Republican mouthpieces claim we are on the road to bankruptcy and we are on the last mile toward the police state," he said, adding:

"No nation is on its road to bankruptcy whose people enjoy a national income of $220,000,000,000 a year. . .which in one year produced $250,000,000,000 worth of goods and services for which it finds a ready market. . .which has more than $100,000,000,000 of savings. . .which finds 60,000,000 people employed at higher wages than ever before."

Addressing a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, Barkley declared his party "has written into the statutes of this nation a greater record of progressive legislation than all other political parties combined."

The vice-president praised the records of the administrations of President Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt and assailed those of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover which he said started "the great era of public corruption". . . and "the greatest depression and debacle in the history of the nation."

Speaking of disagreements within his party, Barkley said: "We may have some individual differences over issues that are vital, or seem vital to many groups of people, but in spite of these are more completely united than any political party that offers us opposition."

'LIBERTY BELL' TO ARRIVE HERE

Fred Fudickar, Jr., chairman of the Ouachita Parish Volunteer Savings Bond Committee announced yesterday the Liberty Bell replica will be displayed in Monroe June 8 and 9th in connection with the U. S. Savings Bonds Independence Drive.

The liberty bell will be exhibited on a downtown street, Fudickar said, to spotlight sales activities

He pointed out that the liberty bell now touring the state is one of 52 exact replicas of the Liberty Bell made to highlight the drive. Six of America's copper producers volunteered to have exact replicas made when Secretary of Treasury, John W. Snyder announced that the Independence Bond Drive would be symbolized by the liberty bell.

This liberty Bell will be given to Louisiana at the conclusion of the drive. The bell to be seen and heard in Monroe during its appearance, is exactly like the original Liberty Bell, even to its tone.

Fudickar asserted that the purpose of the Liberty Bell replica is to make Americans aware that by buying U. S. Savings Bonds they further their hopes of a financially independent future.

He added that the Treasury Department is conducting a national stimulation bond drive to increase public participation in the bond program and awareness of the opportunity Savings Bonds afford.

Defense Board Likes Canada's Jet Plane

TORONTO, May 27.—(AP)— The Canada-U. S. permanent joint defense board today watched Canada's Avro CF-100 jet fighter in action. They said they liked what they saw.

The big black $4,000,000 fighter—hailed as the world's most powerful — gave an impressive display of speed and maneuverability above suburban Malton airport.

But it wasn't only its speed—rated in excess of 600 miles an hour —which impressed. Naval observers among some 30 of the experts entrusted with the defense of Nort America watched it fly by at 110 miles an hour and tagged it as a good carrier aircraft.

Ten CF-100s are said to be in production.

NEGRO SCOUTING IS PROGRESSING

Chairman S. K. Heninger Is Pleased With Way Both Races Assist

Funds received from the Twin City Communisty Chest have made it possible for the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council to greatly improve and expand its program for Negro boys in Monroe and West Monroe during the past several months. S. K. Heninger, chairman of the council's interracial committee, in expressing appreciation for these funds which have made this work among Negro boys possible cited progress which has been made in the interracial Scouting work in the Twin Cities.

According to Mr. Heninger, more Negro boys of the Twin Cities are Scouts now than i nany period in the council's history. In Monroe and West Monroe, 218 Scouts and 22 Cub Scouts are active in nine units. These troops and packs are supervisd by the Keystone Division, which is made up of outstanding Negro men in Monroe. B. D. Robinson is chairman of this group.

The Keystone Division has organized five new Scout units this year. In addition to this organization work, thse Scouters have conducted training courses, courts of honor and camporees for the Scouts and leaders of the division.

Plans are now being formulated for a week's camp for these Negro Scouts. A very successful camp was conducted near Sterlington last year for this group and increased interest in the program should build up camp attendance greatly this year.

All Negro troops in Monroe and West Monroe are well uniformed and have participated in several community service projects. Leaders of these troops meet monthly to receive training offered by the Ouachita Valley Council and to coordinate program plans. Several boys from these troops are making plans to attend the National Scout Jamboree to be held at Valley Forge, Pa., this summer

Several additional Scout troops are being planned for Negro boys during 1950 and membership in present units is expected to rise sharply as activities are increased.

Scouting has been a great help in giving proper training for Negro boys in this area. Continued cooperation by all citizens in the Twin Cities will make it possible to give a better Scout program to more Negro boys.

Negro Scout units within the Twin Cities are as follows: Troop 61, sponsored by the True Vine Baptist Church; Troop 62, sponsored by the Zion Travelers Baptist Church; Troop 63, sponsored by the Pinney Grove Baptist Church; Troop 64, sponsored by American Legion Pos tNo. 521; Troop 66, sponsored by the Progressive Baptist Church; Troop 68, sponsored by Riverside Baptist Church; Pack 61, sponsored by True Vine Baptist Church; Pack 62, sponsored by Zion Travelers Baptist Church; Pack 66, sponsored by Progressive Baptist Church.

REVIVAL IS SLATED

There will be a Revival Meeting conducted at Dyers Chapel C. M. E. Church, West Monroe, Louisiana, Sunday May 28 through June 4. The Rev. James T. Johnson, B. Th. of Jackson, Tennessee will be the evangelist. The public is invited to attend.

Many scientists classify this as an era of electronics, successor to the industrial turnover that came in the previous decade.

'LIBERTY BELL' TO ARRIVE HERE

Fred Fudickar, Jr., chairman of the Ouachita Parish Volunteer Savings Bond Committee announced yesterday the Liberty Bell replica will be displayed in Monroe June 8 and 9th in connection with the U. S. Savings Bonds Independence Drive.

The liberty bell will be exhibited on a downtown street, Fudickar said, to spotlight sales activities

He pointed out that the liberty bell now touring the state is one of 52 exact replicas of the Liberty Bell made to highlight the drive. Six of America's copper producers volunteered to have exact replicas made when Secretary of Treasury, John W. Snyder announced that the Independence Bond Drive would be symbolized by the liberty bell.

This liberty Bell will be given to Louisiana at the conclusion of the drive. The bell to be seen and heard in Monroe during its appearance, is exactly like the original Liberty Bell, even to its tone.

Fudickar asserted that the purpose of the Liberty Bell replica is to make Americans aware that by buying U. S. Savings Bonds they further their hopes of a financially independent future.

He added that the Treasury Department is conducting a national stimulation bond drive to increase public participation in the bond program and awareness of the opportunity Savings Bonds afford.

Defense Board Likes Canada's Jet Plane

TORONTO, May 27.—(AP)— The Canada-U. S. permanent joint defense board today watched Canada's Avro CF-100 jet fighter in action. They said they liked what they saw.

The big black $4,000,000 fighter—hailed as the world's most powerful — gave an impressive display of speed and maneuverability above suburban Malton airport.

But it wasn't only its speed—rated in excess of 600 miles an hour—which impressed. Naval observers among some 30 of the experts entrusted with the defense of Nort America watched it fly by at 110 miles an hour and tagged it as a good carrier aircraft.

Ten CF-100s are said to be in production.

NEGRO SCOUTING IS PROGRESSING

Chairman S. K. Heninger Is Pleased With Way Both Races Assist

Funds received from the Twin City Communisty Chest have made it possible for the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council to greatly improve and expand its program for Negro boys in Monroe and West Monroe during the past several months. S. K. Heninger, chairman of the council's interracial committee, in expressing appreciation for these funds which have made this work among Negro boys possible cited progress which has been made in the interracial Scouting work in the Twin Cities.

According to Mr. Heninger, more Negro boys of the Twin Cities are Scouts now than i nany period in the council's history. In Monroe and West Monroe, 218 Scouts and 22 Cub Scouts are active in nine units. These troops and packs are supervisd by the Keystone Division, which is made up of outstanding Negro men in Monroe. B. D. Robinson is chairman of this group.

The Keystone Division has organized five new Scout units this year. In addition to this organization work, thse Scouters have conducted training courses, courts of honor and camporees for the Scouts and leaders of the division.

Plans are now being formulated for a week's camp for these Negro Scouts. A very successful camp was conducted near Sterlington last year for this group and increased interest in the program should build up camp attendance greatly this year.

All Negro troops in Monroe and West Monroe are well uniformed and have participated in several community service projects. Leaders of these troops meet monthly to receive training offered by the Ouachita Valley Council and to coordinate program plans. Several boys from these troops are making plans to attend the National Scout Jamboree to be held at Valley Forge, Pa., this summer

Several additional Scout troops are being planned for Negro boys during 1950 and membership in present units is expected to rise sharply as activities are increased.

Scouting has been a great help in giving proper training for Negro boys in this area. Continued cooperation by all citizens in the Twin Cities will make it possible to give a better Scout program to more Negro boys.

Negro Scout units within the Twin Cities are as follows: Troop 61, sponsored by the True Vine Baptist Church; Troop 62, sponsored by the Zion Travelers Baptist Church; Troop 63, sponsored by the Pinney Grove Baptist Church; Troop 64, sponsored by American Legion Pos tNo. 521; Troop 66, sponsored by the Progressive Baptist Church; Troop 68, sponsored by Riverside Baptist Church; Pack 61, sponsored by True Vine Baptist Church; Pack 62, sponsored by Zion Travelers Baptist Church; Pack 66, sponsored by Progressive Baptist Church.

REVIVAL IS SLATED

There will be a Revival Meeting conducted at Dyers Chapel C. M. E. Church, West Monroe, Louisiana, Sunday May 28 through June 4. The Rev. James T. Johnson, B. Th. of Jackson, Tennessee will be the evangelist. The public is invited to attend.

Many scientists classify this as an era of electronics, successor to the industrial turnover that came in the previous decade.

No Patent On 'American Dream'

President Truman says he wants the Republican Party to be a healthy opposition force. But it's not clear from this that he's entirely sold on an effective two-party system.

The President currently is casting himself in the role of the nation's No. 1 booster. He is talking in glowing terms of the country's future.

But he tells the people this future is only realizable through the Democratic party which he heads. His party, he says, is the party of the American dream—the repository of all our great hopes. According to Mr. Truman, this is not only true now; it has always been so.

Apparently Mr. Truman conceives of an opposition party as one which merely shall serve as a check upon the mistakes and excesses of a continuously dominant Democratic Party. It's hard to read any other meaning into his words.

But tolerance of a "loyal opposition" is not endorsement of the two-party system. It's one-party talk and nothing else.

A second party which is not qualified to hold power itself and is not rated worthy of advancing the American dream is not an effective contributor to two-party government.

It's a strange outlook that assumes members of an opposition party should be allowed to do everything but hold office. Yet that's the logic of Mr. Truman's insistence that all hope lies with the Democrats. He isn't alone in this kind of thinking, either. Many national figures follow a similar line.

One need not defend any particular Republican, or the Republican Party at any particular time, to insist upon equal access to power for the G.O.P.—or any second party of major strength.

The American dream is not the private preserve of the Democratic Party. It belongs to the whole people. They should be able to exercise their right of free choice between political parties, policies and men without forfeiting that dream.

Civil Service

Two bills to restore civil service—raped and emasculated by the 1948 legislature of the Long state administration—have been introduced in the present session. One is sponsored by the Louisiana Civil Service League, the other by the state administration and with the personal blessing and staunch backing of Governor Long in person.

The two bills differ chiefly in three points: (1)—The method of naming the civil service commission, which would administer the act if it is approved by the electorate as a constitutional amendment; (2)—In the method of selecting the civil service personnel director, who would be the executive director of the civil service; and (3)—In the scope of functions of the civil service commission.

The League's bill provides for a commission of six, named by the governor from a panel submitted by the various colleges of Louisiana, the commission in turn to name the personnel director and to have broad leeway in administration. The governor's bill centralizes control, or a semi-control, over the commission and over civil service in the governor personally by having him name members from a panel submitted by state employes, plus the right for him to name one member independently, plus the right to name the personnel director. The administration bill also leaves far less leeway of administration to the commission than does the League's bill.

State Senator Robert Ainsworth of New Orleans, sponsor of the League's bill, says the Long administration bill is "more vicious than no civil service at all—it's murder."

Theo Cangelosi, state highway department general counsel and a Long administration cog, says Governor Long is afraid the League's bill would bring a commission with a majority made up of "the governor's political enemies."

In our opinion, there is no reason to believe that a commission of six selected, by the governor himself, from a much larger list drawn up in the various colleges, would be politicalized in any way, or necessarily would be anti-Long. We know of no college or university head in Louisiana who is in any way active politically in an anti-Long manner.

As a matter of fact, the Long bill seems aimed at doing, in reverse, exactly what the governor says he is "afraid" the other bill might do. Under it a group of Long administration underlings, holding political posts because of political loyalty to the governor and his political machine, would submit a list from which he would name two of the members of a five-man commission; he personally would select a third without recommendation being required from anyone. Thus, he would name a majority of the board in political manner, and in addition would name the director of personnel. The League's bill would provide an impartially named commission and then let the commission select its personnel didector, via competitive examination.

The Long bill abandons the finer principle of civil service in the very naming of those who would be trusted with placing civil service at a high level and keeping it there. The evil in this is not that Earl K. Long would have this authority at inception of the renewal of civil service, but that this method would be cemented into the state consitution and would be available for thoroughly evil purposes by future governors when occasion should arise for appointment of new commission members and/or a new personnel director.

Governor Long pledged himself in his 1948 campaign to protection and retention of civil service. Instead, his administration in its first months in office destroyed civil service. A few days ago he pledged himself to a renewal of civil service, with the further pledge that the renewal would retain most of the Sam Jones civil service law, with none of the fundamental good of that law removed. In conferences seeking a bill on which all could agree for action by the present session of the legislature, the governor acted commendably in yielding to the League by having his own measure include submission of civil service to the people as a constitutional amendment, instead of being statutory renewal only.

But, now, he is proposing that this constitutional amendment be in the nature of a factional and power-centralizing weapon, when civil service is supposed to be just the opposite.

Whether the administration's bill is "murder," as Senator Ainsworth says, may be debated by some, but definitely it does open the way to destruction of the very values in government employment that it pretends to protect. It does this in even further degree in provisions which would permit appointments to political posts to be made from the barely-qualified instead from among the best qualified—another step toward political machine control of appointments in a field where the purpose is to remove political control and institute a system of appointment of the best qualified.

In New York

WALTER WINCHELL

Mr. and Mrs. United States!

The meanest, dirtiest steal since Teapot Dome is being planned in Washington right now. ... It's a complicated deal. So complicated that those who want to rob the sick figure the folks are too dumb to understand what it's all about. Here are the facts.

Your health is at stake. If the fast shuffle is put over, ten million cancer victims, arthritis victims and sufferers from other diseases will have to pay more — much more — for the new, miracle, steroid drugs like Pregnenelone.

These drugs are covered by patents, hundreds of them, which were owned by the Nazi Schering Corporation of Bloomfield, N. J. ... The government seized Schering, along with all other Nazi assets in this country, back in 1942. ... President Roosevelt ordered that Schering's patents "be made freely available to American industry" eight long years ago. But Schering, although controlled by the government itself and operated by government appointed directors and officers—did not bother to put the president's order into effect.

Four years ago, under President Truman, the government again decided to insist that ex-Nazi firms taken over by the government be required to license their patents to other manufacturers, to prevent monopoly and create competition. Still nothing much happened at Schering.

Three years ago Albert Q. Maisel was sent by the Reader's Digest to investigate the government's operation of the Schering outfit. He found that Roosevelt's order was not being carried out. He told the facts to David L. Bazelon, newly-appointed Ass't Att'y Gen'l in Charge of Alien Property. Bazelon went to bat for the people and got Att'y Gen'l Tom Clark to announce a policy of making more than 6,000 "captive" patents available for use by all industry. This included the Schering hormone patents that vitally a f f e c t your health. ... That was on December 18th, 1947. But still Schering did not license these patents to other drug firms.

Last Summer, after nearly two more years of stalling, the government-owned Schering outfit at last began to obey the government's orders that gathered dust, so much useless paper, for years and years and years. It agreed to license other drug firms for a neat 5 per cent — to market a number of horomones, including Pregnenelone, one of the health drugs that have ecome so important for arthritics. ... It issued a few licenses. Then it stopped. ... When other major American drug firms applied for licenses they could not ge tthem. No one could understand why.

Last Monday Maisel found out why. Tom Clark had been promoted to the supreme court. ... Bazelon had been made a justice of the court of appeals. ... Harold I. Baynton had become acting director of the Office of Alien Property. ... Maisel asked Baynton: "Is a change in patent policy being planned by your office?"

Said Baynton: "We have had a new policy under consideration for some time."

"Does that account for why Schering has been holding up licenses on its hormone patents?" Maisel asked.

"No new licenses are being issued," Baynton replied.

"Then the new policy is actually in effect?" Maisel queried.

"Well, it could be interpreted that way. We have made a recomendation to the attorney general and it's awaiting his action."

What's behind all this? ... The government is about to sell Schering to private interests. ... Dillon, Read and Company has actually filed plans with the S. E. C. looking toward a stock flotation for the new owners of Schering. ... If the patent license policy ordered by Roosevelt, by Truman, by Tom Clark and by Bazelon can be reversed, the new, private owners of Schering would get a monopoly control over hundreds of health drugs. . . . They could refuse to license anybody to use them. They could charge all the traffic would bear. ... They could block research against cancer, Arthritis and other diseases. They could make a cool hundred million bucks, which the sick and suffering victims would have to pay!

There's nothing wrong with the government selling Schering, its plants and offices and equipment and accounts. ... But, before it sells, it should make sure that the patents on health drugs, which two presidents have dedicated to the people, are not bottled up once again to be milked and monopolized by a single firm

How about it, Att'y Gen'l McGrath? . . . Are the wise boys trying to put over a fast one on you and the president and the people? ... Haven't they, in fact, actually reversed your policy by stopping the issuance of licenses for the Schering, patents? ... Does not your own Anti-Trust Division violently oppose this monopoly creating low pitch?

Isn't it time that Schering, supposed to be controlled and owned by the U. S. government, begins to obey the orders of the president and the attorney general? ... Who is running Schering, anyhow, you or the people who plan to buy it?

Washington Is Talking About: Where all that big money came from (and went to) on the big Democratic celebration for the president in Chicago. ... The good chance of reduction in capital gains. ... The secret conferences between big labor chiefs—not only about a single organization — but backing Truman in '52. ... The white hair the White House is sprouting about the 5th Column Issue. ... The Serge Rubenstein explosion due for an airing before election day. ... The grand jury indictments coming down in a blizzard. The justice Dept. has 3,600 indictable cases of espionage and 12,000 dangerous suspects on its lists. ... The Vatican being puzzled by the White House's failure to appoint a presidential representative; a vacancy causing circles. ... The next big blow up of an Iron Curtain ambassador. It is expected south of the Border. ... Mexico City soon in the headlines. When another ambassador refuses to go home to the Soviet firing squad. ... The chill between the Veep and Mr. Big. Outsiders do not notice it, but the popular Mr. Barkley knows Truman's inner circle wants him to retire from the '52 ticket "because of his age."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE SAME OLD CROWD

Back in 1946, Senator Burton K. Wheeler ran for re-election to the United States senate from the state of Montana. Nobody doubted that he would be re-elected. Senator Wheeler had had an outstanding career. He had served in the senate 24 years. He was known as a liberal; had even been close to Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had wanted him to run with him as vice-president.

It soon developed that it was not going to be so easy for Senator Wheeler. Something nasty had come into the state of Montana. A filthy biography about Senator Wheeler came upon the scene—something so disgusting that it was unbelievable. He was smeared all over the state. Vast sums of money were hurled at him.

Senator Wheeler's crime was that his position on World War II was not the one that a New York group of internationalists favored. The fact that, in 1950, it is possible to say that the preponderance of evidence shows that much that Senator Wheeler had said about what the war would do to the United States and to the world has turned out to be correct, of course, did not matter in that campaign. Wheeler was defeated.

Now along comes the "committee on national affairs," the chairman of which is Frederick C. McKee. Richard J. Cronan is vice-chairman; Westmore Willcox, Jr., treasurer; Arthur J. Goldsmith, secretary.

This committee has issued a circular which states:

"In 1946 we played a major part in defeating Senator Wheeler of Montana, leader of the extreme isolationist bloc, and in 1948 we were mainly instrumental in defeating Senator Revercomb of West Virginia, leader of the extreme reactionary group."

None of these gentlemen is a citizen of Montana, so far as I can learn. They are not citizens of West Virginia, which Senator Revercomb represented. They head a committee which consists principally of New Yorkers. They raise money to influence elections outside of New York state.

In this same circular, they indicate that they plan to invade Navada to effect the defeat of Senator Pat McCarran. It says:

"In Nevada Senator McCarran is seeking re-election—he was primarily responsible for obstructing equitable legislation for the admission of Displaced Persons."

I also want to quote the end of the circular:

"Alone, you can do little; with others of like views, you can do much. Through the committee on national affairs you can help effectively to determine the character of the next senate.

"We need your support so that we can help elect the kind of

In Washington

The conviction long held by his admirers that Thomas Jefferson was the American counterpart of Leonardo da Vinci, who did everything from invent the wheelbarrow to paint the Mona Lisa, has been sustained by publication of the great collection of papers of the sage of Monticello, whom many believe to have been the greatest American up to now.

The amazing thing about Jefferson is that almost every letter he wrote from 1775 on has been saved. The third president of the United States carefully noted in a little book all correspondence received and all that was answered. Only two per cent of the letters listed in the notebook were ever destroyed or lost by receipients. Consequently the Jefferson collection includes 18,000 letters, hundreds of them historically priceless.

In contrast, Jared Sparks, who prepared the first edition of George Washington's writings, was allowed to take the papers with him to Cambridge, Mass., while he was preparing the edition. Before he returned them to Mount Vernon, he distributed a large number to friends as mementoes and many were permanently lost.

The vast range of Jefferson's knowledge was illustrated by the disclosure in the letters that when workmen excavating for a new house in Virginia uncovered the bones of an extinct species of mammoth, many thousands of years old, Jefferson had them shipped to Washington and spread out in the east room of the white house. There he spent days trying to put them together.

His correspondence reveals that he shipped them to the national academy of science in Paris, where they astonished French scholars, as proof of the antiquity of the North American continent.

Jefferson also was an expert in forming and breaking down codes. His letters reveal that he developed a device in cryptography known as the "wheel cipher," which was not put into use by the U. S. army until 1920. When it was tried, army intelligence officers reported it should have been adopted 120 years earlier.

Descendants of the Otoe Indian tribe, who now live near Ponca City, Okla. still have the letter of friendship which Jefferson gave them when they visited Washington in 1805, to see the "Great White Chief," of whom they had learned through the Lewis and Clark expedition. Before they would permit researchers working on the present collection to photostat the letter, tribal leaders demanded a formal agreement in writing that it would be returned in a week.

The 18,000 letters seem a lot, but a modern president might sign that many in a year. It is not unusual for 100 letters a day to go out bearing his signature, and only a fraction of those would actually be written by the president. In addition, today's presidents transact much of their business by phone, with no recordings. However, contemporary annals are much more complete in separating important from routine correspondence.

Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.-Ill.) is now referred by his colleagues as "shoeless Paul," because on a trip to Chicago to participate in the Truman rally there he woke up on the train to find his shoes missing. He had left them outside his compartment to be polished. First he accused some of his traveling companions of kidding him, but finally accepted the loss, trudged up the long station platform in this stocking feet.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

WESTERN MILITARY INTEGRATION

r Most editors favor some effective degree of integration of the military forces of the North Atlantic Pact Nations, along the general lines proposed at the recent London Conference of Foreign Ministers. And majority opinion is hopeful that some such plan can be effected. But a large minority, including the small group definitely opposing any such idea, doubts that the pact nations will surrender, in sufficient degree to achieve any effective integration, their sovereign right to decide the nature and balance of their individual armed forces.

New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times (Ind.): "By establishing the Atlantic High Command as military vanguard of the North Atlantic Council, the 12 foreign ministers have vitalized the rather loosely-knit principles under which they banded together. . . . No longer will the individual nations be compelled to maintain their own versions of b a l a n c e d military might. . . . Instead, the council will have 'a balanced international defense force,' for the west, with various nations contributing in that branch of service for which they are best adapted."

New York Times (Ind.-Dem.): "This project faces difficulties which only great wisdom and high statesmanship can overcome. For it demands not only a considerable sacrifice of national sovereignty but also a confidence in the willingness of all Atlantic nations to fight together in case of attack on any one of them—an undertaking that exceeds the obligations of the North Atlantic Treaty, which still leaves it to each nation to determine the exact nature of its action."

San Francisco (Calif.) Chronicle (Ind.-Rep.): "The intention is to assign principal areas of responsibility, which, for example would find the United States providing most of the capital ships and very-long-range bombers, Britain the tactical air power and medium naval craft, and the European nations most of the ground forces. That sounds like a sensible arrangement among allied nations, not a gross usurpation of sovereignty. . . . Compliance with recommendations of the council will in every case be up to the individual nations . . . ."

Chicago Tribune (Ind.): "Obviously no international committee can commandeer the resources and men of this country, but congress will be told that the committee, acting under a treaty . . . has made drafts that cannot be refused without national dishonor. Congress will be told also that it must go along with Acheson's folly or 'destroy the confidence of the world.' . . . Actually it is Acheson, by his efforts to destroy constitutional processes and bleed America white, who is playing Stalin's game."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "The 'balanced defense' plan is practical. By such an arrangement the costs of defense are tremendously reduced, eliminating much of the risk that armaments will cancel out the progres of economic recovery. It should appeal to the American people despite the possibility that it will be attacked . . . as involving 'too great a surrender of sovereignty.' . . . Is the nation not willing to act in behalf of war prevention as it did in the waging of the last war?"

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "Logic indicates that such a force would be more efficient and probably less expensive than a dozen armies, each trying to maintain all the essential military services . . . But is congress, in its present mood, ready for such an arrangement? ... If the west were bent on war, the instruments of war would be forged quickly enough. But in our precarious days, p e a c e also wears armor. Hence the pressure for solving the 'guns and butter' puzzle."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "The great plan is as yet far from completion, and we may expect serious delays and difficulties as national and personal interests resist change. What a debate there will be in our own congress over a proposal virtually to scrap the U. S. army! It will be the same in other countries. Yet it is clear that the free nations must hang together or hang separately, and this compulsion should be strong enough to bring about the surrender of 'a bit of sovereignty' for the safety of each and all."

Louisville (Ky.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "It is possible that the United States will be urged not to use the plan at all. ... A greater danger, it seems to us, lies in the possibility that it will be used in so grudging and reluctant a fashion that it cannot achieve its purposes. We — and that includes all members of the Atlantic Pact — have the natural tendency to speak of doing everything we can 'afford' in the cold war."

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—I doubt that anything will come of it, but there's much undercover talk about a possible merger of three major studios, a move some company executives feel would whittle production costs. . . . Guy Kibbee, long absent from pictures because of a serious eye ailment, will resume his career via radio, as commentator on a series of hunting and fishing broadcasts. . . . Blue pencil those persistent rumors of a romance 'twixt Martha Toren and Doctor Peter Lindstrom; they're completely groundless. . . . Looks like Xavier Cugat's announced plans to marry Abbe Lane may strike a snag; she's being bombarded with expensive gifts from a South American suitor—and she isn't sending them back.

Jack Haley will discard his make-up kit, come fall, to produce a comedy on the N. Y. stage. . . . Reconciled: Orchestra leader Tex Benecke and his estranged wife. . . . Maurice Chevalier has sent his Hollywood agent a thirty-minute TV film, shot in France, with instructions to offer it to potential American sponsors. . . . On Doc Stork's list for September: Actress June Duprez and Hubby John Moffet, Jr., already the parents of two. . . . Preview Nights: Pic of the week: United Artists' "The Men" (Marlon Brando-Teresa Wright-Everett Sloan-Jack Webb-Richard Erdman). One of the outstanding film achievements of the year; give it a top spot on your "must see" list. . . . Good: MGM's "Mystery Street" (Ricardo Montalban-Sally Forrest-Bruce Bennett-Elsa Lanchester). The inspirational filmography of baseball's most-talked-about star .. . . So-so: MGM's "Devil's Doorway" (Robert Taylor-Louis Calhern-Paula Raymond-Marshall Thompson). A good idea that failed to jell. . . . Warner Brothers' "Return of the Frontiersman" (Gordon Macrae-Julie London-Rory Calhoun-Jack Holt). A capable case works hard but can't overcome the handicaps of a pointless plot. . . . Best Performance: Marlon Brando in "The Men."

The other day, Hollywood trade papers reported the results of a poll of 100 amusement editors who had been asked to cite the ten best directorial achievements in screen history. The editors, in making their choice, considered 74 pictures in all, then gave their awards to King Vidor for "The B giParade," James Cruze for "The Covered Wagon," Cecil B. DeMille for "The Ten Commandments," Frank Capra for "It Happened One Night," William Wyler for "The Best Years of Our Lives," John Ford for "The Informer," Frank Lloyd for "Cavalcade" and D. W. Griffith for "Intolerance" and "Birth of a Nation." The thing that interests me, where that poll is concerned, is the fact that only one of the ten awards was for a picture filmed in recent years. For the others, the amusement editors had to go back ten, fifteen and even thirty years! Hollywood shouldn't suggest such polls if it hopes to persuade the public that the new slogan, "Pictures Are Better Than Ever," has any foundation in fact. "Ever" is a mighty long time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Hebrew Prophet, Habakkuk, who probably lived about 600 B. C. is represented in our Bible by only three comparatively short chapters. But in addition to the vividness and vigor of their portrayals of a time of war and invasion, and to the power of their questionings and judgments, these three chapters have given to us some oft-quoted and well-known sayings, the source of which is probably unknown even to many readers of the Bible.

In verse two of chapter two, for instance, is the origin of the saying "that he who runs may read," a reference to making things clear and plain. In the same chapter, in verse 14, is the reference to the edge of the glory of the Lord, as "earth being filled with the knowl- the waters cover the sea." And in the very next verse is the oft-repeated temperance quotation, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink," an injunction little regarded today.

But most notable are the words repeated in many churches, every Sunday, and often inscribed on walls and above altars, "The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him."

But though Habakkuk's prophecy is memorable for these things, it is notable for something deeper than striking and lasting phrases. The prophet begins by his reference to his "burden;" and his burden, as he proceeds to deliver it, was a heavy one.

It was a burden of wonderment and reflection concerning God, and God's providence. It was as if he had been looking out over our world today—seeing iniquity and evil apparently going unrebuked, with treacherous dealing, with power being used for cruel and evil ends, and the wicked devouring the righteous. Did God care? Was He so pure and holy that He could not look upon such evil, and was silent while the oppression went on?

But Habakkuk's words are not all of wonderment and doubt. He turns to a burden of swift-moving and terrible judgment. The hand of God is manifest in history. Sin finds nations and peoples out, quite as much as sin brings its results to individuals.

There were those in Israel who had not done justly, who had not loved mercy, and who had not walked humbly with their God. Their sin had weakened the fabric of a nation that was about to fall under the terror of invading Chaldean armies. It is a grim and terrible picture of war that Habakkuk gives, but he sees in this invading power the instruments of God's judgment upon a people, chosen to righteousness and greatness who had spurned God's call.

And what to these invaders themselves? Judgment was awaiting them also, and from our vantage point of history we know full well what happened to them.

What would Habakkuk say about God's judgments today? It is worth a great deal of careful and prayerful thinking.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.—II Chronicles 6:35.

Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time. — I Timothy 2:6.

Having made an expiation for sins, He is set down on God's right hand forever. There is no more that even Immanuel can do. This is Love's extremest effort, God's last and greatest gift, God's own sacrifice. Can there be any escape for those who neglect so great salvation?

No Patent On 'American Dream'

President Truman says he wants the Republican Party to be a healthy opposition force. But it's not clear from this that he's entirely sold on an effective two-party system.

The President currently is casting himself in the role of the nation's No. 1 booster. He is talking in glowing terms of the country's future.

But he tells the people this future is only realizable through the Democratic party which he heads. His party, he says, is the party of the American dream—the repository of all our great hopes. According to Mr. Truman, this is not only true now; it has always been so.

Apparently Mr. Truman conceives of an opposition party as one which merely shall serve as a check upon the mistakes and excesses of a continuously dominant Democratic Party. It's hard to read any other meaning into his words.

But tolerance of a "loyal opposition" is not endorsement of the two-party system. It's one-party talk and nothing else.

A second party which is not qualified to hold power itself and is not rated worthy of advancing the American dream is not an effective contributor to two-party government.

It's a strange outlook that assumes members of an opposition party should be allowed to do everything but hold office. Yet that's the logic of Mr. Truman's insistence that all hope lies with the Democrats. He isn't alone in this kind of thinking, either. Many national figures follow a similar line.

One need not defend any particular Republican, or the Republican Party at any particular time, to insist upon equal access to power for the G.O.P.—or any second party of major strength.

The American dream is not the private preserve of the Democratic Party. It belongs to the whole people. They should be able to exercise their right of free choice between political parties, policies and men without forfeiting that dream.

Civil Service

Two bills to restore civil service—raped and emasculated by the 1948 legislature of the Long state administration—have been introduced in the present session. One is sponsored by the Louisiana Civil Service League, the other by the state administration and with the personal blessing and staunch backing of Governor Long in person.

The two bills differ chiefly in three points: (1)—The method of naming the civil service commission, which would administer the act if it is approved by the electorate as a constitutional amendment; (2)—In the method of selecting the civil service personnel director, who would be the executive director of the civil service; and (3)—In the scope of functions of the civil service commission.

The League's bill provides for a commission of six, named by the governor from a panel submitted by the various colleges of Louisiana, the commission in turn to name the personnel director and to have broad leeway in administration. The governor's bill centralizes control, or a semicontrol, over the commission and over civil service in the governor personally by having him name members from a panel submitted by state employes, plus the right for him to name one member independently, plus the right to name the personnel director. The administration bill also leaves far less leeway of administration to the commission than does the League's bill.

State Senator Robert Ainsworth of New Orleans, sponsor of the League's bill, says the Long administration bill is "more vicious than no civil service at all—it's murder."

Theo Cangelosi, state highway department general counsel and a Long administration cog, says Governor Long is afraid the League's bill would bring a commission with a majority made up of "the governor's political enemies."

In our opinion, there is no reason to believe that a commission of six selected, by the governor himself, from a much larger list drawn up in the various colleges, would be politicalized in any way, or necessarily would be anti-Long. We know of no college or university head in Louisiana who is in any way active politically in an anti-Long manner.

As a matter of fact, the Long bill seems aimed at doing, in reverse, exactly what the governor says he is "afraid" the other bill might do. Under it a group of Long administration underlings, holding political posts because of political loyalty to the governor and his political machine, would submit a list from which he would name two of the members of a five-man commission; he personally would select a third without recommendation being required from anyone. Thus, he would name a majority of the board in political manner, and in addition would name the director of personnel. The League's bill would provide an impartially named commission and then let the commission select its personnel director, via competitive examination.

The Long bill abandons the finer principle of civil service in the very naming of those who would be trusted with placing civil service at a high level and keeping it there. The evil in this is not that Earl K. Long would have this authority at inception of the renewal of civil service, but that this method would be cemented into the state constitution and would be used for partisan political purposes by future governors when occasion should arise for appointment of new commission members and/or a new personnel director.

Governor Long pledged himself in his 1948 campaign to protection and retention of civil service. Instead, his administration in its first months in office destroyed civil service. A few days ago he pledged himself to a renewal of civil service, with the further pledge that the renewal would retain most of the Sam Jones civil service law, "with none of the fundamental good of that law removed. In conferences seeking a bill on which all could agree for action by the present session of the legislature, the governor acted commendably in yielding to the League by having his own measure include submission of civil service to the people as a constitutional amendment, instead of being statutory renewal only.

But, now, he is proposing that this constitutional amendment be in the nature of a factional and power-centralizing weapon, when civil service is supposed to be just the opposite.

Whether the administration's bill is "murder," as Senator Ainsworth says, may be debated by some, but definitely it does open the way to destruction of the very values in government employment that it pretends to protect. It does this in even further degree in provisions which would permit appointments to political posts to be made from the barely-qualified instead from among the best qualified—another step toward political machine control of appointments in a field where the purpose is to remove political control and institute a system of appointment of the best qualified.

WALTER WINCHELL

Mr. and Mrs. United States!

The meanest, dirtiest steal since Teapot Dome is being planned in Washington right now. ... It's a complicated deal. So complicated that those who want to rob the sick figure the folks are too dumb to understand what it's all about. Here are the facts.

Your health is at stake. If the fast shuffle is put over, ten million cancer victims, arthritis victims and sufferers from other diseases will have to pay more — much more — for the new, miracle, steroid drugs like Pregnenelone.

These drugs are covered by patents, hundreds of them, which were owned by the Nazi Schering Corporation of Bloomfield, N. J. ... The government seized Schering, along with all other Nazi assets in this country, back in 1942. ... President Roosevelt ordered that Schering's patents "be made freely available to American industry" eight long years ago. But Schering, although controlled by the government itself and operated by government appointed directors and officers—did not bother to put the president's order into effect.

Four years ago, under President Truman, the government again decided to insist that ex-Nazi firms taken over by the government be required to license their patents to other manufacturers, to prevent monopoly and create competition. Still nothing much happened at Schering.

Three years ago Albert Q. Maisel was sent by the Reader's Digest to investigate the government's operation of the Schering outfit. He found that Roosevelt's order was not being carried out. He told the facts to David L. Bazelon, newly-appointed Ass't Att'y Gen'l in Charge of Alien Property. Bazelon went to bat for the people and got Att'y Gen'l Tom Clark to announce a policy of making more than 6,000 "captive" patents available for use by all industry. This included the Schering hormone patents that vitally affect your health. ... That was on December 18th, 1947. But still Schering did not license these patents to other drug firms.

Last Summer, after nearly two more years of stalling, the government-owned Schering outfit at last began to obey the government's orders that gathered dust, so much useless paper, for years and years and years. It agreed to license other drug firms for a neat 5 per cent — to market a number of hcromones, including Pregnenelone, one of the health drugs that have ecome so important for arthritics. ... It issued a few licenses. Then it stopped. ... When other major American drug firms applied for licenses they could not ge tthem. No one could understand why.

Last Monday Maisel found out why. Tom Clark had been promoted to the supreme court. ... Bazelon had been made a justice of the court of appeals. ... Harold I. Baynton had become acting director of the Office of Alien Property. ... Maisel asked Baynton: "Is a change in patent policy being planned by your office?"

Said Baynton: "We have had a new policy under consideration for some time."

"Does that account for why Schering has been holding up licenses on its hormone patents?" Maisel asked.

"No new licenses are being issued," Baynton replied.

"Then the new policy is actually in effect?" Maisel queried.

"Well, it could be interpreted that way. We have made a recomendation to the attorney general and it's awaiting his action."

What's behind all this? ... The government is about to sell Schering to private interests. ... Dillon, Read and Company has actually filed plans with the S. E. C. looking toward a stock flotation for the new owners of Schering. ... If the patent license policy ordered by Roosevelt, by Truman, by Tom Clark and by Bazelon can be reversed, the new, private owners of Schering would get a monopoly control over hundreds of health drugs. ... They could refuse to license anybody to use them. They could charge all the traffic would bear. ... They could block research against cancer, Arthritis and other diseases. They could make a cool hundred million bucks, which the sick and suffering victims would have to pay!

There's nothing wrong with the government selling Schering, its plants and offices and equipment and accounts. ... But, before it sells, it should make sure that the patents on health drugs, which two presidents have dedicated to the people, are not bottled up once again to be milked and monopolized by a single firm

How about it, Att'y Gen'l McGrath? ... Are the wise boys trying to put over a fast one on you and the president and the people? ... Haven't they, in fact, actually reversed your policy by stopping the issuance of licenses for the Schering, patents? ... Does not your own Anti-Trust Division violently oppose this monopoly creating low pitch?

Isn't it time that Schering, supposed to be controlled and owned by the U. S. government, begins to obey the orders of the president and the attorney general? ... Who is running Schering, anyhow, you or the people who plan to buy it?

Washington Is Talking About: Where all that big money came from (and went to) on the big Democratic celebration for the president in Chicago. ... The good chance of reduction in capital gains. ... The secret conferences between big labor chiefs—not only about a single organization — but backing Truman in '52. ... The white hair the White House is sprouting about the 5th Column Issue. ... The Serge Rubenstein explosion due for an airing before election day. ... The grand jury indictments coming down in a blizzard. The justice Dept. has 3,600 indictable cases of espionage and 12,000 dangerous suspects on its lists. ... The Vatican being puzzled by the White House's failure to appoint a presidential representative; a vacancy causing circles. ... The next big blow up of an Iron Curtain ambassador. It is expected south of the Border. ... Mexico City soon in the headlines. When another ambassador refuses to go home to the Soviet firing squad. ... The chill between the Veep and Mr. Big. Outsiders do not notice it, but the popular Mr. Barkley knows Truman's inner circle wants him to retire from the '52 ticket "because of his age."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE SAME OLD CROWD

Back in 1946, Senator Burton K. Wheeler ran for re-election to the United States senate from the state of Montana. Nobody doubted that he would be re-elected. Senator Wheeler had had an outstanding career. He had served in the senate 24 years. He was known as a liberal; had even been close to Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had wanted him to run with him as vice-president.

It soon developed that it was not going to be so easy for Senator Wheeler. Something nasty had come into the state of Montana. A filthy biography about Senator Wheeler came upon the scene—something so disgusting that it was unbelievable. He was smeared all over the state. Vast sums of money were hurled at him.

Senator Wheeler's crime was that his position on World War II was not the one that a New York group of internationalists favored. The fact that, in 1950, it is possible to say that the preponderance of evidence shows that much that Senator Wheeler had said about what the war would do to the United States and to the world has turned out to be correct, of course, did not matter in that campaign. Wheeler was defeated.

Now along comes the "committee on national affairs," the chairman of which is Frederick C. McKee. Richard J. Cronan is vice-chairman; Westmore Willcox, Jr., treasurer; Arthur J. Goldsmith, secretary.

This committee has issued a circular which states:

"In 1946 we played a major part in defeating Senator Wheeler of Montana, leader of the extreme isolationist bloc, and in 1948 we were mainly instrumental in defeating Senator Revercomb of West Virginia, leader of the extreme reactionary group."

None of these gentlemen is a citizen of Montana, so far as I can learn. They are not citizens of West Virginia, which Senator Revercomb represented. They head a committee which consists principally of New Yorkers. They raise money to influence elections outside of New York state.

In this same circular, they indicate that they plan to invade Navada to effect the defeat of Senator Pat McCarran. It says:

"In Nevada Senator McCarran is seeking re-election—he was primarily responsible for obstructing equitable legislation for the admission of Displaced Persons."

I also want to quote the end of the circular:

"Alone, you can do little; with others of like views, you can do much. Through the committee on national affairs you can help effectively to determine the character of the next senate.

"We need your support so that we can help elect the kind of

The conviction long held by his admirers that Thomas Jefferson was the American counterpart of Leonardo da Vinci, who did everything from invent the wheelbarrow to paint the Mona Lisa, has been sustained by publication of the great collection of papers of the sage of Monticello, whom many believe to have been the greatest American up to now.

The amazing thing about Jefferson is that almost every letter he wrote from 1775 on has been saved. The third president of the United States carefully noted in a little book all correspondence received and all that was answered. Only two per cent of the letters listed in the notebook were ever destroyed or lost by receipients. Consequently the Jefferson collection includes 18,000 letters, hundreds of them historically priceless.

In contrast, Jared Sparks, who prepared the first edition of George Washington's writings, was allowed to take the papers with him to Cambridge, Mass., while he was preparing the edition. Before he returned them to Mount Vernon, he distributed a large number to friends as mementoes and many were permanently lost.

The vast range of Jefferson's knowledge was illustrated by the disclosure in the letters that when workmen excavating for a new house in Virginia uncovered the bones of an extinct species of mammoth, many thousands of years old, Jefferson had them shipped to Washington and spread out in the east room of the white house. There he spent days trying to put them together.

His correspondence reveals that he shipped them to the national academy of science in Paris, where they astonished French scholars, as proof of the antiquity of the North American continent.

Jefferson also was an expert in forming and breaking down codes. His letters reveal that he developed a device in cryptography known as the "wheel cipher," which was not put into use by the U. S. army until 1920. When it was tried, army intelligence officers reported it should have been adopted 120 years earlier.

Descendants of the Otoe Indian tribe, who now live near Ponca City, Okla. still have the letter of friendship which Jefferson gave them when they visited Washington in 1805, to see the "Great White Chief," of whom they had learned through the Lewis and Clark expedition. Before they would permit researchers working on the present collection to photostat the letter, tribal leaders demanded a formal agreement in writing that it would be returned in a week.

The 18,000 letters seem a lot, but a modern president might sign that many in a year. It is not unusual for 100 letters a day to go out bearing his signature, and only a fraction of those would actually be written by the president. In addition, today's presidents transact much of their business by phone, with no recordings. However, contemporary annals are much more complete in separating important from routine correspondence.

Senator Paul Douglas (Dem.-Ill.) is now referred by his colleagues as "shoeless Paul," because on a trip to Chicago to participate in the Truman rally there he woke up on the train to find his shoes missing. He had left them outside his compartment to be polished. First he accused some of his traveling companions of kidding him, but finally accepted the loss, trudged up the long station platform in this stocking feet.

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

r Most editors favor some effective degree of integration of the military forces of the North Atlantic Pact Nations, along the general lines proposed at the recent London Conference of Foreign Ministers. And majority opinion is hopeful that some such plan can be effected. But a large minority, including the small group definitely opposing any such idea, doubts that the pact nations will surrender, in sufficient degree to achieve any effective integration, their sovereign right to decide the nature and balance of their individual armed forces.

New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times (Ind.): "By establishing the Atlantic High Command as military vanguard of the North Atlantic Council, the 12 foreign ministers have vitalized the rather loosely-knit principles under which they banded together. ... No longer will the individual nations be compelled to maintain their own versions of balanced military might. ... Instead, the council will have 'a balanced international defense force,' for the west, with various nations contributing in that branch of service for which they are best adapted."

New York Times (Ind.-Dem.): "This project faces difficulties which only great wisdom and high statesmanship can overcome. For it demands not only a considerable sacrifice of national sovereignty but also a confidence in the willingness of all Atlantic nations to fight together in case of attack on any one of them—an undertaking that exceeds the obligations of the North Atlantic Treaty, which still leaves it to each nation to determine the exact nature of its action."

San Francisco (Calif.) Chronicle (Ind.-Rep.): "The intention is to assign principal areas of responsibility, which, for example would find the United States providing most of the capital ships and very-long-range bombers, Britain the tactical air power and medium naval craft, and the European nations most of the ground forces. That sounds like a sensible arrangement among allied nations, not a gross usurpation of sovereignty. ... Compliance with recommendations of the council will in every case be up to the individual nations ...."

Chicago Tribune (Ind.): "Obviously no international committee can commandeer the resources and men of this country, but congress will be told that the committee, acting under a treaty ... has made drafts that cannot be refused without national dishonor. Congress will be told also that it must go along with Acheson's folly or 'destroy the confidence of the world.' ... Actually it is Acheson, by his efforts to destroy constitutional processes and bleed America white, who is playing Stalin's game."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "The 'balanced defense' plan is practical. By such an arrangement the costs of defense are tremendously reduced, eliminating much of the risk that armaments will cancel out the progres of economic recovery. It should appeal to the American people despite the possibility that it will be attacked ... as involving 'too great a surrender of sovereignty.' ... Is the nation not willing to act in behalf of war prevention as it did in the waging of the last war?"

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "Logic indicates that such a force would be more efficient and probably less expensive than a dozen armies, each trying to maintain all the essential military services ... But is congress, in its present mood, ready for such an arrangement? ... If the west were bent on war, the instruments of war would be forged quickly enough. But in our precarious days, peace also wears armor. Hence the pressure for solving the 'guns and butter' puzzle."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "The great plan is as yet far from completion, and we may expect serious delays and difficulties as national and personal interests resist change. What a debate there will be in our own congress over a proposal virtually to scrap the U. S. army! It will be the same in other countries. Yet it is clear that the free nations must hang together or hang separately, and this compulsion should be strong enough to bring about the surrender of 'a bit of sovereignty' for the safety of each and all."

Louisville (Ky.) Times (Ind.-Dem.): "It is possible that the United States will be urged not to use the plan at all. ... A greater danger, it seems to us, lies in the possibility that it will be used in so grudging and reluctant a fashion that it cannot achieve its purposes. We — and that includes all members of the Atlantic Pact — have the natural tendency to speak of doing everything we can 'afford' in the cold war."

In Hollywood With

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—I doubt that anything will come of it, but there's much undercover talk about a possible merger of three major studios, a move some company executives feel would whittle production costs. ... Blue pencil those persistent rumors of a romance 'twixt Martha Toren and Doctor Peter Lindstrom; they're completely groundless. ... Looks like Xavier Cugat's announced plans to marry Abbe Lane may strike a snag; she's being bombarded with expensive gifts from a South American suitor—and she isn't sending them back.

Jack Haley will discard his make-up kit, come fall, to produce a comedy on the N. Y. stage. ... Reconciled: Orchestra leader Tex Benecke and his estranged wife. ... Maurice Chevalier has sent his Hollywood agent a thirty-minute TV film, shot in France, with instructions to offer it to potential American sponsors. ... The other day, Hollywood trade papers reported the results of a poll of 100 amusement editors who had been asked to cite the ten best directorial achievements in screen history. The editors, in making their choice, considered 74 pictures in all, then gave their awards to King Vidor for "The B giParade," James Cruze for "The Covered Wagon," Cecil B. DeMille for "The Ten Commandments," Frank Capra for "It Happened One Night," William Wyler for "The Best Years of Our Lives," John Ford for "The Informer," Frank Lloyd for "Cavalcade" and D. W. Griffith for "Intolerance" and "Birth of a Nation." The thing that interests me, where that poll is concerned, is the fact that only one of the ten awards was for a picture filmed in recent years. For the others, the amusement editors had to go back ten, fifteen and even thirty years! Hollywood shouldn't suggest such polls if it hopes to persuade the public that the new slogan, "Pictures Are Better Than Ever," has any foundation in fact. "Ever" is a mighty long time.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Hebrew Prophet, Habakkuk, who probably lived about 600 B. C. is represented in our Bible by only three comparatively short chapters. But in addition to the vividness and vigor of their portrayals of a time of war and invasion, and to the power of their questionings and judgments, these three chapters have given to us some oft-quoted and well-known sayings, the source of which is probably unknown even to many readers of the Bible.

In verse two of chapter two, for instance, is the origin of the saying "that he who runs may read," a reference to making things clear and plain. In the same chapter, in verse 14, is the reference to the edge of the glory of the Lord, as "earth being filled with the knowl- the waters cover the sea." And in the very next verse is the oft-repeated temperance quotation, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink," an injunction little regarded today.

But most notable are the words repeated in many churches, every Sunday, and often inscribed on walls and above altars, "The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him."

But though Habakkuk's prophecy is memorable for these things, it is notable for something deeper than striking and lasting phrases. The prophet begins by his reference to his "burden;" and his burden, as he proceeds to deliver it, was a heavy one.

It was a burden of wonderment and reflection concerning God, and God's providence. It was as if he had been looking out over our world today—seeing iniquity and evil apparently going unrebuked, with treacherous dealing, with power being used for cruel and evil ends, and the wicked devouring the righteous. Did God care? Was He so pure and holy that He could not look upon such evil, and was silent while the oppression went on?

But Habakkuk's words are not all of wonderment and doubt. He turns to a burden of swift-moving and terrible judgment. The hand of God is manifest in history. Sin finds nations and peoples out, quite as much as sin brings its results to individuals.

There were those in Israel who had not done justly, who had not loved mercy, and who had not walked humbly with their God. Their sin had weakened the fabric of a nation that was about to fall under the terror of invading Chaldean armies. It is a grim and terrible picture of war that Habakkuk gives, but he sees in this invading power the instruments of God's judgment upon a people, chosen to righteousness and greatness who had spurned God's call.

And what to these invaders themselves? Judgment was awaiting them also, and from our vantage point of history we know full well what happened to them.

What would Habakkuk say about God's judgments today? It is worth a great deal of careful and prayerful thinking.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.—II Chronicles 6:35.

Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time. — I Timothy 2:6.

Having made an expiation for sins, He is set down on God's right hand forever. There is no more that even Immanuel can do. This is Love's extremest effort, God's last and greatest gift, God's own sacrifice. Can there be any escape for those who neglect so great salvation?

ARE WE PUPPETS OR PEOPLE?

Democracy is the belief that the state only has those rights granted to it by the people; totalitarianism—in whatever form, whether socialism or communism or dictatorship or otherwise—is the belief that the people only have those rights granted to them by the state.

The founders of the United States of America chose democracy. It was their belief, and so stated, that the people were endowed with certain inalienable rights. These rights were not granted them by their government. These rights were theirs by virtue of the fact that they were human beings.

This was a new departure in governments. No one knew whether it would work. Those who had faith, those who believed in the inherent dignity of the individual, believed it would. Those who were realistic, those who were acquainted with the frailty of human nature, had their doubts.

The last 160 years have now demonstrated to us that those who had faith were justified in their faith. By having the responsibility for their welfare placed in their own individual hands, the people of the United States of America have achieved for themselves the greatest prosperity and the highest standard of living any people have ever known.

Now, however, traitors to this belief in individual freedom have risen in our midst. There are those who think that the machinery of government can be used as a substitute for personal responsibility on the part of the governed. This in face of the fact that all precept of history and all current example prove to us that this is the open road to disaster. It changes persons with responsibilities into puppets on the ends of strings.

When the people turn over to their government the responsibility for their welfare, they from that moment on only move as the government pulls the strings. Having given up the power of individual decision, they soon lose the ability to exercise that power along with the right to exercise it.

And the strangest thing of all, when one analyzes the relinquishment of rights to the government, is that the people do not realize who, in the name of the government, will exercise these rights. For, after all, government is not Omnipotent Authority, untouched by human hands, which is always right and just, which can do nothing wrong. Even under totalitarianism it is directed by only a few of the people.

And it is worth taking note who these few are inevitably destined to be. They are the ones who, lacking courage to stand on their own feet and accept their share of personal responsibility, seek the safety of official positions where they escape the consequences of error and failure. This fact is being glaringly demonstrated to us in Great Britain at the time.

Which brings to the forefront the second main difference between democracy and totalitarianism. Under democracy, each individual is responsible for what he does. If he makes an error, he must suffer the consequences; if he makes a success, he reaps the reward. He will therefore always strive to succeed. Under totalitarianism only the government can make errors, and when it does, no one is responsible. If it incurs a loss in a government operated industry, it passes the loss on to the taxpayer. It has no competition by which to guage its prices. The consumer pays the price the government sets, or else. The same thing holds true of quality. The consumer accepts whatever the government offers; there is no other source of supply.

And all these thnigs are decided by a few individuals who have assumed unto themselves the power to decide what is best for the people rather than allowing the people to decide for themselves. Is this what we want in America? It is impossible to believe that we actually do. But what we desperately need to realize is that we are well on the way to getting it—whether we want it or not.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

SHUBERT ALLEY SERENADE

As everyone and his Aunt Esmerelda knows, there's no business like show business for the fortunate few who make the grade. But—

In 1946, a stage-struck lass from Nebraska named Judy Peters moved into a boarding house off Times Square and began looking for work in the theatre. As per usual, she was average bright, round of face, figure and eye, and determined to make her mark on the 45th street marquees.

A few months later, thanks to a stage manager who took a shine to her, she got her first part—a three-line role in a two-act play that lasted four performances.

For a solid and sobering year after that, Judy made the rounds, eating the usual health salads and waiting on table to pay for her furnished (after a fashion) room. It was heart - and arch - breaking work, but it finally paid off when the big chance came along—the second lead in a Shaw revival.

The day after the play opened out of town, Judy wired her folks they wouldn't have to help her any more, and when George Jean Nathan singled her out for mention in his review the farm girl figured it was all over but the movie offers.

One swell notice, however, doth not a star make, and when the play closed after a run of three months, Judy had to go back to a summer stock company. He asked her to bone up on the part of Judy Linden—a typical farm girl whose accent was pure midwest, and whose face and figure were more silo than sex.

The audition went off without hitch or hesitation, and Judy was in the heaven above seventh when the director complimented her on how well she read her lines. He told her he'd let her know definitely the following day, and she went back to her one-room-and-hall-bath to wait.

The next night the landlady smelled gas, but by the time the police arrived Judy was dead. On the bed by her side was the script of "The Shining Hour" opened to the scene in Act Two where Judy Linden, the farm girl, takes her own life.

The cops, looking for a suicide motive, didn't have far to look. On the dresser was a note from the director: Sorry, honey. You read the part fine, but I'm afraid you're not the type."

reading the casting notes in Actors' Cues. By this time her family, fed up with her show business shenanigans, had put her on notice that the only further money she could expect would be train fare back to Nebraska. And so, to keep body and hopes alive, the would-be Helen Hayes went back to waiting on tables.

Last April, after three grim years of scratch - as - scratch-canning, Judy was handed the script of Keith Winters' old hit, "The Shining Hour," by the director of a summer stock company. He asked her to bone up on the part of Judy Linden—a typical farm girl whose accent was pure Midwest, and whose face and figure were more silo than sex.

senator that you want—please send us a contribution today."

Of course, these people can do as they please, but their operation is antagonistic to every theory of American government.

The United States senate consists of two representatives from each state. The senators used to be elected by the legislators of each state. By the adoption of the 17th amendment to the Constitution in 1913, senators are to be elected directly by the people of each state.

Senators are not elected nationally but in each state. Citizens of New York obviously cannot vote in Montana or West Virginia or Nevada. It is not intended that they should have any influence in those states. It is intended that the people of each state should be completely unhampered in their own choice.

However, if huge sums of money, directly or indirectly, are poured into states from New York to influence every election, it could come to pass that unless a candidate satisfied this committee or some other committee in New York, all members of the senate would be representatives, not of their states, but of New York or any other pressure groups.

Of course, this is an extreme statement of the case, for none of these committees are as important as they were during the war and immediately after.

Mother Says 6-Year-Old Daughter Will Wear Suit

HOUSTON, Tex., May 27.—(AP)—Sandra Marie Winkler's mother says the six-year old will wear her sun suit to school again Monday.

The mother, Mrs. V. S. Rogers, today protested an elementary school principal's branding the sun suit as "indecent."

Mrs. Rogers said the principal, Mrs. W. T. Archer, told Sandra Thursday not to wear the suit to school any more because she didn't have enough clothes on."

"When I called Mrs. Archer she said sun dresses like the one Sandra was wearing 'give little boys ideas,' " Mrs. Rogers said.

Mrs. Archer was unavailable for comment today but Mrs. Sybil Delaney, Sandra's first grade teacher, said the principal has had the rule against sun suits for years.

Mrs. Rogers said "I really got mad" when a seven-year old cousin began teasing Sandra for being sent to the principal's office because "she didn't have enough clothes on."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

ADOLESCENT DAUGHTER

Daughters have a way of growing up and away from their mother's dream of them. Some go right along with their mothers' ideal, enjoying what they have and looking forward to the career laid ready for them. But some do not.

Here is Adele. Up to her last year in high school, Adele was an obedient, yielding girl who thought mother all-wise, an ever-present help in time of trouble, a guide in times of difficulty. Now that is all changed. Mother wants Adele to get to bed at ten o'clock on school nights and save all the dates for the week ends. Adele thinks otherwise, and argues and stamps her feet and cries when her mother insists that she stay home and prepare her work for school next day instead of going out with a boy.

"I'm the only girl in school who is treated like a baby," she says, and her distressed mother and angered father are about ready to give up. Let's look again at Adele.

She is as big as she will ever be, tall, matured in body, fit and able in every way. She is plainly not interested in higher education. She is interested in the boys. Nature is calling to her to get ready for wifehood and motherhood and her father and mother are battling against nature, the most powerful force in life. They have not accepted this young woman who has appeared in their household but have insisted upon treating her as the child she used to be. They are facing one of the most difficult phases of parenthood, the time when their child is see-sawing between childhood and womanhood, too mature for childhood's ways, to childish to assume womanly duties and responsibilities. They will have to see-saw along with her in order to carry her over this crisis.

Accept her as a woman-to-be and talk to her accordingly. Discuss the situation, explaining clearly what is in your mind, what you hope for her, what you fear for her. Talk to her as to a mature personality. Of course, she isn't, but allowing her to feel herself appreciaetd will rob her of rebel lion and allow friendliness that must be established between parents and adolescents at this stage of growth. Childhood and its rules are past experiences which we hope have left traces of strength in character. Now responsibility must shift from parents to their halfgrown daughters, or sons. Compromise, friendly relationships prayers, are in order from now on, while the child must be protected and the woman developed. It is never easy.

Dr. Patri's new leaflet, P-3, "Sex Education," will help parents confronted with this problem with their children. To obtain a copy, send five cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

SENATE BILL IS MONOPOLY BLOW

Measure Of Sen. Barham Would Limit Trade Restraints

One of the most important pieces of legislation affecting business interests of the Twin Cities is Senate Bill 63, an anti-monopoly law, it is stated by Albin P. Lassiter, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce legislative committee.

Introduced by Sen. C. E. Barham, of Ruston, S. B. 63 is written ostensibly to prohibit combinations in restraint of trade. Actually, the bill destroys all reasonable existing laws on the subject and seeks to impose sweeping restrictions which would make it impossible for corporations to conduct their business under modern trace practices.

Section 14 of the bill provides that the district attorney or the attorney general may call any witness into court for examination on any specific violation of this act. If the witness refuses to testify, or gives evasive answers, he may be found in contempt of court and fined, and also placed in the parish jail until he divulges whatever information he has.

Unions would be brought under the act by making illegal to limit the amount of work that may be doneon any product, such as limiting the number of bricks a laborer may lay in a day, or limiting the size of paint brush a painter may use.

The Chamber's legislative committee urges local business interests to study the effects of S. B. 63 on their respective businesses and, if possible, have a representativ at the meeting of senate judiciary committee "A" Monday, May 29, at 2:00 p.m. in the Capitol Building, when the hearing on this bill will be held.

S. B. 63 is the same bill that was introduced by Senator Barha at the 1948 session of the legislature, and which waas defeated by one vote.

The first broadcast of a presidential inauguration was of Calvin Coolidge's in 1925. The first telecast of such an event was that in 1949 of Harry S. Truman's.

Charrles B. Driscoll:

New York Day By Day

NEW YORK—It is good to hear from Friend Stewart Stanley, in Joplin, that my lecture in Memorial Hall here resulted in a net take of more than a thousand dollars for the Big Brothers, who badly need the money for improvement and upkeep of their farm home for neglected children. I shall not forget my visit to that farm. I think it would do every citizen of Joplin and vicinity a great deal of good to visit there. Almost anyone who does so will want to say at least a small prayer of thanks to God.

So much does the city of Joplin appreciate the work the Big Brothehs are doing in preventing juvenille delinquency that the public school system participated in the sale of tickets for the lecture, permitting two students from each class to act as ticket salesmen. I hope the wisdom of this gesture in aid of unfortunate children may bring rich results.

Victor Oristano, of Rockefeller Plaza, writes me about my recent column concerning the inadequacies of Grand Central Palac for New York shows and fairs, agreeing heartily. He is anxious to see the new entertainment center (which I hope will not be called Madison Square Garden) at Columbus Circle, get under way. He has certain ideas about his center, as regards the spaces used for flower shows, motor boat shows and such. I think they are alll good.

1. The first floor ceiling to be at least 60 feet high, so as to permit the display of small boats under sail.

2. Escalators—plenty of them.

3. Slow conveyor belt for passengers through main aisles of main floor.

4. Air conditioning throughout.

5. Sound conditioning, so that echoes may not drive the customers crazy.

6. Floor suction apparatus to take away dust.

I hope the promoters of the new entertainment center will listen to Mr. Oristano's suggestions. The Grand Central Palace is no good as a show place. Madison Square Garden is inadequate and outmoded for the crowds that patronize big events. New York has no convention hall worthy of the name. Wichita has a better one. So have a dozen other towns that I could name.

Still, construction of the new center seems to be far away. So much talk-talk, so much sharp bargaining. We don't know when, if ever, New York will become a good convention and show city.

Good news from hard-working author Harnett T. Kane, New Orleans. His next book, "Pathway to the Stars," is finished, and Harnett is going to take a rest, away from it all, until publication and autographing time comes 'round again. Even an author needs some rest occasionally.

Brief word from Milburn McCarty, of Texas and Broadway, on tour in the Caribbean. In my own opinion, this is the time of year for seeing the Caribbean isles at their best. But take a hat and dark glasses along.

Helen E. Marnie ,Minneapolis, Minn., tells me she used to live at Devil's Lake, N. D. An aunt from Scotland visited her, but would not give the address to her friends back home, because, she said, she was ashamed to be going to a place with such a terrible name.

Further information concerning the scheduling of classes and fees may be obtained by writing Mrs. Allbritton or calling her during the week over telephone 4200.

O.P.H.S. ALUMNI ELECT B. GRANT

Sheriff Is Chosen As President Of School's Alumni Association Friday

Sheriff Bailey Grant was elected president of the Ouachita Parish Alumni Association at the annual alumni banquet Friday night at the Frances Hotel.

Other newly elected officers were: William Gannaway, Jr., vice-president; Mrs. Jane Humphries Pearce, secretary; W. A. Calloway, Jr., treasurer.

Last year Grant was elected vice-president of the alumni representing the class of '35. He is a native of West Monroe and was U. S. Deputy Marshall before he was elected sheriff in 1947.

Mrs. Wayne McDonald, retiring president, delivered the welcoming address to more than 120 alumni and members of the 1950 graduating class who attended the banquet. James Defreese, of the 1950 class gave the response.

The alumni association adopted an Alma Mater composed by Miss Jane Wallace, a member of the June graduating class.

Honored guests at the banquet were members of the classes of 1896-1910. Among those recognized in this group were Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Mrs. J. R. Wooten, and Mrs. Lillie Barnes, of Oak Grove.

Alumni who took part in the reminiscence program included: Mrs. L. C. McGuire, representing the class of 1896; Mrs. W. L. Bluster of the 1897 class; Wayne Blanks of Columbia, the class of 1898; Dr. J. T. French, the class of 1907.

BURIES HOUSE

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 27.—(AP)—Press dispatches said today a landslide near Ibague buried a house with four occupants and a truck with an undetermined number of persons in it. Ibague is 75 miles from Bogota. Heavy rains have caused serious flood conditions and landslides in many parts of Colombia.

German Art Student Is Found Guilty Of Theft

KIEL, Germany, May 27.—(AP)—A German refugee art student was found guilty today of stealing 1,190 works of art from museums and private collections in the Russian zone of Germany.

The student, Horst Stark, 24, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a 20,000 deutsche mark ($4,760) fine by a German court.

In passing sentence, the court said that never before in German history had one person stolen so many art pieces. The value of his loot has been estimated at 135,000 marks ($32,130). Most of the art pieces were recovered. Those belonging to museums in the Russian zone are to be turned over to the allied high commission for safekeeping and disposition.

Television receivers in cities somewhat remote from the transmitters effect reception by erecting arials on high masts, some even 100 feet.

DOWN SOUTH

ARE WE PUPPETS OR PEOPLE?

Democracy is the belief that the state only has those rights granted to it by the people; totalitarianism —in whatever form, whether socialism or communism or dictatorship or otherwise—is the belief that the people only have those rights granted to them by the state.

The founders of the United States of America chose democracy. It was their belief, and so stated, that the people were endowed with certain inalienable rights. These rights were not granted them by their government. These rights were theirs by virtue of the fact that they were human beings.

This was a new departure in governments. No one knew whether it would work. Those who had faith, those who believed in the inherent dignity of the individual, believed it would. Those who were realistic, those who were acquainted with the frailty of human nature, had their doubts.

The last 160 years have now demonstrated to us that those who had faith were justified in their faith. By having the responsibility for their welfare placed in their own individual hands, the people of the United States of America have achieved for themselves the greatest prosperity and the highest standard of living any people have ever known.

Now, however, traitors to this belief in individual freedom have risen in our midst. There are those who think that the machinery of government can be used as a substitute for personal responsibility on the part of the governed. This in face of the fact that all precept of history and all current example prove to us that this is the open road to disaster. It changes persons with responsibilities into puppets on the ends of strings.

When the people turn over to their government the responsibility for their welfare, they from that moment on only move as the government puils the strings. Having given up the power of individual decision, they soon lose the ability to exercise that power along with the right to exercise it.

And the strangest thing of all, when one analyzes the relinquishment of rights to the government, is that the people do not realize who, in the name of the government, will exercise these rights. For, after all, government is not Omnipotent Authority, untouched by human hands, which is always right and just, which can do nothing wrong. Even under totalitarianism it is directed by only a few of the people.

And it is worth taking note who these few are inevitably destined to be. They are the ones who, lacking courage to stand on their own feet and accept their share of personal responsibility, seek the safety of official positions where they escape the consequences of error and failure. This fact is being glaringly demonstrated to us in Great Britain at the time.

Which brings to the forefront the second main difference between democracy and totalitarianism. Under democracy, each individual is responsible for what he does. If he makes an error, he must suffer the consequences; if he makes a success, he reaps the reward. He will therefore always strive to succeed. Under totalitarianism only the government can make errors, and when it does, no one is responsible. If it incurs a loss in a government operated industry, it passes the loss on to the taxpayer. It has no competition by which to guage its prices. The consumer pays the price the government sets, or else. The same thing holds true of quality. The consumer accepts whatever the government offers; there is no other source of supply.

And all these thnigs are decided by a few individuals who have assumed unto themselves the power to decide what is best for the people rather than allowing the people to decide for themselves. Is this what we want in America? It is impossible to believe that we actually do. But what we desperately need to realize is that we are well on the way to getting it—whether we want it or not.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

SHUBERT ALLEY SERENADE

As everyone and his Aunt Esmerelda knows, there's no business like show business for the fortunate few who make the grade. But—

In 1946, a stage-struck lass from Nebraska named Judy Peters moved into a boarding house off Times Square and began looking for work in the theatre. As per usual, she was average bright, round of face, figure and eye, and determined to make her mark on the 45th street marquees.

A few months later, thanks to a stage manager who took a shine to her, she got her first part—a three-line role in a two-act play that lasted four performances.

For a solid and sobering year after that, Judy made the rounds, eating the usual health salads and waiting on table to pay for her furnished (after a fashion) room. It was heart - and arch - breaking work, but it finally paid off when the big chance came along—the second lead in a Shaw revival.

The day after the play opened out of town, Judy wired her folks they wouldn't have to help her any more, and when George Jean Nathan singled her out for mention in his review the farm girl figured it was all over but the movie offers.

One swell notice, however, doth not a star make, and when the play closed after a run of three months, Judy had to go back to a summer stock company. He asked her to bone up on the part of Judy Linden—a typical farm girl whose accent was pure midwest, and whose face and figure were more silo than sex.

The audition went off without hitch or hesitation, and Judy was in the heaven above seventh when the director complimented her on how well she read her lines. He told her he'd let her know definitely the following day, and she went back to her one-room-and-hall-bath to wait.

The next night the landlady smelled gas, but by the time the police arrived Judy was dead. On the bed by her side was the script of "The Shining Hour" opened to the scene in Act Two where Judy Linden, the farm girl, takes her own life.

The cops, looking for a suicide motive, didn't have far to look. On the dresser was a note from the director: Sorry, honey. You read the part fine, but I'm afraid you're not the type."

reading the casting notes in Actors' Cues. By this time her family, fed up with her show business shenanigans, had put her on notice that the only further money she could expect would be train fare back to Nebraska. And so, to keep body and hopes alive, the would-be Helen Hayes went back to waiting on tables.

Last April, after three grim years of scratch - as - scratch-canning, Judy was handed the script of Keith Winters' old hit, "The Shining Hour," by the director of a summer stock company. He asked her to bone up on the part of Judy Linden—a typical farm girl whose accent was pure Midwest, and whose face and figure were more silo than sex.

The audition went off without hitch or hesitation, and Judy was in the heaven above seventh when the director complimented her on how well she read her lines. He told her he'd let her know definitely the following day, and she went back to her one-room-and-hall-bath to wait.

senator that you want—please send us a contribution today."

Of course, these people can do as they please, but their operation is antagonistic to every theory of American government.

The United States senate consists of two representatives from each state. The senators used to be elected by the legislators of each state. By the adoption of the 17th amendment to the Constitution in 1913, senators are to be elected directly by the people of each state.

Senators are not elected nationally but in each state. Citizens of New York obviously cannot vote in Montana or West Virginia or Nevada. It is not intended that they should have any influence in those states. It is intended that the people of each state should be completely unhampered in their own choice.

However, if huge sums of money, directly or indirectly, are poured into states from New York to influence every election, it could come to pass that unless a candidate satisfied this committee or some other committee in New York, all members of the senate would be representatives, not of their states, but of New York or any other pressure groups.

Of course, this is an extreme statement of the case, for none of these committees are as important as they were during the war and immediately after.

Mother Says 6-Year-Old Daughter Will Wear Suit

HOUSTON, Tex., May 27.—(AP)—Sandra Marie Winkler's mother says the six-year old will wear her sun suit to school again Monday.

The mother, Mrs. V. S. Rogers, today protested an elementary school principal's branding the sun suit as "indecent."

Mrs. Rogers said the principal, Mrs. W. T. Archer, told Sandra Thursday not to wear the suit to school any more because she didn't have enough clothes on."

"When I called Mrs. Archer she said sun dresses like the one Sandra was wearing 'give little boys ideas,' " Mrs. Rogers said.

Mrs. Archer was unavailable for comment today but Mrs. Sybil Delaney, Sandra's first grade teacher, said the principal has had the rule against sun suits for years.

Mrs. Rogers said "I really got mad" when a seven-year old cousin began teasing Sandra for being sent to the principal's office because "she didn't have enough clothes on."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

ADOLESCENT DAUGHTER

Daughters have a way of growing up and away from their mother's dream of them. Some go right along with their mothers' ideal, enjoying what they have and looking forward to the career laid ready for them. But some do not.

Here is Adele. Up to her last year in high school, Adele was an obedient, yielding girl who thought mother all-wise, an ever-present help in time of trouble, a guide in times of difficulty. Now that is all changed. Mother wants Adele to get to bed at ten o'clock on school nights and save all the dates for the week ends. Adele thinks otherwise, and argues and stamps her feet and cries when her mother insists that she stay home and prepare her work for school next day instead of going out with a boy.

"I'm the only girl in school who is treated like a baby," she says, and her distressed mother and angered father are about ready to give up. Let's look again at Adele.

She is as big as she will ever be, tall, matured in body, fit and able in every way. She is plainly not interested in higher education. She is interested in the boys. Nature is calling to her to get ready for wifehood and motherhood and her father and mother are battling against nature, the most powerful force in life. They have not accepted this young woman who has appeared in their household but have insisted upon treating her as the child she used to be. They are facing one of the most difficult phases of parenthood, the time when their child is see-sawing between childhood and womanhood, too mature for childhood's ways, to childish to assume womanly duties and responsibilities. They will have to see-saw along with her in order to carry her over this crisis.

Accept her as a woman-to-be and talk to her accordingly. Discuss the situation, explaining clearly what is in your mind, what you hope for her, what you fear for her. Talk to her as to a mature personality. Of course, she isn't, but allowing her to feel herself appreciaetd will rob her of rebel lion and allow friendliness that must be established between parents and adolescents at this stage of growth. Childhood and its rules are past experiences which we hope have left traces of strength in character. Now responsibility must shift from parents to their halfgrown daughters, or sons. Compromise, friendly relationships prayers, are in order from now on, while the child must be protected and the woman developed. It is never easy.

Dr. Patri's new leaflet, P-3, "Sex Education," will help parents confronted with this problem with their children. To obtain a copy, send five cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

SENATE BILL IS MONOPOLY BLOW

Measure Of Sen. Barham Would Limit Trade Restraints

One of the most important pieces of legislation affecting business interests of the Twin Cities is Senate Bill 63, an anti-monopoly law, it is stated by Albin P. Lassiter, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce legislative committee.

Introducd by Sen. C. E. Barham, of Ruston, S. B. 63 is written ostensibly to prohibit combinations in restraint of trade. Actually, the bill destroys all reasonable existing laws on the subject and seeks to impose sweeping restrictions which would make it impossible for corporations to conduct their business under modern trace practices.

Section 14 of the bill provides that the district attorney or the attorney general may call any witness into court for examination on any specific violation of this act. If the witness refuses to testify, or gives evasive answers, he may be found in contempt of court and fined, and also placed in the parish jail until he divulges whatever information he has.

Unions would be brought under the act by making illegal to limit the amount of work that may be doneon any product, such as limiting the number of bricks a laborer may lay in a day, or limiting the size of paint brush a painter may use.

The Chamber's legislative committee urges local business interests to study the effects of S. B. 63 on their respective businesses and, if possible, have a representativ at the meeting of senate judiciary committee "A" Monday, May 29, at 2:00 p.m. in the Capitol Building, when the hearing on this bill will be held.

S. B. 63 is the same bill that was introduced by Senator Barha at the 1948 session of the legislature, and which waas defeated by one vote.

The first broadcast of a presidential inauguration was of Calvin Coolidge's in 1925. The first telecast of such an event was that in 1949 of Harry S. Truman's.

Charrles B. Driscoll:

New York Day By Day

NEW YORK—It is good to hear from Friend Stewart Stanley, in Joplin, that my lecture in Memorial Hall here resulted in a net take of more than a thousand dollars for the Big Brothers, who badly need the money for improvement and upkeep of their farm home for neglected children. I shall not forget my visit to that farm. I think it would do every citizen of Joplin and vicinity a great deal of good to visit there. Almost anyone who does so will want to say at lcast a small prayer of thanks to God.

So much does the city of Joplin appreciate the work the Big Brothehs are doing in preventing juvenille delinquency that the public school system participated in the sale of tickets for the lecture, permitting two students from each class to act as ticket salesmen. I hope the wisdom of this gesture in aid of unfortunate children may bring rich results.

Victor Oristano, of Rockefeller Plaza, writes me about my recent column concerning the inadequacies of Grand Central Palac for New York shows and fairs, agreeing heartily. He is anxious to see the new entertainment center (which I hope will not be called Madison Square Garden) at Columbus Circle, get under way. He has certain ideas about his center, as regards the spaces used for flower shows, motor boat shows and such. I think they are alll good.

1. The first floor ceiling to be at least 60 feet high, so as to permit the display of small boats under sail.

2. Escalators—plenty of them.

3. Slow conveyor belt for passengers through main aisles of main floor.

4. Air conditioning throughout.

5. Sound conditioning, so that echoes may not drive the customers crazy.

6. Floor suction apparatus to take away dust.

I hope the promoters of the new entertainment center will listen to Mr. Oristano's suggestions. The Grand Central Palace is no good as a show place. Madison Square Garden is inadequate and outmoded for the crowds that patronize big events. New York has no convention hall worthy of the name. Wichita has a better one. So have a dozen other towns that I could name.

Still, construction of the new center seems to be far away. So much talk-talk, so much sharp bargaining. We don't know when, if ever, New York will become a good convention and show city.

Good news from hard-working author Harnett T. Kane, New Orleans. His next book, "Pathway to the Stars," is finished, and Harnett is going to take a rest, away from it all, until publication and autographing time comes 'round again. Even an author needs some rest occasionally.

Brief word from Milburn McCarty, of Texas and Broadway, on tour in the Caribbean. In my own opinion, this is the time of year for seeing the Caribbean isles at their best. But take a hat and dark glasses along.

Helen E. Marnie ,Minneapolis, Minn., tells me she used to live at Devil's Lake, N. D. An aunt from Scotland visited her, but would not give the address to her friends back home, because, she said, she was ashamed to be going to a place with such a terrible name.

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 27.—(AP)—Press dispatches said today a landslide near Ibague buried a house with four occupants and a truck with an undetermined number of persons in it. Ibague is 75 miles from Bogota. Heavy rains have caused serious flood conditions and landslides in many parts of Colombia.

German Art Student Is Found Guilty Of Theft

KIEL, Germany, May 27.—(AP)—A German refugee art student was found guilty today of stealing 1,190 works of art from museums and private collections in the Russian zone of Germany.

The student, Horst Stark, 24, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a 20,000 deutsche mark ($4,760) fine by a German court.

In passing sentence, the court said that never before in German history had one person stolen so many art pieces. The value of his loot has been estimated at 135,000 marks ($32,130). Most of the art pieces were recovered. Those belonging to museums in the Russian zone are to be turned over to the allied high commission for safekeeping and disposition.

Television receivers in cities somewhat remote from the transmitters effect reception by erecting arials on high masts, some even 100 feet.

GRAHAM LEADS IN N. CAROLINA RACE

Unofficial Returns Give Smith 610 Of 1,990 Precincts

RALEIGH, N. C., May 27.—(AP)—Liberal Senator Frank P. Graham carried the administration colors ahead of Willis Smith, his Conservative opponent, in North Carolina's Democratic primary today.

Unofficial returns from 610 of 1,990 precincts gave Graham 73,495 and Smith 61,776.

Former Senator Robert R. Reynolds, trying for a political comeback after retiring from the senate in 1944, apparently had failed. He was far behind with 11,870 votes. Olla Ray Boyd, hog rancher and perennial candidate, had only 1,263.

Graham, former president of the University of North Carolina, campaigned as an administration supporter. But he told the voters he was opposed to a compulsory FEPC, "socialized medicine," and the Brannan farm plan.

Smith, well-to-do corporation lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association, criticized these administration proposals as evidences of a "socialistic" trend.

If none of the candidates receives a majority in the primary, the second high candidate has a right to demand a run-off vote. The run-off, if called, will be held June 24.

Reports from over the state indicated the voting was of near record proportions.

Graham and Smith met in the party primary which is equal to election in North Carolina.

tention here in official quarters although the state department expected that it probably would not result in any highly dangerous clashes on the east-west division line in the city.

On the Far Eastern front, the first Washington reaction was one of puzzlement at news that the principle officers of the Soviet delegation to the supreme occupation headquarters in Tokyo had suddenly been withdrawn and replaced by a group of men described in news dispatches withdrawn and replaced by a group of men described in news dispatches as junior officers. So far as could be learned here the Russians had given no intimation beforehand of their intention.

JURORS DISAGREE

jury filed into the courtroom and Judge Smith asked if its members had reached a verdict.

"We have not," said the foreman, Paul Butterworth, 62, a retired real estate broker.

Smith said the failure to agree was unfortunate "in view of the length of time and expense involved.

But he praised the jurors for having "conscientiously tried to reach a verdict," and then dismissed them.

Two hours earlier, the jurors reported their first failure to agree.

At that time Smith sent them back, after a luncheon recess, to make "one more attempt."

He added, however, that any agreement must be real and must not represent "mere acquiescence" by unconvinced jurors.

Adler and Draper contended in their suit that their reputations were damaged and their earnings suffered because of Mrs. McCullough's charge that they were pro-Communist.

Mrs. McCullough, 32, a Greenwich, Conn., housewife, contended in the month-long trial that her charges were true and that she made them in the public interest. She asserted at one point that she regards Draper and Adler as "concealed Communists."

The suit stems from a published letter in which Mrs. McCullough, wife of an assistant picture editor of Time magazine, said Draper and Adler "openly supported" a number of Communist front organizations.

Fish are being re-stocked in the streams hereabouts, states Game Warden G. M. Collins. He states that last week 320 thousand white perch, bream and bass were taken from bar pits and placed in Bayou DeSiard, Bartholomew and other bodies of water nearby.

This work will be continued as long as re-stocking is available, Mr. Collins said, so this should make all fishermen happy for their outlook for some hard summer fishing is improving.

A really worthwhile project is under way and has already realized the sum of $138, raised by members of the junior class of Ouachita Parish High School as a memorial to Mrs. Lenora Jones, beloved teacher at this school who died recently of cancer. She met her fate with outstanding heroism showing the same sturdy characteristics that had marked her entire career as an instructor. When informed that her case was hopless she made all preparations for the future of her only child, a son in the State University, and was heroic to the end. She was anxious that funds be raised to wage warfare on the disease that cost her life. Students who had always admired this plucky and devoted woman have been only too glad to carry on in her name. The Lenora Jones Memorial is a worthy project and the students are to be commended for their devotion and successful efforts.

The formal dedication of the American Legion Memorial stadium, will take place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burt Sperry, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post, American Legion, will preside at the exercises an invocation will be by Rev. Earnest Duncan Holloway, chaplain of the Legion Post. James Trousdale, Jr., whose efforts to a large degree have been responsible for the erection of the fine stadium, will give a short talk and will introduce mayors of the Twin Cities and president of the Ouachita parish police jury.

Other short talks will be made and there will be selections by the Ouachita Parish High School band. The Neville band, also invited, will be unable to attend because of pressure of duties on commencement week.

Through the indefatigable efforts of Legionnaires assisted by the public. Monroe has now one of the finest baseball stadiums to be found in any city. There is still some indebtedness but it will be liquidated at an early date. All the receipts of the legion at the Tuesday night game will go toward paying what is still owed on the Memorial park equipment.

The Monroe City School Alumni will hold the annual banquet Tuesday at 7 p.m. on Hotel Virginia roof.

W. L. Ethridge, Jr. is president and will preside and assures that it will be a well attended and enthusiastic affair. The recent successful bond issue and the outlook for a great expension of the facilities provided by the city schools make it probable that this banquet will take on enthusiasm over the present outlook.

All alumni are urged to attend and the faculties and the school members and officials generally will be present. Reservations can be had by calling 1314 or 762.

LAFARGUE

LaFargue said that he will be a servant of the people, and not try to be their master if elected to the senate. He said that a new concept and philosophy of government was envolved in the past decade which has been embraced by millions of Americans.

'This concept," he said, "is that the people are servants and wards of the government, subservient to the orders and directives of the individuals employed in the various departments and bureaus of the government."

LaFargue told the audience, many of them former schoolmates and old friends, "I am in this race to win. I promise you that I will be your faithful servant and not your master."

He asked the crowd "How many of you think your elected officials are your servants?"

"Look around you," he told them, "and you will find fear in the eyes of your neighbors — fear of the very servants that you have put into office."

The audience applauded with vigor when LaFargue told them, "Since the death of Senator John Overton his seat in the senate has been vacant. The man filling the position now is there only temporarily. Send me to the senate and I will fill it to the best of my ability."

LaFargue attacked Senator Long for not "punishing" the major projects which are needed in Louisiana. He charged Long with neglecting the welfare of the people of the state while representing them in the senate.

He said that no new flood control projects have been started since the death of Senator Overton. He pointed out that the Morganza spillway, begun during the term of Senator Overton, is now almost complete, and that the Atchafalaya basin flood project has been planned but cannot be started until funds are appropriated.

"We need the Overton canal badly," LaFargue told the people of his home town. He said that $53,000,000 has been allocated for this project, yet only $125,000 has been drawn for planning purposes. He added that congress recently disapproved a new $75,000 appropriation for further surveys on this project.

He charged Senator Long with failure to take part in the arguments over the transfer of the Louisiana tidelands to the federal government. He said that the junior senator has yet to "raise his voice on the tidelands issue."

"Yet nine Louisiana parishes affected by the issue," LaFargue said, "pay approximately one-third of the total severance taxes collected in Louisiana."

He solemnly warned the audience that if the government is successful in grabbing the tidelands, the state will lose much of its revenues for schools.

LaFargue was introduced by Philo Coco, brother of State Senator Chester Coco, of Marksville. Coco pictured LaFargue as a man well-fitted to represent the people of the state in the senate because of his wealth of experience in governmental affairs, accumulated during his 13 years as an assistant United States attorney and later as United States attorney at Shreveport.

D. M. Riddle, Jr., mayor of Marksville and a former school mate of LaFargue, introduced members of LaFargue's family and others on the speaker's stand at the Avoyelles parish courthouse.

Among those introduced were Mrs. John Overton and her daughter, Ruth Overton; LaFargue's wife, his mother, Mrs. Edwin L. LaFargue of Marksville, Col. O. J. Scallan and Mrs. Scallan of Marksville, and Charles Burden, Alexandria attorney.

Riddle told the audience that Marksville has so far produced three outstanding public leaders. He listed them as the late A. E. Coco, former state attorney general; Gaston L. Porterie, former state atttorney general and now a federal judge; and the late Senator Overton.

LaFargue will continue his speaking ttour tomorrow and then go to New Orleans and Baton Rouge for conferences with his leaders there.

Tomorrow he will speak at Church Point at 9:30 a.m., Kaplan at 1:30 p.m., Erath at 4 p.m., and Jeanerette at 7 p.m.

where the Soviet east meets the allied west.

The Moscow-East Berlin axis pumped a human stream of blue-shirted youth ranging from 6 to 24 years old into the devastated heart of the old Nazi reich with something of the precision Hitler's generals once used to move armies.

Western authorities reported during the day that 14 Soviet sector police, fed up with life as they found it, have deserted across the cold war line in the past two days to seek asylum in West Berlin.

A taunting crowd of anti-Communists gathered in the afternoon on the west side of Potsdamer Platz — the times square of divided Berlin — and became furious when eastern police arrested a girl and two men in a no-man's-land corner.

In East Berlin — to chants of "long live Stalin" — F. D. J. legions carried on a vast 12-hour program of fetes and pro-Soviet ora tory.

Before a crowd of 70,000 Communist deputy premier Walter Ulbricht dedicated a sports stadium bearing Stalin's name. "See in Stalin your best friend," Ulbricht urged.

More than 3,000 youngsters paid tribute to Red army dead at the Soviet war memorial in Treptow Park. Their spokesman promised: "we will fight to liberate our brothers and sisters in the West from anglo - American colonial reign."

The quiet West side had an air of tension and readiness. Allied authorities have threatened the sternest measures to put down any organized entry from the East and eastern officials have warned their youth not to stray across the line.

The bill will, of ncessity, be in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment and would require a two-thirds vote in each house and later submission to popular vote before it could become effective.

Rep. White pointed out that 18 year-olds are now voting in Georgia. "If you are old enough to be in the army, then certainly you're old enough to vote and the sooner youth takes an active part in their governmnt the more interested they will become in it, White said.

Rep. Kenndy in speaking for the bill asserted, "the youth of today has a keenr interest in national, state and local affairs than ver before."

The complexity of today's problems has made young people accept responsibilities at an earlier age, he added.

McGrath, in a speech at Omaha, Neb., warned against "witch hunts and frantic name calling." He said:

'We cannot substitute the police state method for existing laws and procedures, as do some who have criticized the present loyalty investigation program and grossly misrepresented it."

McCarthy, whose name was not mentioned in the McGrath speech, has assailed the loyalty program set up by President Truman. He has called state department loyalty investigators incompetent. McGrath said the program protects individual rights.

The Wisconsin Republican senator said in Washington that McGrath's speech sounded like one made by Tom Clark, then attorney general, in 1948 when the house un-American activities committee was exposing Alger Hiss. He said that Clark damned as un-American 'the practice of digging iout and exposing Communists." McCarthy said it looked like the same man wrote both speeches.

McCarthy has accused the state department of harboring Communists and fellow travelers. McGrath contends there are no Communists in government; that the FBI has every Communist in the country tagged.

He said at Omaha that the loyalty program had attested "to the high caliber of character among our federal employes."

McCarthy, in commenting on the Lee ouster action, said "it is extremely late but better late than never."

Secretary Sawyer's action against Lee and Remington was disclosed in a department announcement which said that he had instructed officials on Thursday to request their resignations. It added:

"Should the resignations not be forthcoming, administrative proceedings will be begun looking towards their separation from the department's service."

Senator Malone told a reporter that he will press for an investigation of the commerce department despite Sawyer's action. His resolution to this effect is pending in the committee.

Malone said there are "three or four others" in the department who are 'implicated" in the Lee case.

The department's announcement said that Sawyer's move "is in no wise intended to reflect in any way on the loyalty of either of these two men. Their loyalty cases are now pending before the commerce loyalty board, and no decisions have yet been reached."

The statement added that "the action was taken in the interest of good administration in the department."

Remington's case was revived after he was called before the house un-American activities committee recently.

GRAHAM LEADS IN N. CAROLINA RACE

Unofficial Returns Give Smith 610 Of 1,990 Precincts

RALEIGH, N. C., May 27.—(AP)—Liberal Senator Frank P. Graham carried the administration colors ahead of Willis Smith, his Conservative opponent, in North Carolina's Democratic primary today.

Unofficial returns from 610 of 1,990 precincts gave Graham 73,495 and Smith 61,776.

Former Senator Robert R. Reynolds, trying for a political comeback after retiring from the senate in 1944, apparently had failed. He was far behind with 11,870 votes. Olla Ray Boyd, hog rancher and perennial candidate, had only 1,263.

Graham, former president of the University of North Carolina, campaigned as an administration supporter. But he told the voters he was opposed to a compulsory FEPC, "socialized medicine," and the Brannan farm plan.

Smith, well-to-do corporation lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association, criticized these administration proposals as evidences of a "socialistic" trend.

If none of the candidates receives a majority in the primary, the second high candidate has a right to demand a run-off vote. The run-off, if called, will be held June 24.

Reports from over the state indicated the voting was of near record proportions.

Graham and Smith met in the party primary which is equal to election in North Carolina.

On the Far Eastern front, the first Washington reaction was one of puzzlement at news that the principle officers of the Soviet delegation to the supreme occupation headquarters in Tokyo had suddenly been withdrawn and replaced by a group of men described in news dispatches withdrawn and replaced by a group of men described in news dispatches as junior officers. So far as could be learned here the Russians had given no intimation beforehand of their intention.

JURORS DISAGREE

jury filed into the courtroom and Judge Smith asked if its members had reached a verdict.

"We have not," said the foreman, Paul Butterworth, 62, a retired real estate broker.

Smith said the failure to agree was unfortunate "in view of the length of time and expense involved.

But he praised the jurors for having "conscientiously tried to reach a verdict," and then dismissed them.

Two hours earlier, the jurors reported their first failure to agree.

At that time Smith sent them back, after a luncheon recess, to make "one more attempt."

He added, however, that any agreement must be real and must not represent "mere acquiescence" by unconvinced jurors.

Adler and Draper contended in their suit that their reputations were damaged and their earnings suffered because of Mrs. McCulluogh's charge that they were pro-Communist.

Mrs. McCullough, 32, a Greenwich, Conn., housewife, contended in the month-long trial that her charges were true and that she made them in the public interest. She asserted at one point that she regards Draper and Adler as "concealed Communists."

The suit stems from a published letter in which Mrs. McCullough, wife of an assistant picture editor of Time magazine, said Draper and Adler "openly supported" a number of Communist front organizations.

Fish are being re-stocked in the streams hereabouts, states Game Warden G. M. Collins. He states that last week 320 thousand white perch, bream and bass were taken from bar pits and placed in Bayou DeSiard, Bartholomew and other bodies of water nearby.

This work will be continued as long as re-stocking is available, Mr. Collins said, so this should make all fishermen happy for their outlook for some hard summer fishing is improving.

A really worthwhile project is under way and has already realized the sum of $138, raised by members of the junior class of Ouachita Parish High School as a memorial to Mrs. Lenora Jones, beloved teacher at this school who died recently of cancer. She met her fate with outstanding heroism showing the same sturdy characteristics that had marked her entire career as an instructor. When informed that her case was hopless she made all preparations for the future of her only child, a son in the State University, and was heroic to the end. She was anxious that funds be raised to wage warfare on the disease that cost her life. Students who had always admired this plucky and devoted woman have been only too glad to carry on in her name. The Lenora Jones Memorial is a worthy project and the students are to be commended for their devotion and successful efforts.

The formal dedication of the American Legion Memorial stadium, will take place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Burt Sperry, commander of the L. B. Faulk Post, American Legion, will preside at the exercises an invocation will be by Rev. Earnest Duncan Holloway, chaplain of the Legion Post. James Trousdale, Jr., whose efforts to a large degree have been responsible for the erection of the fine stadium, will give a short talk and will introduce mayors of the Twin Cities and president of the Ouachita parish police jury.

Other short talks will be made and there will be selections by the Ouachita Parish High School band. The Neville band, also invited, will be unable to attend because of pressure of duties on commencement week.

The Monroe City School Alumni will hold the annual banquet Tuesday at 7 p.m. on Hotel Virginia roof.

W. L. Ethridge, Jr. is president and will preside and assures that it will be a well attended and enthusiastic affair. The recent successful bond issue and the outlook for a great expension of the facilities provided by the city schools make it probable that this banquet will take on enthusiasm over the present outlook.

All alumni are urged to attend and the faculties and the school members and officials generally will be present. Reservations can be had by calling 1314 or 762.

LaFargue said that he will be a servant of the people, and not try to be their master if elected to the senate. He said that a new concept and philosophy of government was envolved in the past decade which has been embraced by millions of Americans.

'This concept," he said, "is that the people are servants and wards of the government, subservient to the orders and directives of the individuals employed in the various departments and bureaus of the government."

LaFargue told the audience, many of them former schoolmates and old friends, "I am in this race to win. I promise you that I will be your faithful servant and not your master."

He asked the crowd "How many of you think your elected officials are your servants?"

"Look around you," he told them, "and you will find fear in the eyes of your neighbors — fear of the very servants that you have put into office."

The audience applauded with vigor when LaFargue told them, "Since the death of Senator John Overton his seat in the senate has been vacant. The man filling the position now is there only temporarily. Send me to the senate and I will fill it to the best of my ability."

LaFargue attacked Senator Long for not "punishing" the major projects which are needed in Louisiana. He charged Long with neglecting the welfare of the people of the state while representing them in the senate.

He said that no new flood control projects have been started since the death of Senator Overton. He pointed out that the Morganza spillway, begun during the term of Senator Overton, is now almost complete, and that the Atchafalaya basin flood project has been planned but cannot be started until funds are appropriated.

"We need the Overton canal badly," LaFargue told the people of his home town. He said that $53,000,000 has been allocated for this project, yet only $125,000 has been drawn for planning purposes. He added that congress recently disapproved a new $75,000 appropriation for further surveys on this project.

He charged Senator Long with failure to take part in the arguments over the transfer of the Louisiana tidelands to the federal government. He said that the junior senator has yet to "raise his voice on the tidelands issue."

"Yet nine Louisiana parishes affected by the issue," LaFargue said, "pay approximately one-third of the total severance taxes collected in Louisiana."

He solemnly warned the audience that if the government is successful in grabbing the tidelands, the state will lose much of its revenues for schools.

LaFargue was introduced by Philo Coco, brother of State Senator Chester Coco, of Marksville. Coco pictured LaFargue as a man well-fitted to represent the people of the state in the senate because of his wealth of experience in governmental affairs, accumulated during his 13 years as an assistant United States attorney and later as United States attorney at Shreveport.

SHOE EXPERT

Mrs. Florence Moore has recently joined The Palace to take over managerial duties of the Children's Shoe Department, located on the newly decorated modern fifth floor. Prior to coming here she worked in Crosley's Department Store, the second largest in Detroit. After leaving there she was employed in another shoe department here in Monroe before taking over her present duties. Mrs. Moore states that she carries a complete line of nationally advertised children's shoes to fit any child from infancy up to size three, and as an aid in correct fitting, she uses a scientific X-ray machine. She added that she will be delighted to serve her many friends in her pleasant modern department. (News-Star—World Photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

Work Is Slated For Morganza Floodway

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 27.—(AP)—Work on the Morganza floodway control structure will begin shortly after bids are opened on July 11, Col. Charles Holle, New Orleans district engineer, said today.

Work on the project includes the control dam and a section of Louisiana Highway 30 running across it and a railroad bridge. The site of the dam is three miles north of Morganza, La.

When completed, the structure will be used to divert flood waters from the Mississippi river into the floodway.

Col. Holle also announced that bids will be opened on June 14 for construction of about 1,300 linear feet of revetment on the Red river about six miles below Alexandria.

A compan on project calling for 1,600 linear feet of revetment 20 miles above Shreveport will begin after bids are opened June 20.

Both projects are part of an overall plan for flood control and bank protection of Red river.

PERJURY CHARGES MIGHT BE FILED

Senator McFarland Asks Check On Testimony Of Costello, Erickson

WASHINGTON, May 27. —(AP)— Senators investigating crime and gambling struck on distant fronts today — amidst charges that "crooked big city organizations" are pressuring "high-up channels" to block the probe.

These were highlight developments:

1. Senator McFarland (D.-Ariz.) asked U. S. District Attorney Morris Fay to check on the possibility of filing perjury charges against two reputed kingpins of the underworld, Frank Erickson and Frank Costello.

The two New York figures who have been linked with gambling enterprises throughout the country, testified some weeks ago before McFarland's senate commerce subcommittee which has just won clearance for a bill to curb interstate relay of horse and dog racing information. McFarland said later developments have raised the question as to whether Erickson and Costello gave false testimony to the committee .

2. Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), who heads the special investigating group, pressed super-secret hearings which he launched without advance notice yesterday in Miami. Among the parade of witnesses marching into the closely-guarded federal building at the Florida resort was the chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit and four of his agents. Their presence bolstered speculation that the Kefauver group is hoping to use the same income tax weapon against today's gambling overlords as was used years ago to put Al Capone behind bars.

3. Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.), a member of the investigating group, said "certain outside influences" connected with the Democratic political organization" have already attempted to put the heat on" in an effort to squelch the investigation.

In a speech prepared from delivery from station WGN, Chicago, Wiley did not name any individuals but he said they were "subtle, silk-glove influences—the sort of thing one would expect from billion dollar racketing influences tied up with shady politics."

Warning them they had "better lay off," Wiley added:

"You had better not try any wise-guy stuff on this committee. You had better keep your filthy hands and your filthy attempted influences away, because if you do try to use pressures they are going to boomerang against you and you'll be doubly sorry."

In moving to bring possible perjury charges against Erickson and Costello, McFarland told reporters he had supplied Fay with a transcript of their testimony before his committee. He said he had asked the federal attorney to compare that with papers New York officials recently seized in Erickson's headquarters which, he said, indicate that the two men are associated in many enterprises. At the time of their appearance here, Erickson and Costello had said their only link was an oil well investment.

McFarland also said that Costello had denied here that Louisiana officials had helped him place slot machines in New Orleans, but he declared that Costello's testimony before 1936 grand jury in New York conflicted with this and named certain politicians as aiding him.

The Arizona senator said his group had no intention of recalling the two men for further testimony.

He declared that the committee had taken "full and complete" evidence and that it was up to the justice department to take "appropriate action if perjury in fact was committed."

The maximum penalty for perjury is from 40 months to 10 years in prison, but this is seldom invoked. The minimum penalty is eight months to two years in jail.

SHOE EXPERT

Mrs. Florence Moore has recently joined The Palace to take over managerial duties of the Children's Shoe Department, located on the newly decorated modern fifth floor. Prior to coming here she worked in Crosley's Department Store, the second largest in Detroit. After leaving there she was employed in another shoe department here in Monroe before taking over her present duties. Mrs. Moore states that she carries a complete line of nationally advertised children's shoes to fit any child from infancy up to size three, and as an aid in correct fitting, she uses a scientific X-ray machine. She added that she will be delighted to serve her many friends in her pleasant modern department. (News-Star—World Photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

Work Is Slated For Morganza Floodway

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 27.—(AP)—Work on the Morganza floodway control structure will begin shortly after bids are opened on July 11, Col. Charles Holle, New Orleans district engineer, said today.

Work on the project includes the control dam and a section of Louisiana Highway 30 running across it and a railroad bridge. The site of the dam is three miles north of Morganza, La.

When completed, the structure will be used to divert flood waters from the Mississippi river into the floodway.

Col. Holle also announced that bids will be opened on June 14 for construction of about 1,300 linear feet of revetment on the Red river about six miles below Alexandria.

A compan on project calling for 1,600 linear feet of revetment 20 miles above Shreveport will begin after bids are opened June 20.

Both projects are part of an overall plan for flood control and bank protection of Red river.

PERJURY CHARGES MIGHT BE FILED

Senator McFarland Asks Check On Testimony Of Costello, Erickson

WASHINGTON, May 27. —(AP)— Senators investigating crime and gambling struck on distant fronts today — amidst charges that "crooked big city organizations" are pressuring "high-up channels" to block the probe.

These were highlight developments:

1. Senator McFarland (D.-Ariz.) asked U. S. District Attorney Morris Fay to check on the possibility of filing perjury charges against two reputed kingpins of the underworld, Frank Erickson and Frank Costello.

The two New York figures who have been linked with gambling enterprises throughout the country, testified some weeks ago before McFarland's senate commerce subcommittee which has just won clearance for a bill to curb interstate relay of horse and dog racing information. McFarland said later developments have raised the question as to whether Erickson and Costello gave false testimony to the committee .

2. Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), who heads the special investigating group, pressed super-secret hearings which he launched without advance notice yesterday in Miami. Among the parade of witnesses marching into the closely-guarded federal building at the Florida resort was the chief of the internal revenue bureau's intelligence unit and four of his agents. Their presence bolstered speculation that the Kefauver group is hoping to use the same income tax weapon against today's gambling overlords as was used years ago to put Al Capone behind bars.

3. Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.), a member of the investigating group, said "certain outside influences" connected with the Democratic political organization" have already attempted to put the heat on" in an effort to squelch the investigation.

In a speech prepared from delivery from station WGN, Chicago, Wiley did not name any individuals but he said they were "subtle, silk-glove influences—the sort of thing one would expect from billion dollar racketing influences tied up with shady politics."

Warning them they had "better lay off," Wiley added:

"You had better not try any wise-guy stuff on this committee. You had better keep your filthy hands and your filthy attempted influences away, because if you do try to use pressures they are going to boomerang against you and you'll be doubly sorry."

In moving to bring possible perjury charges against Erickson and Costello, McFarland told reporters he had supplied Fay with a transcript of their testimony before his committee. He said he had asked the federal attorney to compare that with papers New York officials recently seized in Erickson's headquarters which, he said, indicate that the two men are associated in many enterprises. At the time of their appearance here, Erickson and Costello had said their only link was an oil well investment.

McFarland also said that Costello had denied here that Louisiana officials had helped him place slot machines in New Orleans, but he declared that Costello's testimony before 1936 grand jury in New York conflicted with this and named certain politicians as aiding him.

The Arizona senator said his group had no intention of recalling the two men for further testimony.

He declared that the committee had taken "full and complete" evidence and that it was up to the justice department to take "appropriate action if perjury in fact was committed."

The maximum penalty for perjury is from 40 months to 10 years in prison, but this is seldom invoked. The minimum penalty is eight months to two years in jail.

MONROE BLASTS CLARKSDALE FOR 14-9 WIN

SPORTS USE TWO HUGE INNINGS TO BLAST PLANTERS

Allen Cross, Frank Benites Hit Homers To Spark Winning Attack

CLARKSDALE, Miss., May 27.—(Special)—The Monroe Sports, winning their eighth game in their last ten starts, used two big innings to take the measure of the Clarksdale Planters, 14 to 9, in the opener of a three-game series here tonight. The two clubs clash here again tomorrow afternoon in their second game, and play here again Monday night.

The Sports clinched the victory with a six-run fifth inning and a five-run uprising in the seventh at the expense of four Clarksdale hurlers.

Cliff Coggin, the Monroe ace, hurled his seventh victory against a lone loss, but he was in trouble most of the night and only the lusty hitting of a usually weak Monroe batting order kept him in the win column.

Allen R. "A. B." Cross and Frank Benites socked homers for the Sports. Dave Dick hit for the circuit fro Clarksdale.

The Sports went ahead with one run in the opening inning when Al Mazur walked, advanced on a hit by Wally Rasmussen and scored on an error, but the Planters came through with three runs in the third on hits by Hardie Nettles, Dave Dick and Norm Stephens with a free pass to Laddie Paul sandwiched in between.

Allen Cross homered in the fourth, and Frank Benites tied up the score when he hit for the circuit to start off a six-run rally in the fifth to start the Sports toward a commanding lead.

Following Benites' big blow, Chuck Herring walked, Mazur singled, Leonard Morrison and Carl Tucker followed with free passes, and Cross socked a single to highlight the big frame for Monroe.

Dave Dick narrowed the Sports' lead slightly when he homered for the Dodgers in the bottom of the fifth, but the invaders were away with another big rally—five runs this time — in the seventh. With one out Morrison doubled, Tucker, Cross, and Mendoza drew successive walks. Benites hammered out a double, then Herring walked, and Mazur singled. Rasmussen, who made the first out in the inning, came up for the third out.

The Planters came whittling back in their half of the seventh, getting two runs as Nettles walked and came all the way home on an error when Paul pounded out a single. Mazur, fielding the ball, had thrown wild to third, enabling Nettles to score and allowing Paul to go to second. Paul made third on a single by Dick and score on an outfield fly by Wayne Haas.

One more Monroe run came home in the eighth as Morrison walked, advanced as Cross got a free pass, and scored on a single by Benites.

Three Monroe errors handed the Planters three runs in the eighth. Jack Zajac grounded to Herring who threw wild to first. Nettles got on base the same way a minute later, with Zajac scoring on the error of Nettles' grounder to short. Mendoza's error on Dick's drive enabled Nettles to come home, and a single by Don Steger brought Dick home with the final run of the game.

Skeet Club Expects To Have Lights Soon

Monroe skeet shooters continue their regular Sunday afternoon show at their range, Plum and Sixth streets this afternoon, and it apparently won't be long before night shooting will be possible here.

Range Manager J. B. Thoman last night said Commissioner Frank Cline and members of the city electrical department have complete installment of wiring, and the range is now awaiting only the necessary reflectors before trying their shooting after dark.

Jack Moore headed shooters last Sunday, cracking 97 of his 100 targets. S. K. Bernheim, who jointly operates the range with Thoman, had a high count, missing only one out of 100.

Other high scorers were Ross Graves, 82x100; E. W. Andrews, 76x100; "Pop" Walker, 36x50; J. B. Thoman, 88x100; Bill Andrews, 45x50; Glen Anderson, 48x50; J. W. Richards, 23x25, Jim Steele, 23x25 and Bill Snyder, 37x50.

Boxing, Westling Sha[re] Spotlight At Kallio's Are[na] Tuesday Night

Cronin, Keene Meet In 10-Rounder; Segura, G. Curtis On Mat

A scheduled 10-round boxing match and a 90 - minute time limit wrestling exhibition headline Tuesday night's regular weekly show at Gus Kallio's Arena here.

Promoter Kallio last night announced Pat Cronin, Jackson, Miss., and Don Keene, Columbus, O., will be the opponents on the boxing card, while the mat event will bring together Bobby Segura, recently crowned champion of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers, and George Curtis, younger brother of Jack Curtis, former title holder.

Cronin and Keene gave the fans a lively mat exhibition last week with both battlers using their fists so freely that Keene issued a challenge for the bout with the gloves.

Cronin is an ex-boxer and quite a puncher although he hasn't followed the trade so closely in recent years since swinging over to the wrestling business. Keene figures he knows enough about fisticuffs to give Cronin a rough night.

Young Curtis, realizing he had a match with Segura in the making, tried his best to have the bout billed as a title affair, but the Mexican refused to risk so soon the belt he won only a week ago.

Segura, from Mexico City, who has been making periodic invasions of the states in recent years in quest of the world's crown, finally added the big diadem to his Mexican crown when he beat Balk Estes of Elk City, Okla., at Pensacola, Fla., Thursday night a week ago.

Promoter Kallio last night said Pat Willis, Jackson, Miss., will referee both the boxing and wrestling events.

Allen Cross, Frank Benites Hit Homers To Spark Winning Attack

CLARKSDALE, Miss., May 27.—(Special)—The Monroe Sports, winning their eighth game in their last ten starts, used two big innings to take the measure of the Clarksdale Planters, 14 to 9, in the opener of a three-game series here tonight. The two clubs clash here again tomorrow afternoon in their second game, and play here again Monday night.

The Sports clinched the victory with a six-run fifth inning and a five-run uprising in the seventh at the expense of four Clarksdale hurlers.

Cliff Coggin, the Monroe ace, hurled his seventh victory against a lone loss, but he was in trouble most of the night and only the lusty hitting of a usually weak Monroe batting order kept him in the win column.

Allen R. "A. B." Cross and Frank Benites socked homers for the Sports. Dave Dick hit for the circuit fro Clarksdale.

The Sports went ahead with one run in the opening inning when Al Mazur walked, advanced on a hit by Wally Rasmussen and scored on an error, but the Planters came through with three runs in the third on hits by Hardie Nettles, Dave Dick and Norm Stephens with a free pass to Laddie Paul sandwiched in between.

Allen Cross homered in the fourth, and Frank Benites tied up the score when he hit for the circuit to start off a six-run rally in the fifth to start the Sports toward a commanding lead.

Following Benites' big blow, Chuck Herring walked, Mazur singled, Leonard Morrison and Carl Tucker followed with free passes, and Cross socked a single to highlight the big frame for Monroe.

Dave Dick narrowed the Sports' lead slightly when he homered for the Dodgers in the bottom of the fifth, but the invaders were away with another big rally—five runs this time — in the seventh. With one out Morrison doubled, Tucker, Cross, and Mendoza drew successive walks, Benites hammered out a double, then Herring walked, and Mazur singled. Rasmussen, who made the first out in the inning, came up for the third out.

The Planters came whittling back in their half of the seventh, getting two runs as Nettles walked and came all the way home on an error when Paul pounded out a single. Mazur, fielding the ball, had thrown wild to third, enabling Nettles to score and allowing Paul to go to second. Paul made third on a single by Dick and score on an outfield fly by Wayne Haas.

One more Monroe run came home in the eighth as Morrison walked, advanced as Cross got a free pass, and scored on a single by Benites.

Three Monroe errors handed the Planters three runs in the eighth. Jack Zajac grounded to Herring who threw wild to first. Nettles got on base the same way a minute later, with Zajac scoring on the error of Nettles' grounder to short. Mendoza's error on Dick's drive enabled Nettles to come home, and a single by Don Steger brought Dick home with the final run of the game.

Skeet Club Expects To Have Lights Soon

Monroe skeet shooters continue their regular Sunday afternoon show at their range, Plum and Sixth streets this afternoon, and it apparently won't be long before night shooting will be possible here.

Range Manager J. B. Thoman last night said Commissioner Frank Cline and members of the city electrical department have complete installment of wiring, and the range is now awaiting only the necessary reflectors before trying their shooting after dark.

Jack Moore headed shooters last Sunday, cracking 97 of his 100 targets. S. K. Bernheim, who jointly operates the range with Thoman, had a high count, missing only one out of 100.

Other high scorers were Ross Graves, 82x100; E. W. Andrews, 76x100; "Pop" Walker, 36x50; J. B. Thoman, 88x100; Bill Andrews, 45x50; Glen Anderson, 48x50; J. W. Richards, 23x25, Jim Steele, 23x25 and Bill Snyder, 37x50.

Boxing, Westling Sha[e] Spotlight At Kallio's Are[a] Tuesday Night

Cronin, Keene Meet In 10-Rounder; Segura, G. Curtis On Mat

A scheduled 10-round boxing match and a 90 - minute time limit wrestling exhibition headline Tuesday night's regular weekly show at Gus Kallio's Arena here.

Promoter Kallio last night announced Pat Cronin, Jackson, Miss., and Don Keene, Columbus, O., will be the opponents on the boxing card, while the mat event will bring together Bobby Segura, recently crowned champion of the world's light heavyweight wrestlers, and George Curtis, younger brother of Jack Curtis, former title holder.

Cronin and Keene gave the fans a lively mat exhibition last week with both battlers using their fists so freely that Keene issued a challenge for the bout with the gloves.

Cronin is an ex-boxer and quite a puncher although he hasn't followed the trade so closely in recent years since swinging over to the wrestling business. Keene figures he knows enough about fisticuffs to give Cronin a rough night.

Young Curtis, realizing he had a match with Segura in the making, tried his best to have the bout billed as a title affair, but the Mexican refused to risk so soon the belt he won only a week ago.

Segura, from Mexico City, who has been making periodic invasions of the states in recent years in quest of the world's crown, finally added the big diadem to his Mexican crown when he beat Balk Estes of Elk City, Okla., at Pensacola, Fla., Thursday night a week ago.

Promoter Kallio last night said Pat Willis, Jackson, Miss., will referee both the boxing and wrestling events.

MUSIAL SPARKS CARDS PAST REDLEGS, 9 TO 1

Sauer's Circuit Clouts Help Cubs Turn Back Pirates, 7 To 5

CINCINNATI, May 27.—(AP)—The mighty Musial—Stan is the first name — gave Cincinnati pitchers another clubbing today and his two home runs, good for four runs, sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9 to 1 victory over the Reds.

Musial's two big blasts, each coming with a man on base, gave him three circuit blows in the two games the Cards have played here in the current series.

He also picked up a single for three hits in five times at bat.

Harry Brecheen, winning his third game as against two defeats, went all the way for the Cardinals on the mound. He rarely was in trouble and the last placers got only seven hits off the little south paw.

The Cardinals got to Herman Wehmeier in a hurry and got enough runs in the first inning to win and that was even before Musial began unlimbering his heavy artillery. Joe Garagiola's double drove in two runs for the Cards in that opening frame.

Musial went into action in the third. His first homer into the right field bleachers scored Red Schoendienst who had singled and also brought an end to Wehmeier's pitching duties. The Cards added another run in that frame and then coasted along with a safe 5 to 0 and then 5 to 1 lead until the eighth when they broke out again.

Marty Marion and Brecheen opened with singles and Marion scored on Tommy Glaviano's double. Brecheen rode hime on Schoendienst's fly and Mussial followed with his second homer.

Cincinnati's only run was scored on a walk to Lloyd Merriman and singles by Johnny Wyrostek and Ted Kluszewski.

Louise Suggs Holds Eastern Open Lead

NEWTON, Mass., May 27.—(AP)— Plucky Louise Suggs of Atlanta set a new women's course record despite a stomach disorder today to take the lead in the $3,000 women's eastern open tournament at Woodland golf club.

Miss Suggs shot a sparkling 69, two under men's par for the testy woodland layout. This coupled with her first round 75 gave her a total of 144, a stroke better than Patty Berg of Chicago.

Babe Didrickson Zaharias of Chicago added a steady 73 to her opening round 74 and wound up tied for third at 147 with 22-year-old Alice Bauer of Midland, Texas. The elder of the golfing Bauer girls shot a 75 to add to her first round 72.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., whose first round 70 gave her the lead yesterday, dropped back to fifth with a 78 today.

Glamour gal Bettye Mims Danoff of Dallas, Tex., was only a stroke under women's par at 75. Coupled with her opening round 79, this gave her 154, good for sixth position.

The other half of the Bauer team, 16-year-old Marlene, experienced difficulty off the tee and took an 80. This gave her a two-day total of 157 and seventh spot, just one stroke ahead of two New England amateurs, Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., and Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn.

NEW YORK, May 27. —(AP)— Next Move's claim to the 3-year-old filly championship was solidified today at Belmont Park when she won the Coaching Club American Oaks in the fastest time ever for the 34-year-old mile and three-eighths classic.

She was timed in 2:15 4-5, a full second faster than War Plumage's 2:16 4-5 in 1939. The track record of 2:14 1-5 was set in 1920 by Man O'War.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's homebred daughter of Bull Lea-Now What was fifth turning for home, when Jockey Eric Guerin shot her into an opening along the rail to take command inside the sixteenth pole.

She drew off to a length victory over Hal Price Headley's Aegina, who finished four lengths ahead of Ogden Phipps' Busanda.

Greentree stable's Sunday Evening, who was running alongside Next Move until the five eighths pole, flattened out in the stretch and finished fourth. Eight fillies went to the post.

The victory, worth $44,500, gives Next Move total earnings of $88,625. Solid favorite with the crowd of 36,396, she returned $4.60, $3.40 and $2.70. Aegina paid $21.30 to place and $9.40 to show. Busanda returned $4.90.

Earlier the fans got a thrill when King Ranch's regally - bred Black Douglas, making his first appearance under silks, sped four and a half furlongs down the Widener straightaway course in 50 1-5 a track and world record.

Louise Suggs Holds Eastern Open Lead

NEWTON, Mass., May 27.—(AP)—Plucky Louise Suggs of Atlanta set a new women's course record despite a stomach disorder today to take the lead in the $3,000 women's eastern open tournament at Woodland golf club.

Miss Suggs shot a sparkling 69, two under men's par for the testy woodland layout. This coupled with her first round 75 gave her a total of 144, a stroke better than Patty Berg of Chicago.

Babe Didrickson Zaharias of Chicago added a steady 73 to her opening round 74 and wound up tied for third at 147 with 22-year-old Alice Bauer of Midland, Texas. The elder of the golfing Bauer girls shot a 75 to add to her first round 72.

Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., whose first round 70 gave her the lead yesterday, dropped back to fifth with a 78 today.

Glamour gal Bettye Mims Danoff of Dallas, Tex., was only a stroke under women's par at 75. Coupled with her opening round 79, this gave her 154, good for sixth position.

The other half of the Bauer team, 16-year-old Marlene, experienced difficulty off the tee and took an 80. This gave her a two-day total of 157 and seventh spot, just one stroke ahead of two New England amateurs, Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., and Grace Lenczyk of Hartford, Conn.

She was timed in 2:15 4-5, a full second faster than War Plumage's 2:16 4-5 in 1939. The track record of 2:14 1-5 was set in 1920 by Man O'War.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's homebred daughter of Bull Lea-Now What was fifth turning for home, when Jockey Eric Guerin shot her into an opening along the rail to take command inside the sixteenth pole.

She drew off to a length victory over Hal Price Headley's Aegina, who finished four lengths ahead of Ogden Phipps' Busanda.

Greentree stable's Sunday Evening, who was running alongside Next Move until the five eighths pole, flattened out in the stretch and finished fourth. Eight fillies went to the post.

The victory, worth $44,500, gives Next Move total earnings of $88,625. Solid favorite with the crowd of 36,396, she returned $4.60, $3.40 and $2.70. Aegina paid $21.30 to place and $9.40 to show. Busanda returned $4.90.

ATHLETICS SNAP YANKEES' 9-GAME STREAK

White Sox Take Indians, 6 To 1; Bengals Whip Browns, 8 To 6

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—(AP)—Lefty Lou Brissie snapped the New York Yankees' nine-game winning streak today as he pitched the lowly Philadelphia Athletics to a 6-1 victory over the world champions.

Brissie gave up only three hits as he turned in his first triumph to halt his six game losing spell.

The first safety granted by Brissie resulted in the only Yank run. Brissie walked Billy Johnson with one out in the second and the Yank third baseman scored one out later when Joe Collins tripled to center.

Meanwhile the A's cracked Allie Reynolds and Bob Porterfield for 11 hits, Eddie Joost leading the attack with a pair of home runs.

The A's were handed a run in the first inning when Reynolds walked four batters. Reynolds also struck out the side in the first.

Reynolds yielded another run in the third on a double and three singles. Paul Lehner doubled with one out. Sam Chapman then got an automatic single and Lehner was automatically out when Chapman's grounder hit Lehner on the leg. Elmer Valo and Ferris Fain followed with singles before Pete Suder flied out to end the rally.

Joost hit his first homer of the game with two down in the fourth. The A's clinched matters with two runs in the fifth on Fain's double, a walk, and singles by Suder and Brissie. Joost completed the scoring with his sixth homer of the season in the eighth inning off Bob Porterfield.

The victory was the first for the A's under the field leadership of Jimmy Dykes who was named assistant manager last night.

Risk A Whirl Captures Plymouth Rock Handicap

BOSTON, May 27.—(AP)—Risk A Whirl, Maurice Kahlbaum's four-year-old daughter of Whirlaway, captured today's 12th running of the $5,000 Plymouth Rock Handicap at Suffolk Downs by a nose in a three-horse photo finish.

S. J. Brown's Harbourton was second in the field of six horses bunched most of the way. The six furlong spring was witnessed by 20,825.

Harbourton edged Charles Ruffi's Blue Grip by a nose as Risk A Whirl was timed in 1:11 3-5. Risk A Whirl paid $12.20. Harbourton was an even money choice.

SPEEDWAY LINEUP ABOUT COMPLETE

33 Cars Will Be Tagged For Start In Tuesday's 500-Mile Grind

By Dale Burgess

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—(AP)—The 33-car starting lineup for the 500-mile Memorial Day race was filled tentatively today.

Twelve cars made qualifying runs at the Indianapolis Speedway today, and 11 mover provisionally into the last four rows of the starting lineup. The 12th was in and out again—too slow.

Several of the 33 probably will be bumped out of the race by faster cars qualifying tomorrow, the last day.

One-legged Bill Schindler had the top combination of good and bad breaks. He won the $500 prize for the day's fastest qualification as he drove the auto Shippers Special at 132.690 miles an hour, the sixth fastest qualifying time in the history of the speedway.

Then he broke a piston and tore up his motor. His garage crew hoped to have it back in shape by tomorrow, or at least by race day.

This will be Schindler's first try at the 500, but the Freeport, Long Island, driver long has been a champion eastern midget driver. He's aided by an artificial leg in the big cars, which have more room, but he drives midgets without it.

Troy Ruttman of Ontario, Calif., made the grade in his second try of the day, driving the Bowes Seal Fast Special at 131.912 miles an hour. He had cracked up the car and injured himself in practice.

Jimmy Jackson of Desert Hot Springs, Calif., put the Cummins Diesel in the lineup, but on the ragged edge at 129.208. It was the slowest of the 11 which made the grade today and the second slowest of the tentative 33. It will be out of the race if two or more cars qualify at higher speeds tomorrow. First to go out tomorrow would be Cliff Griffith and the Sarafoff Special, qualified last weekend at 129.014.

The in-and-outer today was Joe James of Van Nuys, Calif., driving the Bob Estes V-8 Special, a semi-stock car. His average of 124.176 was one of the best ever made by that type of car but was five miles an hour too slow for the 1950 race.

Jim Rathman, Alhambra, Calif. joined his brother, Dick, in the race lineup. Jim, who finished 11th last year, qualified the Pioneer Auto Repair Special at 129.959. Dick, a rookie here, made 130.928 in the City of Glendale Special last weekend.

The edgy drivers were on hand early today as soon as the track was opened for the 10-mile runs.

First across the line was Walt Ader, Bernardsville, N. J. He sent the Indianapolis entry, the new Sampson Special, around the track at an average speed of 129.940 miles. Ader is a newcomer to the big track.

Sam Hanks, Glendale, Calif., qualified for his fifth 500, in the Merz Engineering Special, at 131.593 miles an hour. The car is owned by Milt Marion, Jericho, Long Island.

The newest entry of the master 500 car builder, Lou Moore, was qualified by Lee Wallard, Altamont, N. Y. Moore's Blue Crown Special, most recently built of the Moore stable of four, turned in a run at 132.436, the best time for any of the Moore cars this year.

Eros pulled the "giant killer" role of the week as they dropped the powerful Chatham Red Sox from the undefeated ranks. The leaders will go to Quitman today for a game against Manager Thomas' improved club, while Eros takes on West Monroe at Eros. Ansley will pay their first visit to Weston of the current season.

Danville may run into trouble at Saline, while Oil Field Center should have a victory over the young Martin team. Simsboro journeys to Ashland to round out the week's schedule.

Ferriday Legion Nine Set To Open Season

FERRIDAY, La., May 27.—(Special)—The American Legion Junior baseball East League will open its fourth season Tuesday afternoon in Ferriday with the Ferriday Red Sox playing host to the Delhi Bears champions of the loop in 1949.

Friday night the team plays in Jonesville under the arcs.

The league has added to new clubs this year, Columbia and Oak Grove have been admitted. Other clubs will be Tallulah, Lake Providence, Delhi, Winnsboro, Jonesville, and Ferriday.

Coach Charles Loomis, coach of Ferriday High School Bulldogs, will be in charge of the Sox.

FRENCH HORSE EPSOM WINNER

Galcador Beats Out Favored Prince Simon In British Race

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 27.—(AP)—Galcador, a French 100 to 9 shot, outran the favored American - bred Prince Simon in the stretch today and won the famed Epsom Down Derby to the surprise of King George, Queen Elizabeth and some 50,000 other spectators.

The victory margin was by a mere head with Double Eclipse, a 40 to 1 stablemate of Prince Simon, four lengths further back in third place. Twenty - five three year old colts started.

Prince Simon, 2 to 1 favorite, was two and a half lengths in front as the huge field turned into the up-hill home stretch. Then Galcador, running for Marcel Boussac of Paris, came shooting out of the pack to collar the Prince 220 yards from home.

A hundred yards from the finish Jockey Rae Johnstone got Galcador's nose in front and kept it there.

Thus New York banker William Woodward's eleventh try to win the famed derby was frustrated again. Woodward listened in New York to the race, won but once in its 172 runnings by an American bred horse.

Galcador traveled the mile and a half in 2:36 4-5, three seconds off the record, on a track that rated no better than dull. It was the richest of them all, with the winner netting $47,629.

Winnsboro Nips Olla In Title Game, 5 To 1

WINNSBORO, La., May 27.—(Special)—The Winnsboro High School Wildcats won the championship of the Northwest Louisiana Rally, rained out last week at Natchitoches, in their home park here today as they defeated Olla-Standard in the finals, 5 to 1.

The Wildcats had beaten Heflin, 4-3, last Tuesday, and got a semifinal forfeit from Gilbert to move into play with Olla.

Raymond Taliaferro hurled all the way for Coach John Nicosia's Cats, allowing only two hits and fanning 12. Jack King and John King shared the pitching for the Tigers.

Jimmy Guice, only senior on the Winnsboro team, led the local attack with two hits in three times at bat.

White Sox Take Indians, 6 To 1; Bengals Whip Browns, 8 To 6

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—(AP)—Lefty Lou Brissie snapped the New York Yankees' nine-game winning streak today as he pitched the lowly Philadelphia Athletics to a 6-1 victory over the world champions.

Brissie gave up only three hits as he turned in his first triumph to halt his six game losing spell.

The first safety granted by Brissie resulted in the only Yank run. Brissie walked Billy Johnson with one out in the second and the Yank third baseman scored one out later when Joe Collins tripled to center.

Meanwhile the A's cracked Allie Reynolds and Bob Porterfield for 11 hits, Eddie Joost leading the attack with a pair of home runs.

The A's were handed a run in the first inning when Reynolds walked four batters. Reynolds also struck out the side in the first.

Reynolds yielded another run in the third on a double and three singles. Paul Lehner doubled with one out. Sam Chapman then got an automatic single and Lehner was automatically out when Chapman's grounder hit Lehner on the leg. Elmer Valo and Ferris Fain followed with singles before Pete Suder flied out to end the rally.

Joost hit his first homer of the game with two down in the fourth. The A's clinched matters with two runs in the fifth on Fain's double, a walk, and singles by Suder and Brissie. Joost completed the scoring with his sixth homer of the season in the eighth inning off Bob Porterfield.

The victory was the first for the A's under the field leadership of Jimmy Dykes who was named assistant manager last night.

Risk A Whirl Captures Plymouth Rock Handicap

BOSTON, May 27.—(AP)—Risk A Whirl, Maurice Kahlbaum's four-year-old daughter of Whirlaway, captured today's 12th running of the $5,000 Plymouth Rock Handicap at Suffolk Downs by a nose in a three-horse photo finish.

S. J. Brown's Harbourton was second in the field of six horses bunched most of the way. The six furlong spring was witnessed by 20,825.

Harbourton edged Charles Ruffi's Blue Grip by a nose as Risk A Whirl was timed in 1:11 3-5. Risk A Whirl paid $12.20. Harbourton was an even money choice.

SPEEDWAY LINEUP ABOUT COMPLETE

By Dale Burgess

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—(AP)—The 33-car starting lineup for the 500-mile Memorial Day race was filled tentatively today.

Twelve cars made qualifying runs at the Indianapolis Speedway today, and 11 mover provisionally into the last four rows of the starting lineup. The 12th was in and out again—too slow.

Several of the 33 probably will be bumped out of the race by faster cars qualifying tomorrow, the last day.

One-legged Bill Schindler had the top combination of good and bad breaks. He won the $500 prize for the day's fastest qualification as he drove the auto Shippers Special at 132.690 miles an hour, the sixth fastest qualifying time in the history of the speedway.

Then he broke a piston and tore up his motor. His garage crew hoped to have it back in shape by tomorrow, or at least by race day.

This will be Schindler's first try at the 500, but the Freeport, Long Island, driver long has been a champion eastern midget driver. He's aided by an artificial leg in the big cars, which have more room, but he drives midgets without it.

Troy Ruttman of Ontario, Calif., made the grade in his second try of the day, driving the Bowes Seal Fast Special at 131.912 miles an hour. He had cracked up the car and injured himself in practice.

Jimmy Jackson of Desert Hot Springs, Calif., put the Cummins Diesel in the lineup, but on the ragged edge at 129.208. It was the slowest of the 11 which made the grade today and the second slowest of the tentative 33. It will be out of the race if two or more cars qualify at higher speeds tomorrow. First to go out tomorrow would be Cliff Griffith and the Sarafoff Special, qualified last weekend at 129.014.

The in-and-outer today was Joe James of Van Nuys, Calif., driving the Bob Estes V-8 Special, a semi-stock car. His average of 124.176 was one of the best ever made by that type of car but was five miles an hour too slow for the 1950 race.

Jim Rathman, Alhambra, Calif. joined his brother, Dick, in the race lineup. Jim, who finished 11th last year, qualified the Pioneer Auto Repair Special at 129.959. Dick, a rookie here, made 130.928 in the City of Glendale Special last weekend.

The edgy drivers were on hand early today as soon as the track was opened for the 10-mile runs.

First across the line was Walt Ader, Bernardsville, N. J. He sent the Indianapolis entry, the new Sampson Special, around the track at an average speed of 129.940 miles. Ader is a newcomer to the big track.

Sam Hanks, Glendale, Calif., qualified for his fifth 500, in the Merz Engineering Special, at 131.593 miles an hour. The car is owned by Milt Marion, Jericho, Long Island.

The newest entry of the master 500 car builder, Lou Moore, was qualified by Lee Wallard, Altamont, N. Y. Moore's Blue Crown Special, most recently built of the Moore stable of four, turned in a run at 132.436, the best time for any of the Moore cars this year.

Eros pulled the "giant killer" role of the week as they dropped the powerful Chatham Red Sox from the undefeated ranks. The leaders will go to Quitman today for a game against Manager Thomas' improved club, while Eros takes on West Monroe at Eros. Ansley will pay their first visit to Weston of the current season.

Danville may run into trouble at Saline, while Oil Field Center should have a victory over the young Martin team. Simsboro journeys to Ashland to round out the week's schedule.

Ferriday Legion Nine Set To Open Season

FERRIDAY, La., May 27.—(Special)—The American Legion Junior baseball East League will open its fourth season Tuesday afternoon in Ferriday with the Ferriday Red Sox playing host to the Delhi Bears champions of the loop in 1949.

FRENCH HORSE EPSOM WINNER

Galcador Beats Out Favored Prince Simon In British Race

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 27.—(AP)—Galcador, a French 100 to 9 shot, outran the favored American - bred Prince Simon in the stretch today and won the famed Epsom Down Derby to the surprise of King George, Queen Elizabeth and some 50,000 other spectators.

The victory margin was by a mere head with Double Eclipse, a 40 to 1 stablemate of Prince Simon, four lengths further back in third place. Twenty - five three year old colts started.

Prince Simon, 2 to 1 favorite, was two and a half lengths in front as the huge field turned into the up-hill home stretch. Then Galcador, running for Marcel Boussac of Paris, came shooting out of the pack to collar the Prince 220 yards from home.

A hundred yards from the finish Jockey Rae Johnstone got Galcador's nose in front and kept it there.

Thus New York banker William Woodward's eleventh try to win the famed derby was frustrated again. Woodward listened in New York to the race, won but once in its 172 runnings by an American bred horse.

Galcador traveled the mile and a half in 2:36 4-5, three seconds off the record, on a track that rated no better than dull. It was the richest of them all, with the winner netting $47,629.

Winnsboro Nips Olla In Title Game, 5 To 1

WINNSBORO, La., May 27.—(Special)—The Winnsboro High School Wildcats won the championship of the Northwest Louisiana Rally, rained out last week at Natchitoches, in their home park here today as they defeated Olla-Standard in the finals, 5 to 1.

The Wildcats had beaten Heflin, 4-3, last Tuesday, and got a semifinal forfeit from Gilbert to move into play with Olla.

Raymond Taliaferro hurled all the way for Coach John Nicosia's Cats, allowing only two hits and fanning 12. Jack King and John King shared the pitching for the Tigers.

Jimmy Guice, only senior on the Winnsboro team, led the local attack with two hits in three times at bat.

SLAMMIN' SAM FIRES 4-UNDER FOR 3RD ROUND

'Porky' Oliver Trails Pacemaker At Fort Worth With 209 Total

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 27.—(AP)—Sam Snead's putter was smoking hot today and he celebrated the thirty-eighth anniversary of his birth with a four-under-par 66 and a long lead at the three-quarters mark in the $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., top man of professional golf, turned his second 66 round of the tourney and made his 54-hole total 204—five strokes better than Ed (Porky) Oliver, the links' round man from Seattle, Wash. Oliver puffed in with a par 70 and a total of 209 for second place.

Snead finished to find a gallery of 7,500 on the eighteenth green where Lacy Boggess, president of Colonial Country Club, presented him with a birthday cake.

"We knew you were comin' so we baked a cake," entoned Boggess. Then Jimmie Demaret of Ojai, Calif., golf's fashion plate, led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday".

Snead admitted that he was 38. "That is a fact," he drawled. "I ain't like Demaret, whose going back with his years alla time."

The tournament record books show Snead to be 37 but he says that's wrong.

It was a day of par-smashing over the par 35-35—70, 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course as the sun shone and the greens were lightning fast. Snead, who complained of the cups yesterday when he had a 72, grinned today and said "they're much better."

The gallery today—the first day of tourney in which there has been favorable weather — was the biggest ever drawn here.

Snead said he wasn't playing very well but that great putting made up for other lapses. He turned the first nine in 32—just one stroke over the course record set in the 1941 national open by Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill. It was one of two 32s shot today. Henry Picard of Cleveland, O., did it in laying down a round of 68 that pushed him to 214 and a tie with Norman Von Nida of Sydney, Australia, for seventh place.

Par was bettered six times on the course today with Snead's round being the lowest. Others taking regulation figures apart were E. J. Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler from St. Andrews, Ill., who shot a 68 to forge into a tie for third place with Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., at 210; Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, the national amateur champion—only amateur in the tournament's 35-man field—who did 69; Lawson Little of Monterrey, Calif., who had a 69; Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who had a 68 and pushed into a tie for fifth place with Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., each with 212, and Picard.

PURDUE GOLFERS WIN

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.—(AP)—Purdue's five-man team won the Western Conference golf championship today with a 72-hole total of 1465 strokes—far ahead of Ohio State's second place 1510.

Monroe Batting Improves; Rasmussen, Coggin Rank High; Johnson Top Hurler

By J. P. Friend

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 27.—(Special)—Cotton States pitchers chopped Ben (Rosey) Cantrell's batting average 14 points to .338 during the week, but the big Pine Bluff outfielder had enough left to retain a lead over his nearest competitor, Alex Cosmidis, Hot Springs shortstop, according to the official figures as supplied by the Friend News Service released Saturday for the period ending Tuesday night, May 23.

Cantrell hit safely in all six games but was unable to bag more than a hit in only one. One of the seven drives was a double. Another sailed over the fence. The others were of the single base variety. He has blasted 44 hits in 130 times at bat.

Cosmidis went to bat only twice during the period and came through with a hit, boosting his mace mark four points to .324. In 27 games the Bather infielder had toed the plate 105 times and came through with 34 safeties.

John Ramm, Pine Bluff outfielder, went on a hit binge in the last two games of the week and picked up 33 points to take over the third spot. On May 22 he collected three singles and the next night combed El Dorado pitching for six straight one baggers in as many trips. It It raised his average from .290 to .323.

Cliff Coggin, Monroe pitcher, is batting .327 in 49 times at bat in 13 games, while Roy Schalk, El Dorado skipper, has a record of .325 in 83 tries.

Harry Schwegman, Pine Bluff second baseman, enjoyed a prosperous week at the plate with 10 hits in 26 chances and upped 16 pinnts to .319, within hailing distance, but just a couple of decimals ahead of his pilot, Harry Chozen, who regained the select circle with a 21-point gain to .317.

Others within the .300 group includes: Roy Coss, El Dorado, .311; Keith Baker, Greenwood, .310 (10 games); Jim Gilbert, Natchez, .308; Chet Morgan, Clarksdale, .307; Bob Kurtz, Pine Bluff, .305; Wally Rasmussen, Monroe, .302; Dom Chiola, El Dorado, .302; Jerry Lynch, Greenville, .301; and Bob Barton, Greenville, .300 (10 games. Vic Fassero, Pine Bluff, added a dozen decimals to his record but was a scant one away from netering. Danny Daum, Greenwood, lacked two.

The league leading Pine Bluff Judges, led by Cantrell, hogged most of the specialized divisions. Cantrell has the most hits, 44, and batted in the most, 37. Schwegman has scored 32 times, one more than Cantrell and George Ruzina, Natchez (.275). Ruzina is tied with Frank Scarpace, Pine Bluff, (.274) and Jack Zajac, Clarksdale (.248) in doubles, 10. Jerry Lynch, slugging Greenville Buck, has the most triples, seven, and most total bases, 73. Frank Quicutis, El Dorado pitcher-first baseman, has walloped six home runs, one more than Lynch. Ramm is running away with the base stealing laurels with 16.

Undefeated in eight games, Monroe's Bobby Johnson, tops the pitchers with four wins. A pair of Pine Bluff Judges are pressing him. Ted Gardner has 3-0, and Rhyne Duren, 2-0. Quincy Francis, Clarksdale, and Ray Baer, Hot Springs, have posted 1-0. The big winners are Cliff Coggin, Monroe, and Danny Caccavo, Hot Springs, each with 6-1. Charles Rugg, Greenwood, has 4-1. Adam Stempowski, Pine Bluff ace, has won the most games, seven, while dropping a pair. George Witt, Greenwood, threw a three-hit shutout at Natchez his last time out and wound up with 6-2. Copeland Goss, El Dorado, has been victorious five times but on the short end thrice. Norm Stephens, Clarksdale, is the strikeout pace setter with 62. Coggin has fanned 61; Caccavo 58.

Pine Bluff is far out in front of the other clubs in hitting with .289. Hot Springs is trailing at .264. Clarksdale has a single point margin over Greenville on the defense, .955 to .954.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Give a thought to the plight of Rip Engle, who says he detests spring football practice. . . . Rip was holding spring drills at Brown when he received and accepted a coaching offer from Penn State. . . . Since he didn't know a thing about the Penn State squad, which already had completed one session, he persuaded the lads to come out for two weeks more practice. . . . Now he has some 40 athletes who served their freshman year at various state teachers colleges around Pennsylvania coming in for a week's look-see so he'll have an idea what to expect of them as sophomores next fall. . . . "It's essential in present-day football," Rip moans. . . . Also give a thought to John Hopkins, which deemphasized football a few years ago by eliminating gate receipts. . . . Hopkins came up with an extra-good lacrosse team this spring and students and their gal friends have taken to firing a cannon after each goal and waving confederate flags like mad. . . . But at least there's not much bidding for lacrosse players.

Embarrassing Riches

Right after Davidson made a clean sweep of the Southern Conference tennis tournament, winning the singles and doubles titles and team honors, publicity man Jo Jo Thigpen up and resigned. . . . After trying to beat the drums for teams which, in two seasons, showed only eight victories in 52 football and baseball games, Jo Jo decided he just couldn't stand publicity and resigned to enter the stocks and bonds business. . . . When a thing like that happens to a press agent, you can be sure securities in North Carolina will show a bull-ish trend.

Sportsmention

Billy Henderson, Georgia baseball captain, finished his college career with a four year batting average of .375 (.386 this season) and Southeastern Conference Ump Frankie Allen says Billy is the fastest man he ever saw getting down to first base. . . . Before Southern California's Dick Attlesey clipped the world high-hurdles record with that 13.5 feat last week, he had devoted three evenings to acting in a campus play, which kept him on his feet until after midnight. . . . When Hank Johnson, former Yankee pitcher, read about Hank Greenberg blaming the pitchers for dragged-out baseball games, he growled: "Greenberg used to take his own sweet time at the plate—and don't let anybody tell you he didn't."

Weak End Notes

For the benefit of Wendell Lalime, Bob Howard reports that Miami U. of Oxford, O., can match that uncle-nephew combination, but not as a baseball battery. The Miami football squad next fall will include half-back Bruce Beatty and his nephew, Dwight Beatty, who plans end. . . . In the 1950 season opener, Johnny Pont is likely to play left half for Miami and his brother, Dick, is slated to start at right half for Bowling Green. . . . When Bob Mello went out for freshmen track at Harvard, he learned he'd have to score five points in competition to win his class numerals. . . . Just to be safe, Bob finished the season with 153 3/4.

Snead finished to find a gallery of 7,500 on the eighteenth green where Lacy Boggess, president of Colonial Country Club, presented him with a birthday cake.

"We knew you were comin' so we baked a cake," entoned Boggess. Then Jimmie Demaret of Ojai, Calif., golf's fashion plate, led the crowd in singing "Happy Birthday".

Snead admitted that he was 38. "That is a fact," he drawled. "I ain't like Demaret, whose going back with his years alla time."

The tournament record books show Snead to be 37 but he says that's wrong.

It was a day of par-smashing over the par 35-35—70, 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course as the sun shone and the greens were lightning fast. Snead, who complained of the cups yesterday when he had a 72, grinned today and said "they're much better."

The gallery today—the first day of tourney in which there has been favorable weather — was the biggest ever drawn here.

Snead said he wasn't playing very well but that great putting made up for other lapses. He turned the first nine in 32—just one stroke over the course record set in the 1941 national open by Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill. It was one of two 32s shot today. Henry Picard of Cleveland, O., did it in laying down a round of 68 that pushed him to 214 and a tie with Norman Von Nida of Sydney, Australia, for seventh place.

Par was bettered six times on the course today with Snead's round being the lowest. Others taking regulation figures apart were E. J. Harrison, the old Arkansas traveler from St. Andrews, Ill., who shot a 68 to forge into a tie for third place with Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., at 210; Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, the national amateur champion—only amateur in the tournament's 35-man field—who did 69; Lawson Little of Monterrey, Calif., who had a 69; Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who had a 68 and pushed into a tie for fifth place with Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., each with 212, and Picard.

PURDUE GOLFERS WIN

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.—(AP)—Purdue's five-man team won the Western Conference golf championship today with a 72-hole total of 1465 strokes—far ahead of Ohio State's second place 1510.

By J. P. Friend

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., May 27.—(Special)—Cotton States pitchers chopped Ben (Rosey) Cantrell's batting average 14 points to .338 during the week, but the big Pine Bluff outfielder had enough left to retain a lead over his nearest competitor, Alex Cosmidis, Hot Springs shortstop, according to the official figures as supplied by the Friend News Service released Saturday for the period ending Tuesday night, May 23.

Cantrell hit safely in all six games but was unable to bag more than a hit in only one. One of the seven drives was a double. Another sailed over the fence. The others were of the single base variety. He has blasted 44 hits in 130 times at bat.

Cosmidis went to bat only twice during the period and came through with a hit, boosting his mace mark four points to .324. In 27 games the Bather infielder had toed the plate 105 times and came through with 34 safeties.

John Ramm, Pine Bluff outfielder, went on a hit binge in the last two games of the week and picked up 33 points to take over the third spot. On May 22 he collected three singles and the next night combed El Dorado pitching for six straight one baggers in as many trips. It It raised his average from .290 to .323.

Cliff Coggin, Monroe pitcher, is batting .327 in 49 times at bat in 13 games, while Roy Schalk, El Dorado skipper, has a record of .325 in 83 tries.

Harry Schwegman, Pine Bluff second baseman, enjoyed a prosperous week at the plate with 10 hits in 26 chances and upped 16 pinnts to .319, within hailing distance, but just a couple of decimals ahead of his pilot, Harry Chozen, who regained the select circle with a 21-point gain to .317.

Others within the .300 group includes: Roy Coss, El Dorado, .311; Keith Baker, Greenwood, .310 (10 games); Jim Gilbert, Natchez, .308; Chet Morgan, Clarksdale, .307; Bob Kurtz, Pine Bluff, .305; Wally Rasmussen, Monroe, .302; Dom Chiola, El Dorado, .302; Jerry Lynch, Greenville, .301; and Bob Barton, Greenville, .300 (10 games. Vic Fassero, Pine Bluff, added a dozen decimals to his record but was a scant one away from netering. Danny Daum, Greenwood, lacked two.

The league leading Pine Bluff Judges, led by Cantrell, hogged most of the specialized divisions. Cantrell has the most hits, 44, and batted in the most, 37. Schwegman has scored 32 times, one more than Cantrell and George Ruzina, Natchez (.275). Ruzina is tied with Frank Scarpace, Pine Bluff, (.274) and Jack Zajac, Clarksdale (.248) in doubles, 10. Jerry Lynch, slugging Greenville Buck, has the most triples, seven, and most total bases, 73. Frank Quicutis, El Dorado pitcher-first baseman, has walloped six home runs, one more than Lynch. Ramm is running away with the base stealing laurels with 16.

Undefeated in eight games, Monroe's Bobby Johnson, tops the pitchers with four wins. A pair of Pine Bluff Judges are pressing him. Ted Gardner has 3-0, and Rhyne Duren, 2-0. Quincy Francis, Clarksdale, and Ray Baer, Hot Springs, have posted 1-0. The big winners are Cliff Coggin, Monroe, and Danny Caccavo, Hot Springs, each with 6-1. Charles Rugg, Greenwood, has 4-1. Adam Stempowski, Pine Bluff ace, has won the most games, seven, while dropping a pair. George Witt, Greenwood, threw a three-hit shutout at Natchez his last time out and wound up with 6-2. Copeland Goss, El Dorado, has been victorious five times but on the short end thrice. Norm Stephens, Clarksdale, is the strikeout pace setter with 62. Coggin has fanned 61; Caccavo 58.

Pine Bluff is far out in front of the other clubs in hitting with .289. Hot Springs is trailing at .264. Clarksdale has a single point margin over Greenville on the defense, .955 to .954.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Give a thought to the plight of Rip Engle, who says he detests spring football practice. . . . Rip was holding spring drills at Brown when he received and accepted a coaching offer from Penn State. . . . Since he didn't know a thing about the Penn State squad, which already had completed one session, he persuaded the lads to come out for two weeks more practice. . . . Now he has some 40 athletes who served their freshman year at various state teachers colleges around Pennsylvania coming in for a week's look-see so he'll have an idea what to expect of them as sophomores next fall. . . . "It's essential in present-day football," Rip moans. . . . Also give a thought to John Hopkins, which deemphasized football a few years ago by eliminating gate receipts. . . . Hopkins came up with an extra-good lacrosse team this spring and students and their gal friends have taken to firing a cannon after each goal and waving confederate flags like mad. . . . But at least there's not much bidding for lacrosse players.

Embarrassing Riches

Right after Davidson made a clean sweep of the Southern Conference tennis tournament, winning the singles and doubles titles and team honors, publicity man Jo Jo Thigpen up and resigned. . . . After trying to beat the drums for teams which, in two seasons, showed only eight victories in 52 football and baseball games, Jo Jo decided he just couldn't stand publicity and resigned to enter the stocks and bonds business. . . . When a thing like that happens to a press agent, you can be sure securities in North Carolina will show a bull-ish trend.

Sportsmention

Billy Henderson, Georgia baseball captain, finished his college career with a four year batting average of .375 (.386 this season) and Southeastern Conference Ump Frankie Allen says Billy is the fastest man he ever saw getting down to first base. . . . Before Southern California's Dick Attlesey clipped the world high-hurdles record with that 13.5 feat last week, he had devoted three evenings to acting in a campus play, which kept him on his feet until after midnight. . . . When Hank Johnson, former Yankee pitcher, read about Hank Greenberg blaming the pitchers for dragged-out baseball games, he growled: "Greenberg used to take his own sweet time at the plate—and don't let anybody tell you he didn't."

Weak End Notes

For the benefit of Wendell Lalime, Bob Howard reports that Miami U. of Oxford, O., can match that uncle-nephew combination, but not as a baseball battery. Four Areas Hit New Highs As Nation's Crude Production Climbs 2nd Straight Week

TULSA, Okla., May 27.—(AP)—The nation's daily average crude oil production climbed again during the week ended May 20, reaching 5,053,450 barrels for another 1950 record, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

The total, the Journal said, was an increase of 8,125 barrels over the previous week's output.

Four areas hit new highs for the year—the eastern fields, up 600 barrels to 61,700 barrels; Michigan, up 800 barrels to 47,600, the state's second straight record; Mississippi, 1,950 to 103,400, also a second consecutive peak, and Utah, 100 to 3,400.

The week's greatest gain, however, was reported for Oklahoma, up 7,100 barrels to 413,700.

Other sizeable increases were California, up 1,750 barrels to 858,500; Montana, up 1,700 to 23,800, and Indiana, 1,300 to 29,200.

Alabama gained 50 barrels to 1,750, Kentucky increased 300 to 26,400, Louisiana was up 100 to 522,400 and Nebraska added 100 to 1,500.

Major losses were in Illinois, down 2,600 barrels to 172,800; Wyoming, off 2,300 to 159,900 and Colorado, 1,400 to 56,900.

Arkansas dropped 300 to 78,800, Florida fell 375 to 675 and Kansas slumped 750 to 279,800.

Texas' production remained at 2,085,100 barrels, that state's record established the preceding week. New Mexico also was unchanged at 126,125.

ENDS FEUD

INVERARAY, Scotland, May 27.—(AP)—The Duke of Argyll, chief of the Scottish clan Campbell, ended a 250-year clan feud today by shaking hands with 73-year-old John MacDonald, of the MacDonalds of Glencoe.

The fussin' all started back in February, 1692, when the Campbells murdered a passel of MacDonalds. The Duke and old John MacDonald met today at a reunion of war veterans.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

By G. A. Phillips

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—A spectacular turn in labor relations was a powerful stimulant to business and industry this week.

The new General Motors contract with the United Automobile Workers Union climaxed a long period of highly unsettled labor conditions and wiped the slate clean of major disputes, at least for the moment.

The settlement brought a sign of relief from both management and labor and fitted nicely into one of the brightest business pictures of the year.

Automobile and steel production hit the highest levels in history this week. Building construction never was better. Other indicators of business activity were stabilized at exceptionally high levels.

Retail trade was somewhat disappointing. Bad weather was one factor. Another was a lag in apparel and other soft goods lines.

The stock market boiled over with bullish froth right after announcement of the General Motors contract, but was unable to consolidate its position at the higher levels and slipped back. There were numerous favorable dividend actions to brighten the outlook of investors, however, and an extremely cheerful view of the futur was taken to company managements at numerous stockholder meetings.

Inflationary pressure on the national economy appeared to gain a little ground during the week. Zinc moved up another 1/2 cent a pound. Tire prices wer increased. Several sugar refiners upped the sweet stuff a tenth of a cent a pound.

Another hike in lumber costs brought a howl from builders all over the country and suggestions that if it kept up a serious crimp would be put in the building boom. Steel scrap was dearer in some places as was gasoline for the Sunday drive.

Foods, especially meats cost a little more, and there was good evidence that clothing prices were in for a new lift, especially for garments made of wool.

Raw wool is selling close to its highest price in history and still climbing in such major producing areas as Australia. It was reported in textile circles this week that some prominent clothing manufacturers had contracted for next spring's line of worsteds on an "at value" basis—that is, at the future market price.

While business and industry had unusually heavy diet of favorable news, the General Motors contract easily was the top development. Favorable response was almost universal.

Many economists believe there is underway at the moment a substantial upward revision in planned capital outlays for modernization and expansion in industry. Labor peace would be a strong stimulant to such thinking on the part of management.

Planned capital outlays for 1950 were 10 to 15 per cent smaller than the amount spent for such purposes in 1949. It is important to the overall national economy that capital expenditures be large and keep growing with the population and improvement in living standards.

This money provides jobs for millions, new demand for all kinds of goods is created and the general economic welfare is enhanced.

Statistics further showed this was a deciddly up week in business and finance.

Steel mills operated above theoretical capacity for the sixth week in a row, touching 101.8 per cent this week against 101.3 last week and 94.1 a year ago. Production set a new record at 1,940,600 tons against 1,931,000 last week, the pre vious high mark, and 1,734,700 in the 1949 week.

With the most ambitious production program in its history in full operation, Chrysler made a substantial contricution to this week's automobile output of 183,670 units. This was the highest in the history of the industry and compared with 175,314 last week and 117,703 last year.

Heavy engineering building contracts awarded climbed to $291,190,000 from $206,029,000 in the preceding week and compared with $173,679,000 in the 1949 week.

Additional evidence of the size and scope of the building boom was found in reports of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. In the week ended May 20, latest for which figures have been compiled, lumber shipments were 47 per cent above production and production was 62 per cent above the 1935-39 average for that week.

Says McCarthy's Charges Like Tactics Of Gestapo

OMAHA, Neb., May 27.—(AP)—Attorney General McGrath tonight compared the Communists-in-government charges of Republican Senator McCarthy to the police state tactics of Hitler's gestapo.

McGrath coupled a broad-scale administration attack on McCarthy with a defense of the government loyalty program set up to keep Communists, fellow travelers and other security risks out of federal jobs.

"This program," said McGrath, "has established that only in a small fraction of cases, less than one-tenth of one per cent of the persons checked, has there been found any reasonable ground for belief that a government employe was disloyal. That is a wonderful record and attests to the high caliber of character among our federal employes. It demonstrates too that your government has been alert to the danger.

"Final checks of governmental employes now show that not one single person who has been finally adjudicated as disloyal under the loyalty program is employed by the government at this time."

McCarthy retorted in Washington that the attorney general should prosecute cases rather than go around making speeches "against the exposure of Communists."

In a statement, the senator said of McGrath's prepared speech:

"It sounds like the second half of a double feature. On Sept. 19, 1948, at the time the house committee was exposing Alger Hiss, the then attorney general (Suprem Court Justice Tom Clark) made a speech also damning as un-American the practice of digging out and exposing Communists. Even the adjectives used in that speech were identical to the ones used by Attorney General McGrath. Apparently the same administration speech writer wrote both.

"The American people should be disturbed by the fact that each time the congress tries to dig out Communists, the justice department screams loudly.

"I would suggest that the attorney general would be serving the nation better if, instead of going out making speeches against the exposure of Communists, he would come back and start immediate prosecution in the Amerasia case."

The Amerasia magazine case of 1945 involved the alleged illegal removal of secret government documents. McCarthy has contended there was an administration "cover up" in that case. A new inquiry is being conducted by a senate group.

McGrath did not mention McCarthy by name in a speech prepared for delivery at a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner here. But it was clear that he was talking about the Wisconsin senator.

McCarthy has charged that the state department is infested with Communists and Red sympathizers.. The department has denied it repeatedly. A senate committee is investigating the accusations.

McGrath in a speech last Wednesday night asserted that the justice department knows of every Communist in the United States, and added: "We know of none in the government today."

McCarthy charged then that McGrath was pre-judging at least one pending case.

In his address tonight, the text of which was distributed by the Democratic national committee, McGrath harked back to the days of Heinrich Himmler, head of the Nazi gestapo.

McGrath said that under the police state philosophy of Hitler and Himmler:

"There was no recourse to law. There was no need to prove anything. There was nothing except the trumped up charge, the mockery of a trial and the scaffold, the firing squad or the axe."

Then the attorney general declared:

"There are those (in this country) who are being goaded by an hysterical fear of war, who are being frightened by the implications of the possession of an atomic weapon by our enemies, people who are willing to allow witch-hunts and frantic name-calling to endanger our national liberties.

"I say that this does violence to the principals for which our country stands. It does violence to the bill of rights, which is the very foundation stone of our human liberties under the constitution.

"We cannot substitute the police state method for existing laws and procedures, as do some who have criticized the present loyalty investigation program and grossly misrepresented it."

McCarthy has blasted the loyalty program time and again. And he has charged that members of the state department's loyalty board are incompetent.

"We are aggressively working to prevent disloyal persons from infiltrating our government," McGrath declared.

He added that President Truman and the leaders of his administration are "unalterably opposed to the godless, slave philosophy of communism" and are fighting it at home and abroad.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 27.—(AP)—Grain prices worked higher today in the absence of any sustained selling pressure. The market took its cue from July soybans, which recovered a good part of yestrday'se brak on buying attributed in large measure to an eastern commission house.

Trade reports of a wheat swap deal between Portugal and Italy, not yet official, firmed wheat. Portugal has exhausted its wheat quota under the international wheat agreement while Italy has not. According to the trade reports, Italy may buy American wheat on its quota and then sell it to Portugal.

Feed grain showed considerable strength. A survey of prices paid for cash corn on the farm by Lamson Brothers, commission firm, disclosed that farmers were getting about the government loan price for their grain. In a few spots the price paid was one to two cents under the loan.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 higher, July $2.16 1/4, corn was 1 to 1 1/38 higher, July $1.48 1/8, oats were 5/8 to 1 cent higher, July 81-81 1/8, rye was 3/4 higher, July $1.38, soybeans were 1 1/4-3 3/4 higher, July $3.14 1/4-$3.15, and lard was 7 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher, July 12.62.

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady and unchanged. Sales 398. Low middling 27.80. Middling 33.30. Good middling 34.20. Receipts 6,057. Stock 646,233.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Wall Street went on an unofficial summer schedule today.

Tempted by an extra long week-end—the market will be closed Tuesday for Memorial Day—brokers and their customers showed only meager interest in the stock market.

Trading dropped to around 500,000 shares for the two-hour session, one of the slowest Saturdays in months.

Next weekend the exchange will go on a summer schedule and remain closed Saturdays for four months.

Price changes were fractional for the most and many issues were ignored completely. Several of the market's usual leaders attracted a little more than perfunctory attention, as well as a spattering of specialties.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(AP)—After small advances around the opening here today, cotton futures declined under week-end long liquidation and hedge selling. Closing prices were steady 40 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher. Trading was dull and fluctuations were over a narrow range. Favorable weather in the belt and reports of slower business in the Worth street cotton good market caused some of the selling.

Trade buying to fix prices was responsible for the steadiness of the July position.

Mrs. Elder

Mrs. Thelma Elder, 708 Bryon Street, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia, is 26 years old and the mother of three small children. For a time, she thought that her duties as a mother and housewife were just too much for her to handle. She felt so bad that she did not feel like doing anything. Then, she heard the blessed news about HADACOL and life again seems worth living.

Mrs. Elder was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is her statement: "My stomach had been bothering me and I did not have any energy. My back bothered me and I did not feel like doing anything. There were times when I did not have any appetite. I started taking HADACOL and it has done me so much good. I have been taking it for several months and my stomach is doing fine. I feel good, and have lots of energy and my back is all right. I surely do praise HADACOL—it has done so much good for me."

Hundreds of Doctors

. . . have prescribed HADACOL for their patients, have requested quantities of HADACOL for their own clinical use and for their own families. The fact that HADACOL is scientifically formulated, compounded with precious Vitamins and Minerals (in liquid form), help to account for its increasing acceptance by doctors.

Make up your mind to take HADACOL regularly. Refuse substitutes. Insist on the genuine. There is only one HADACOL. You can't lose a cent, because it's sold on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great with the first few bottles you take . . . or your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial size. Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

By G. A. Phillips

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—A spectacular turn in labor relations was a powerful stimulant to business and industry this week.

The new General Motors contract with the United Automobile Workers Union climaxed a long period of highly unsettled labor conditions and wiped the slate clean of major disputes, at least for the moment.

The settlement brought a sign of relief from both management and labor and fitted nicely into one of the brightest business pictures of the year.

Automobile and steel production hit the highest levels in history this week. Building construction never was better. Other indicators of business activity were stabilized at exceptionally high levels.

Retail trade was somewhat disappointing. Bad weather was one factor. Another was a lag in apparel and other soft goods lines.

The stock market boiled over with bullish froth right after announcement of the General Motors contract, but was unable to consolidate its position at the higher levels and slipped back. There were numerous favorable dividend actions to brighten the outlook of investors, however, and an extremely cheerful view of the futur was taken to company managements at numerous stockholder meetings.

Inflationary pressure on the national economy appeared to gain a little ground during the week. Zinc moved up another 1/2 cent a pound. Tire prices wer increased. Several sugar refiners upped the sweet stuff a tenth of a cent a pound.

Another hike in lumber costs brought a howl from builders all over the country and suggestions that if it kept up a serious crimp would be put in the building boom. Steel scrap was dearer in some places as was gasoline for the Sunday drive.

Foods, especially meats cost a little more, and there was good evidence that clothing prices were in for a new lift, especially for garments made of wool.

Raw wool is selling close to its highest price in history and still climbing in such major producing areas as Australia. It was reported in textile circles this week that some prominent clothing manufacturers had contracted for next spring's line of worsteds on an "at value" basis—that is, at the future market price.

While business and industry had unusually heavy diet of favorable news, the General Motors contract easily was the top development. Favorable response was almost universal.

Many economists believe there is underway at the moment a substantial upward revision in planned capital outlays for modernization and expansion in industry. Labor peace would be a strong stimulant to such thinking on the part of management.

Planned capital outlays for 1950 were 10 to 15 per cent smaller than the amount spent for such purposes in 1949. It is important to the overall national economy that capital expenditures be large and keep growing with the population and improvement in living standards.

This money provides jobs for millions, new demand for all kinds of goods is created and the general economic welfare is enhanced.

Statistics further showed this was a deciddly up week in business and finance.

Steel mills operated above theoretical capacity for the sixth week in a row, touching 101.8 per cent this week against 101.3 last week and 94.1 a year ago. Production set a new record at 1,940,600 tons against 1,931,000 last week, the previous high mark, and 1,734,700 in the 1949 week.

With the most ambitious production program in its history in full operation, Chrysler made a substantial contricution to this week's automobile output of 183,670 units. This was the highest in the history of the industry and compared with 175,314 last week and 117,703 last year.

Heavy engineering building contracts awarded climbed to $291,190,000 from $206,029,000 in the preceding week and compared with $173,679,000 in the 1949 week.

Additional evidence of the size and scope of the building boom was found in reports of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association. In the week ended May 20, latest for which figures have been compiled, lumber shipments were 47 per cent above production and production was 62 per cent above the 1935-39 average for that week.

Says McCarthy's Charges Like Tactics Of Gestapo

OMAHA, Neb., May 27.—(AP)—Attorney General McGrath tonight compared the Communists-in-government charges of Republican Senator McCarthy to the police state tactics of Hitler's gestapo.

McGrath coupled a broad-scale administration attack on McCarthy with a defense of the government loyalty program set up to keep Communists, fellow travelers and other security risks out of federal jobs.

"This program," said McGrath, "has established that only in a small fraction of cases, less than one-tenth of one per cent of the persons checked, has there been found any reasonable ground for belief that a government employe was disloyal. That is a wonderful record and attests to the high caliber of character among our federal employes. It demonstrates too that your government has been alert to the danger.

"Final checks of governmental employes now show that not one single person who has been finally adjudicated as disloyal under the loyalty program is employed by the government at this time."

McCarthy retorted in Washington that the attorney general should prosecute cases rather than go around making speeches "against the exposure of Communists."

In a statement, the senator said of McGrath's prepared speech:

"It sounds like the second half of a double feature. On Sept. 19, 1948, at the time the house committee was exposing Alger Hiss, the then attorney general (Suprem Court Justice Tom Clark) made a speech also damning as un-American the practice of digging out and exposing Communists. Even the adjectives used in that speech were identical to the ones used by Attorney General McGrath. Apparently the same administration speech writer wrote both.

"The American people should be disturbed by the fact that each time the congress tries to dig out Communists, the justice department screams loudly.

"I would suggest that the attorney general would be serving the nation better if, instead of going out making speeches against the exposure of Communists, he would come back and start immediate prosecution in the Amerasia case."

The Amerasia magazine case of 1945 involved the alleged illegal removal of secret government documents. McCarthy has contended there was an administration "cover up" in that case. A new inquiry is being conducted by a senate group.

McGrath did not mention McCarthy by name in a speech prepared for delivery at a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner here. But it was clear that he was talking about the Wisconsin senator.

McCarthy has charged that the state department is infested with Communists and Red sympathizers.. The department has denied it repeatedly. A senate committee is investigating the accusations.

McGrath in a speech last Wednesday night asserted that the justice department knows of every Communist in the United States, and added: "We know of none in the government today."

McCarthy charged then that McGrath was pre-judging at least one pending case.

In his address tonight, the text of which was distributed by the Democratic national committee, McGrath harked back to the days of Heinrich Himmler, head of the Nazi gestapo.

McGrath said that under the police state philosophy of Hitler and Himmler:

"There was no recourse to law. There was no need to prove anything. There was nothing except the trumped up charge, the mockery of a trial and the scaffold, the firing squad or the axe."

Then the attorney general declared:

"There are those (in this country) who are being goaded by an hysterical fear of war, who are being frightened by the implications of the possession of an atomic weapon by our enemies, people who are willing to allow witch-hunts and frantic name-calling to endanger our national liberties.

"I say that this does violence to the principals for which our country stands. It does violence to the bill of rights, which is the very foundation stone of our human liberties under the constitution.

"We cannot substitute the police state method for existing laws and procedures, as do some who have criticized the present loyalty investigation program and grossly misrepresented it."

McCarthy has blasted the loyalty program time and again. And he has charged that members of the state department's loyalty board are incompetent.

"We are aggressively working to prevent disloyal persons from infiltrating our government," McGrath declared.

He added that President Truman and the leaders of his administration are "unalterably opposed to the godless, slave philosophy of communism" and are fighting it at home and abroad.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 27.—(AP)—Grain prices worked higher today in the absence of any sustained selling pressure. The market took its cue from July soybans, which recovered a good part of yestrday'se brak on buying attributed in large measure to an eastern commission house.

Trade reports of a wheat swap deal between Portugal and Italy, not yet official, firmed wheat. Portugal has exhausted its wheat quota under the international wheat agreement while Italy has not. According to the trade reports, Italy may buy American wheat on its quota and then sell it to Portugal.

Feed grain showed considerable strength. A survey of prices paid for cash corn on the farm by Lamson Brothers, commission firm, disclosed that farmers were getting about the government loan price for their grain. In a few spots the price paid was one to two cents under the loan.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 higher, July $2.16 1/4, corn was 1 to 1 1/38 higher, July $1.48 1/8, oats were 5/8 to 1 cent higher, July 81-81 1/8, rye was 3/4 higher, July $1.38, soybeans were 1 1/4-3 3/4 higher, July $3.14 1/4-$3.15, and lard was 7 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher, July 12.62.

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady and unchanged. Sales 398. Low middling 27.80. Middling 33.30. Good middling 34.20. Receipts 6,057. Stock 646,233.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16-inch spot cotton at 10 designated southern spot markets today was 20 cents a bale higher at 33.49 cents a pound (A new high for the season); average for the past 30 market days was 32.81; middling 7/8-inch average 32.00.

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Wall Street went on an unofficial summer schedule today.

Tempted by an extra long week-end—the market will be closed Tuesday for Memorial Day—brokers and their customers showed only meager interest in the stock market.

Trading dropped to around 500,000 shares for the two-hour session, one of the slowest Saturdays in months.

Next weekend the exchange will go on a summer schedule and remain closed Saturdays for four months.

Price changes were fractional for the most and many issues were ignored completely. Several of the market's usual leaders attracted a little more than perfunctory attention, as well as a spattering of specialties.

COTTON

New York

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Quiet trading and small price changes ruled today in cotton futures. Mill price fixing had a steadying influence on nearby deliveries, while commission houses supported new crop months. Demand was supplied by profit taking for over the week-end.

Futures closed 30 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher than the previous close.

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—(AP)—After small advances around the opening here today, cotton futures declined under week-end long liquidation and hedge selling. Closing prices were steady 40 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher. Trading was dull and fluctuations were over a narrow range. Favorable weather in the belt and reports of slower business in the Worth street cotton good market caused some of the selling.

Trade buying to fix prices was responsible for the steadiness of the July position.

Mrs. Elder

Mrs. Thelma Elder, 708 Bryon Street, S. E., Atlanta, Georgia, is 26 years old and the mother of three small children. For a time, she thought that her duties as a mother and housewife were just too much for her to handle. She felt so bad that she did not feel like doing anything. Then, she heard the blessed news about HADACOL and life again seems worth living.

Mrs. Elder was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is her statement: "My stomach had been bothering me and I did not have any energy. My back bothered me and I did not feel like doing anything. There were times when I did not have any appetite. I started taking HADACOL and it has done me so much good. I have been taking it for several months and my stomach is doing fine. I feel good, and have lots of energy and my back is all right. I surely do praise HADACOL—it has done so much good for me."

Hundreds of Doctors

. . . have prescribed HADACOL for their patients, have requested quantities of HADACOL for their own clinical use and for their own families. The fact that HADACOL is scientifically formulated, compounded with precious Vitamins and Minerals (in liquid form), help to account for its increasing acceptance by doctors.

Make up your mind to take HADACOL regularly. Refuse substitutes. Insist on the genuine. There is only one HADACOL. You can't lose a cent, because it's sold on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel great with the first few bottles you take . . . or your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial size. Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.

Chinese Nationalists Leave Wanshaw Isle

HONG KONG, May 27.—(AP)— A British navy spokesman reported the Chinese Nationalists abandoned the Wanshan Islands this morning less than one day after they had announced a smashing victory over Communist invaders.

The group, also known as the Ladrones (thieves) Islands, are about 40 miles southwest of Hong Kong and 20 miles southeast of the Portuguese colony of Macao. They have blockaded the Pearl river estuary approach to Canton since the Reds seized the major south China city last November.

The British informant said nationalist warships completed evacuation of the islands at 8 a.m. today. They took temporary shelter, he said, on Lingting Island, only ten miles south of Hong Kong.

Only Friday the Nationalist Navy had issued a communique stating that it inflicted 4,000 casualties and sank a Communist landing-craft, 20 gunboats and 54 motor-driven junks in a rousing victory over a seaborne Red invasion force.

The communique contained, however, the suspicious line that some Communists had managed to get ashore on three small islets and were "facing annihilation."

This is the same refrain the Nationalists used on Hainan Island and elsewhere in heralding victories which later turned out to be stunning defeats.

Even dispatches from Taipei, the Nationalist capital on Formosa, said at the time that some cautious elements feared all was not well in the Wanshans.

The Nationalist Navy had offered Friday to take foreign correspondent to the Wanshans to see for themselves, but all chose to stay in Taipei. There was no word about the islands from Taipei today.

The British Navy watched the Wanshan fighting closely from launches it assigned to safeguard Hong Kong-Macao shipping.

The navy spokesman's report of the Nationalist withdrawal, presented as a "confirmation," said this was the sequence of developments:

The battle began Thursday when the Nationalist Navy intercepted a few converted Communist warships and 200 junks heading for Lapsapmei, largest of the Wanshans. The Nationalists successfully defended that island but the Reds landed on several smaller ones.

They built up their strength and this morning (Saturday) crossed from these islands to Lapsapmei.

W. Reuther Outlines Policy For Workers

DETROIT, May 27.—(AP)—Walter Reuther today outlined a long-range policy for his C. I. O. United Auto Workers, including a guaranteed annual wage, to achieve a "dynamic, expanding, full employment economy" in this country.

The fiery, little red-haired chief of the U. A. W. was jubilant at a press conference over the five-year contract signed May 23 with General Motors Corp. He called it a "billion dollar contract". It provides at least $100 a month pensions, including social security and an annual wage boost.

Reuther declared it was "implicit" in the contract that management, he said, had come around to his "idea of getting off the inflation merry-go-round."

"A guaranteed annual wage is the next objective of our union," Reuther said.

Other union objectives discussed by Reuther included:

(1) Pensions for workers of $100 a month, including social security, within the next 10 years.

(2) Extending the provisions of the G. M. contract to smaller companies in the industry "able to carry the load."

(3) An expanding economy, with pressure on the steel industry and government action as a last resort, to assure ample supplies of steel for the country.

(4) A fundamental re-alignment of political forces in the United States with labor and farmers as the "basic core" of the Democratic Party.

USELESS SINCE QUAKE

LIMA, Peru, May 27.—(AP)—Col. Jose Cabrejo, minister of public works, told a news conference today 60 per cent of the buildings in the Andes city of Cuzco were made useless by last Sunday's earthquake.

Frightened people who refuse to return to their homes, even if not badly damaged, are aggravating the housing problem, he said.

HIS CHOICE—IKE—John Orr Young, New York advertising man who helped spark the 1940 presidential boom for Wendell Willkie, points to his choice for the presidency in 1952—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Young has begun a "draft Eisenhower" boom by inserting ads in local papers calling for small contributions from individuals [illegible]

Chinese Nationalists Leave Wanshaw Isle

HONG KONG, May 27. —(AP)— A British navy spokesman reported the Chinese Nationalists abandoned the Wanshan Islands this morning less than one day after they had announced a smashing victory over Communist invaders.

The group, also known as the Ladrones (thieves) Islands, are about 40 miles southwest of Hong Kong and 20 miles southeast of the Portuguese colony of Macao. They have blockaded the Pearl river estuary approach to Canton since the Reds seized the major south China city last November.

The British informant said nationalist warships completed evacuation of the islands at 8 a.m. today. They took temporary shelter, he said, on Lingting Island, only ten miles south of Hong Kong.

Only Friday the Nationalist Navy had issued a communique stating that it inflicted 4,000 casualties and sank a Communist landing-craft, 20 gunboats and 54 motor-driven junks in a rousing victory over a seaborne Red invasion force.

The communique contained, however, the suspicious line that some Communists had managed to get ashore on three small islets and were "facing annihilation."

This is the same refrain the Nationalists used on Hainan Island and elsewhere in heralding victories which later turned out to be stunning defeats.

Even dispatches from Taipei, the Nationalist capital on Formosa, said at the time that some cautious elements feared all was not well in the Wanshans.

The Nationalist Navy had offered Friday to take foreign correspondent to the Wanshans to see for themselves, but all chose to stay in Taipei. There was no word about the islands from Taipei today.

The British Navy watched the Wanshan fighting closely from launches it assigned to safeguard Hong Kong-Macao shipping.

The navy spokesman's report of the Nationalist withdrawal, presented as a "confirmation," said this was the sequence of developments:

The battle began Thursday when the Nationalist Navy intercepted a few converted Communist warships and 200 junks heading for Lapsapmei, largest of the Wanshans. The Nationalists successfully defended that island but the Reds landed on several smaller ones.

They built up their strength and this morning (Saturday) crossed from these islands to Lapsapmei.

W. Reuther Outlines Policy For Workers

DETROIT, May 27.—(AP)—Walter Reuther today outlined a long-range policy for his C. I. O. United Auto Workers, including a guaranteed annual wage, to achieve a "dynamic, expanding, full employment economy" in this country.

The fiery, little red-haired chief of the U. A. W. was jubilant at a press conference over the five-year contract signed May 23 with General Motors Corp. He called it a "billion dollar contract". It provides at least $100 a month pensions, including social security and an annual wage boost.

Reuther declared it was "implicit" in the contract that management, he said, had come around to his "idea of getting off the inflation merry-go-round."

"A guaranteed annual wage is the next objective of our union," Reuther said.

Other union objectives discussed by Reuther included:

(1) Pensions for workers of $100 a month, including social security, within the next 10 years.

(2) Extending the provisions of the G. M. contract to smaller companies in the industry "able to carry the load."

(3) An expanding economy, with pressure on the steel industry and government action as a last resort, to assure ample supplies of steel for the country.

(4) A fundamental re-alignment of political forces in the United States with labor and farmers as the "basic core" of the Democratic Party.

USELESS SINCE QUAKE

LIMA, Peru, May 27.—(AP)—Col. Jose Cabrejo, minister of public works, told a news conference today 60 per cent of the buildings in the Andes city of Cuzco were made useless by last Sunday's earthquake.

Frightened people who refuse to return to their homes, even if not badly damaged, are aggravating the housing problem, he said.

HIS CHOICE—IKE—John Orr Young, New York advertising man who helped spark the 1940 presidential boom for Wendell Willkie, points to his choice for the presidency in 1952—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Young has begun a "draft Eisenhower" boom by inserting ads in local papers calling for small contributions from individuals [illegible]

A 29-year-old Negro was arrested yesterday on a charge of theft following a wild chase among houses along Washington street by police officers and passers-by.

The clothes were valued at $30, police said. No bond was fixed.

RED MEMBERSHIP PROBE CONCLUDED

Ten Unions Are Expelled, One Withdraws Voluntarily And One Remains

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, May 27. —(AP)— The C. I. O. wound up an eight-month inquiry today into charges that a dozen of its member unions were under Communist influence. The likely box score:

Ten unions expelled; one withdrawing of its own accord; one remaining in the C. I. O fold after ousting its "left-wing" leadership.

This last group, the United Furniture Workers, has a membership of about 50,000. The union which quit, the fur and leather workers, boasted about 100,000 members, and the 10 other claimed about 700,000 on their rolls.

Six of the investigated unions already have been tossed out. The remaining four slated for ouster are all in the west coast maritime field under the general leadership of Harry Bridges, San Francisco waterfront boss. They have had their innings before C. I. O. committees, which will recommend action to the organization's executive board. The board probably will meet in the next few weeks.

In addition to the removal of unions accused of following Soviet policy rather than C. I. O. programs—the general charge against the dozen unions—the C. I. O. has quietly gone about purging its own payrolls of those accused of being Communist sympathizers.

Today, one C. I. O. spokesman said, there is no longer any question about loyalty to the C. I. O. among the state and local industrial union councils. These councils carry out policy and speak for the C. I. O. on local matters.

The drive started last November when the C. I. O.'s Cleveland convention amended the organization's constitution and gave the executive board power to expel any leader or union found to be adhering to Communist programs rather than the C. I. O.'s.

The convention delegates themselves tossed out two of the most outspoken violators of C. I. O. policy—the United Electrical Workers (U. E.) with about 400,000 members and the farm equipment workers with about 50,000.

Committees went to work at once to pursue the pro-Communist charges against 10 others.

The mine, mill and smelter workers, the food, tobacco and agricultural workers, the United Office and Professional Workers, and the United Public Workers were expelled after hearings.

Their jurisdiction—and that of the U. E. and Farm Equipment other C. I. O. unions. In some cases special drives were opened up.

Hearings have followed much the same pattern in each case. The charges, submitted by President William Steinberg of the "Right-Wing" American Radio Association, have been tossed on the table. C. I. O. officers have then sought to prove them, and the defending unions tried to disprove them.

The last of the hearings involved two of the four west coast Maritime unions — the marine cooks and stewards headed by Hugh Bryson, and the fishermen and allied workers headed by Joseph Jurich.

The closed door trial of Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union — said to have been a bitter one on both sides—was held a week ago.

The trial of the American Communications Association, led by Joseph Selly, was concluded long ago but the executive board has not yet acted on it. Selly's union has been splintered down to about 10,000 members. There is no doubt in the minds of C. I. O. officials that it will be ousted.

Jurich's union indicated what may happen on the west coast if and when Bridges is booted out of the C. I. O. The Fishermen's Union of about 20,000 members acted to merge with Bridges' union, which claims about 80,000 members in Hawaii, Alaska and Pacivic coast ports.

The fur and leather workers, led by Ben Gold, a charter member of the Communist party in this country, voted in convention at Atlantic City yesterday to withdraw from the C. I. O. Gold and his lieutenants bitterly attacked C. I. O. President Philip Murray and the C. I. O. generally.

One union, the United Furniture Workers headed by Morris Pizer, has indicated a sharp break with its past. Pizer and his supporters will go to the furniture workers' convention in Chicago June 5 determined to clean house of "left-wing" officeholders. The C. I. O. leadership is confident Pizer will succeed.

When the surgery is finished, the C. I. O. will have deliberately carved out close to one million members. It claims only 6,000,000.

But it has made a bid to recover the membership of the ousted unions under new leadership, and Murray is optimistic about the results.

A good example is the sucess of the newly-created international union of electrical workers, headed by James B. Carey. In a seven-month campaign, the youthful Carey has nosed out the Leftist-led United Electrical Workers in most general electrical plants, in General Motors, and in at least half of the Westinghouse units.

RED MEMBERSHIP PROBE CONCLUDED

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, May 27. —(AP)— The C. I. O. wound up an eight-month inquiry today into charges that a dozen of its member unions were under Communist influence. The likely box score:

Ten unions expelled; one withdrawing of its own accord; one remaining in the C. I. O fold after ousting its "left-wing" leadership.

This last group, the United Furniture Workers, has a membership of about 50,000. The union which quit, the fur and leather workers, boasted about 100,000 members, and the 10 other claimed about 700,000 on their rolls.

Six of the investigated unions already have been tossed out. The remaining four slated for ouster are all in the west coast maritime field under the general leadership of Harry Bridges, San Francisco waterfront boss. They have had their innings before C. I. O. committees, which will recommend action to the organization's executive board. The board probably will meet in the next few weeks.

In addition to the removal of unions accused of following Soviet policy rather than C. I. O. programs—the general charge against the dozen unions—the C. I. O. has quietly gone about purging its own payrolls of those accused of being Communist sympathizers.

Today, one C. I. O. spokesman said, there is no longer any question about loyalty to the C. I. O. among the state and local industrial union councils. These councils carry out policy and speak for the C. I. O. on local matters.

The drive started last November when the C. I. O.'s Cleveland convention amended the organization's constitution and gave the executive board power to expel any leader or union found to be adhering to Communist programs rather than the C. I. O.'s.

The convention delegates themselves tossed out two of the most outspoken violators of C. I. O. policy—the United Electrical Workers (U. E.) with about 400,000 members and the farm equipment workers with about 50,000.

Committees went to work at once to pursue the pro-Communist charges against 10 others.

The mine, mill and smelter workers, the food, tobacco and agricultural workers, the United Office and Professional Workers, and the United Public Workers were expelled after hearings.

Their jurisdiction—and that of the U. E. and Farm Equipment other C. I. O. unions. In some cases special drives were opened up.

Hearings have followed much the same pattern in each case. The charges, submitted by President William Steinberg of the "Right-Wing" American Radio Association, have been tossed on the table. C. I. O. officers have then sought to prove them, and the defending unions tried to disprove them.

The last of the hearings involved two of the four west coast Maritime unions — the marine cooks and stewards headed by Hugh Bryson, and the fishermen and allied workers headed by Joseph Jurich.

The closed door trial of Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union — said to have been a bitter one on both sides—was held a week ago.

The trial of the American Communications Association, led by Joseph Selly, was concluded long ago but the executive board has not yet acted on it. Selly's union has been splintered down to about 10,000 members. There is no doubt in the minds of C. I. O. officials that it will be ousted.

Jurich's union indicated what may happen on the west coast if and when Bridges is booted out of the C. I. O. The Fishermen's Union of about 20,000 members acted to merge with Bridges' union, which claims about 80,000 members in Hawaii, Alaska and Pacivic coast ports.

The fur and leather workers, led by Ben Gold, a charter member of the Communist party in this country, voted in convention at Atlantic City yesterday to withdraw from the C. I. O. Gold and his lieutenants bitterly attacked C. I. O. President Philip Murray and the C. I. O. generally.

One union, the United Furniture Workers headed by Morris Pizer, has indicated a sharp break with its past. Pizer and his supporters will go to the furniture workers' convention in Chicago June 5 determined to clean house of "left-wing" officeholders. The C. I. O. leadership is confident Pizer will succeed.

When the surgery is finished, the C. I. O. will have deliberately carved out close to one million members. It claims only 6,000,000.

But it has made a bid to recover the membership of the ousted unions under new leadership, and Murray is optimistic about the results.

Spring Wedding Unites Couple In Home Ceremony In Epps

In a beautiful spring ceremony performed Saturday, May 20, in Epps, Miss Audrey Lederle Boyles, daughter of Mrs. Stanely D. Boyles and the late Mr. Boyles, became the bride of Mr. Dan La Grone Tolar, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolar of Wyatt.

White flowers and pine embowered the Epps Methodist Church and before its altar entwined with magnolia, the couple exchanged their wedding vows with the Rev. Donald Alverson, pastor, officiating in the ceremony.

Seating the guest were Mr. J. D. Power from Pioneer, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Leighman E. Martin of Oak Grove.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Rayford Sherman of Haynesville rendered a program of piano music. As she played the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," the bride entered on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Luther Yonce, who gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white eyelet pique. The bodice was fashioned with a fitted yoke and it was joined to a full gathered skirt. The sleeves were short and puffed. Her double tiered veil of bridal net fell from a bandeau of lilies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli centered with a white orchid.

Miss Lillian Hortman of New Orleans, college friend of the bride was her only attendant. She wore a gown of apple green eyelet batiste which was complemented with a green net cap caught at each side with a cluster of lilies and she carried a bouquet of orchid gladioli.

Serving the bridegroom as his best man was Mr. James H. Matthews of Oak Grove.

Reception

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Stanley D. Boyles. Welcoming the guests in the receiving line were Mrs. Boyles and members of the wedding party. For her daughter's wedding, she had selected a light blue floral silk with black accessories and she wore a gladioli corsage.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Virginia Hamel of West Monroe.

In the dining room the bride's table was overlaid with a handsome lace cloth and centering the table was a large ring-shaped confection daintily embossed over a pale green icing. The reflector on which it rested was circled with orange nasturtium and in the center of the ring more nasturtium were arranged. Frosted orange punch was served from a crystal bowl at one end of the table by Mrs. James O. Malone of West Monroe, and large crystal trays holding individual cakes were passed among the guest by Mrs. T. Y. Wall of Epps.

Magnolia blossoms were used as decorative notes in the reception rooms.

Before changing her gown for her going away costume, the bride threw her bouquet, which was caught by Miss Lillian Hortman, maid of honor.

For their wedding trip to the mountains of Tennessee, Mrs. Tolar wore a white linen suit, brown accessories, a hat of white straw edged in green and her white wedding orchid. After their wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Delhi.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior College and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She holds membership in Alpha Chi Omega.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Farrar N. Harper of St. Joseph: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolar, Miss Lillie Tolar, and Mr. John David Tolar all of Wyatt; Miss Yvonne Lusk, Miss Janet Lusk, Mrs. Tripp Faulk, Jr., Mrs. James Pascal Norris, Jr., Mr. J. M. Wyatt. all of Monroe; Mrs. A. M Baker and Mrs. W. L. Gill of Darnell; Mr. Bill Brumfield, Mr Kenneth Brumfield, Miss Ruby Davis, Mr. R. M. Davis, Miss Carolyn Corley, Mrs. Douglas Eubanks, all of Bastrop; Mrs. Rayford Sherman of Haynesville; Miss Edna Briggs of Oak Grove; Miss Virginia Hamel and Mrs. J. O. Malone of West Monroe; and Miss Margie Keller of Tallulah.

Sheer Fabrics Popular For Summer Clothes

Sheer fabrics are in the spotlight for summer clothes, says Euna D. Spielman, Home Demonstration Agent. Yard goods counters are offering a greater variety of sheers than in many a year-in cotton, rayon, nylon and silk, with many old favorites to choose from, including dimity, dotted Swiss, organdie, chiffon, voile and tissue gingham. Sheers are ideal for this year's very feminine styles, either soft drapes or crisp full skirts, she believes.

"In making up these fabrics, however, the home seamstress needs to remember that many need extra seam allowance," she points out. "Crease - resistant voiles, for example, are wiry and fray badly, thus to hold securely need seams from 1-4 to 3-8 inches deep when finished. Darts and waistline seams should not be cut downward because of the danger of fraying. French seams generally are best because they are least conspicuous, but at armholes it may pay to bind seems with a bias fold of the material for durability.

"Sheers are so light and delicate that they have a way of getting out of hand—sliping and stretching when cutting out the pattern. To avoid this, use one of the new cutting boards to which the fabric can be pinned before cutting. Or pin the fabric to heavy smooth paper.

"When stitching by machine, prevent puckering of the material by basting it to strips of tissue paper. After stitching the paper is easily pulled off. Set the machine for about 16 to 18 stitches per inch for these delicate fabrics," the Agent advises, "and tighten the pressure screw at the top. Use a fine needle-size 11 at least."

IN RECITAL

Miss Patsy Gentry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gentry, who recently did an acrobat specialty in the dance recital of Mrs. Betty Johnson in Bastrop. The recital was sponsored by the Bastrop Kiwanis Club with the proceeds going to underprivileged children.

MRS. DOYLE PERRITT, RECENT BRIDE, FETED AT SHOWER TEA

A beautifully appointed shower tea in the home of Mrs. M. Bradley in Winnsboro was a delightful courtesy recently extended to Mrs. Doyle Perritt, the former Marie Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Duncan, and recent bride of that city.

Co-hostesses for the tea were: Mrs. E. B. Scott, Mrs. V. J. Funderburk, Mrs. Julian Greenwald, Mrs. Fay Walters, Mrs. Leon Brown and Mrs. J. W. McLemore.

The guest of honor chose for her gown, an original model of imported pink organdy featuring white shadow roses in the design. She was presented with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses by her hostesses.

Guests, calling between the hours of four and six, were greeted by Mrs. Bradley, wearing a white summer model with a pink carnation corsage; Mrs. Perritt, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. Duncan, who was gowned in orchid linen with yellow iris; and ushered into the spacious reception suit which was lovely in detail with the central arrangement of white Easter lilies on an antique console before a high mirror, being the only white accent among the summery pink and green theme carried out elsewhere with full-blown pink roses, pink larkspur and delicate green ferne. The roses, of unusual beauty and rare culture, came from the gardens of Mrs. McLemore.

Mrs. E. B. Scott, who wore dark summer sheer with a corsage of white carnations, showed the guests to the room where Mrs. Funderburk, gowned in black sheer with rose-wine gladiola corsage, presided over the gifts.

The dining room was graced by the exquisitely-detailed tea-table, overlaid with a handsome, imported white linen cloth, and appointed with crystal alone forming a delicate picture. The centerpiece of pink roses and pink larkspur interlaced with green fern was arranged in a long, low crystal bowl and flanked on either side by branched, crystal prism candelabra holding white, lighted tapers. Crystal compotes held pink and green bride's mints, embossed with pink roses and green leaves. At one end of the table, Mrs. Walter in navy silk, with a corsage of white carnations, presided over the crystal punch bowl from which she served frosted green punch. Mrs. Greenwald, in a pink linen model featuring openwork, and a pink corsage of carnations, and Mrs. Brown in blue silk with corsage of red rose buds, passed among the guests in the diningroom with delicate tea sandwiches, also in pink and green, and embossed petit fours with tinted roses.

A handsome vegetable dish and platter in her chosen china, was presented by the hostesses to Mrs. Perritt who received lovely silver, china, crystal, and linen from the guests during the afternoon.

Audrey Lederle Boyles Weds Dan LaGrone Tolar

Spring Wedding Unites Couple In Home Ceremony In Epps

In a beautiful spring ceremony performed Saturday, May 20, in Epps, Miss Audrey Lederle Boyles, daughter of Mrs. Stanely D. Boyles and the late Mr. Boyles, became the bride of Mr. Dan La Grone Tolar, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolar of Wyatt.

White flowers and pine embowered the Epps Methodist Church and before its altar entwined with magnolia, the couple exchanged their wedding vows with the Rev. Donald Alverson, pastor, officiating in the ceremony.

Seating the guest were Mr. J. D. Power from Pioneer, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Leighman E. Martin of Oak Grove.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Rayford Sherman of Haynesville rendered a program of piano music. As she played the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," the bride entered on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Luther Yonce, who gave her in marriage.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white eyelet pique. The bodice was fashioned with a fitted yoke and it was joined to a full gathered skirt. The sleeves were short and puffed. Her double tiered veil of bridal net fell from a bandeau of lilies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli centered with a white orchid.

Miss Lillian Hortman of New Orleans, college friend of the bride was her only attendant. She wore a gown of apple green eyelet batiste which was complemented with a green net cap caught at each side with a cluster of lilies and she carried a bouquet of orchid gladioli.

Serving the bridegroom as his best man was Mr. James H. Matthews of Oak Grove.

Reception

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Stanley D. Boyles. Welcoming the guests in the receiving line were Mrs. Boyles and members of the wedding party. For her daughter's wedding, she had selected a light blue floral silk with black accessories and she wore a gladioli corsage.

Presiding at the guest book was Miss Virginia Hamel of West Monroe.

In the dining room the bride's table was overlaid with a handsome lace cloth and centering the table was a large ring-shaped confection daintily embossed over a pale green icing. The reflector on which it rested was circled with orange nasturtium and in the center of the ring more nasturtium were arranged. Frosted orange punch was served from a crystal bowl at one end of the table by Mrs. James O. Malone of West Monroe, and large crystal trays holding individual cakes were passed among the guest by Mrs. T. Y. Wall of Epps.

Magnolia blossoms were used as decorative notes in the reception rooms.

Before changing her gown for her going away costume, the bride threw her bouquet, which was caught by Miss Lillian Hortman, maid of honor.

For their wedding trip to the mountains of Tennessee, Mrs. Tolar wore a white linen suit, brown accessories, a hat of white straw edged in green and her white wedding orchid. After their wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Delhi.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior College and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She holds membership in Alpha Chi Omega.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. Farrar N. Harper of St. Joseph; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolar, Miss Lillie Tolar, and Mr. John David Tolar all of Wyatt; Miss Yvonne Lusk, Miss Janet Lusk, Mrs. Tripp Faulk, Jr., Mrs. James Pascal Norris, Jr., Mr. J. M. Wyatt, all of Monroe; Mrs. A. M. Baker and Mrs. W. L. Gill of Darnell; Mr. Bill Brumfield, Mr Kenneth Brumfield, Miss Ruby Davis, Mr. R. M. Davis, Miss Carolyn Corley, Mrs. Douglas Eubanks, all of Bastrop; Mrs. Rayford Sherman of Haynesville; Miss Edna Briggs of Oak Grove; Miss Virginia Hamel and Mrs. J. O. Malone of West Monroe; and Miss Margie Keller of Tallulah.

IN RECITAL

Miss Patsy Gentry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gentry, who recently did an acrobat specialty in the dance recital of Mrs. Betty Johnson in Bastrop. The recital was sponsored by the Bastrop Kiwanis Club with the proceeds going to underprivileged children.

MRS. DOYLE PERRITT, RECENT BRIDE, FETED AT SHOWER TEA

A beautifully appointed shower tea in the home of Mrs. M. Bradley in Winnsboro was a delightful courtesy recently extended to Mrs. Doyle Perritt, the former Marie Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Duncan, and recent bride of that city.

Co-hostesses for the tea were: Mrs. E. B. Scott, Mrs. V. J. Funderburk, Mrs. Julian Greenwald, Mrs. Fay Walters, Mrs. Leon Brown and Mrs. J. W. McLemore.

The guest of honor chose for her gown, an original model of imported pink organdy featuring white shadow roses in the design. She was presented with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses by her hostesses.

Guests, calling between the hours of four and six, were greeted by Mrs. Bradley, wearing a white summer model with a pink carnation corsage; Mrs. Perritt, the honoree, and her mother, Mrs. Duncan, who was gowned in orchid linen with yellow iris; and ushered into the spacious reception suit which was lovely in detail with the central arrangement of white Easter lilies on an antique console before a high mirror, being the only white accent among the summery pink and green theme carried out elsewhere with full-blown pink roses, pink larkspur and delicate green ferne. The roses, of unusual beauty and rare culture, came from the gardens of Mrs. McLemore.

Mrs. E. B. Scott, who wore dark summer sheer with a corsage of white carnations, showed the guests to the room where Mrs. Funderburk, gowned in black sheer with rose-wine gladiola corsage, presided over the gifts.

The dining room was graced by the exquisitely-detailed tea-table, overlaid with a handsome, imported white linen cloth, and appointed with crystal alone forming a delicate picture. The centerpiece of pink roses and pink larkspur interlaced with green fern was arranged in a long, low crystal bowl and flanked on either side by branched, crystal prism candelabra holding white, lighted tapers. Crystal compotes held pink and green bride's mints, embossed with pink roses and green leaves. At one end of the table, Mrs. Walter in navy silk, with a corsage of white carnations, presided over the crystal punch bowl from which she served frosted green punch. Mrs. Greenwald, in a pink linen model featuring openwork, and a pink corsage of carnations, and Mrs. Brown in blue silk with corsage of red rose buds, passed among the guests in the diningroom with delicate tea sandwiches, also in pink and green, and embossed petit fours with tinted roses.

A handsome vegetable dish and platter in her chosen china, was presented by the hostesses to Mrs. Perritt who received lovely silver, china, crystal, and linen from the guests during the afternoon.

Sheer Fabrics Popular For Summer Clothes

Sheer fabrics are in the spotlight for summer clothes, says Euna D. Spielman, Home Demonstration Agent. Yard goods counters are offering a greater variety of sheers than in many a year-in cotton, rayon, nylon and silk, with many old favorites to choose from, including dimity, dotted Swiss, organdie, chiffon, voile and tissue gingham. Sheers are ideal for this year's very feminine styles, either soft drapes or crisp full skirts, she believes.

"In making up these fabrics, however, the home seamstress needs to remember that many need extra seam allowance," she points out. "Crease - resistant voiles, for example, are wiry and fray badly, thus to hold securely need seams from 1-4 to 3-8 inches deep when finished. Darts and waistline seams should not be cut downward because of the danger of fraying. French seams generally are best because they are least conspicuous, but at armholes it may pay to bind seems with a bias fold of the material for durability.

"Sheers are so light and delicate that they have a way of getting out of hand—sliping and stretching when cutting out the pattern. To avoid this, use one of the new cutting boards to which the fabric can be pinned before cutting. Or pin the fabric to heavy smooth paper.

"When stitching by machine, prevent puckering of the material by basting it to strips of tissue paper. After stitching the paper is easily pulled off. Set the machine for about 16 to 18 stitches per inch for these delicate fabrics," the Agent advises, "and tighten the pressure screw at the top. Use a fine needle-size 11 at least."

Hawaiian Party And Banquet Honors B. & P. W. Annual Convention

Over Two Hundred Members From State Register At Convention

The Louisiana Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs closed its thirty-firs' annual convention Saturday evening, May 20th with a formal banquet at the Frances Hotel. Table decorations of unusual beauty were achieved by Miss Maibel Hood and her committee through the use of many sequinned fans of pink gauze on beds of pastel sweet peas.

The invocation was given by Rev. Lea Joyner.

Mrs. Gladys Miles, a past state president, and chairman of the convention presided and introduced the state officers. Miss Maibel Hood introduced the speaker of the evening, Judge Sara T. Hughes, of Dallas, first vce-president of the Federation. Her subject, "Our Reflection in the World Picture," emphasized the importance of selfconfidence, courage and faith of the women as well as the men of America in meeting the challenges and responsibilities of the present unsettled world, and the final winning of the peace. Judge Hughes is a forceful speaker, and won her audience by her sincerity, strength of personality, and wit.

The artists who added to the diners' enjoyment were Mrs. Camille Wood, singing "Wanting You" and "Alice Blue Gown," accompanied by Mrs. Nell Bennett at the piano, and followed by Miss Jane Wallace, pianist, playing "Nocturne in B Flat" by Woodman.

In an impressive ceremony emphasizing their duties and responsibilities to hte federation, Judge Hughes installed the following as new state officers, who will serve for the next two years: president, Mrs. Mary Propes, Lake Charles; first vice-president, Mrs. Naomi Drake, New Orleans; second vice president, Mrs. Sybil Brown, Plaquemines; recording secretary, Miss Eloise Helm; treasurer, Mrs. Ora McHenry, Shreveport; and auditor, Mrs. Norma Askew, Alexandria.

Judge Hughes also led the entire membership present in a pledge of loyalty and support of these officers.

After a glowing tribute to Miss Emma Wood, out-going president, for her splendid contribution to the progress of the Federation for the past two years, Mrs. Evelyn Atkinson presented her with a beautiful silver coffee service, a gift from the State Federation.

Mrs. Edna Vaughn presented Judge Hughes with a silver tray in appreciation of her part in the convention.

Miss Wood also received a past president's pin, at the hands of the incoming president, Mrs. Propes.

The program closed with the singing of the emblem benediction.

Over two hundred members from all parts of the state registered for the convention Friday. Registrations started at 1:00 o'clock and continued throughout the afternoon. Friday evening an informal party was held on the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances Hotel. The terrace was transformed into a tropical island for a Hawaiian party directed by Miss Ruth Thomas, chairman and Mrs. Bessie Skinner, co-chairman. The decorations were planned and skillfully effected by Mrs. Mathilde Hirsch and Mrs. Cecile Parker. Palm and palmetto fronds effectively created a tropical atmosphere, and furnished a decorative background for a scene in a corner of the room displaying beach and sports apparel.

Large pineapples, ingeniously fashioned of pink gladioli, were used on the officers' table. These exotic flower-fruits were alternated with pineapples down the length of the table. Tropical fruit was artistically arranged to form the centerpiece. Placed in front of this table, a large blue urn filled with halconia imported from Hawaii for this occasion made a brilliant splash of color and added a note of authenticity to the decorations. Lucious fruit centerpieces flanked by pastel tapers marked each of the individual tables, and in true island tradition each guest was provided with a festive lei.

Miss Eloise Helm, Miss Alice Chilton, Mrs. Helen Trichel, and Mrs. Billie Harrell acted as ushers. They each wore picturesque native costumes of vivid sarongs, grass skirts and flower leis.

Miss Ruth Thomas, acting as master of ceremonies, extended a cordial welcome to all guests. Mrs. Bessie Skinner led the club Collect. Sorenson's Royal Hawaiian Trio rendered appropriate music during the delicious dinner that followed. Miss Sandra Knowles, a student of Armadine Renaud's Dancing School, entertained the guests with a delightful hula dance. Everyone was conducted on a facinating tour of the Hawaiian Islands and the pineapple industry via a technicolor film "Treasure Island." The party ended with the guests singing the island song of farewell, "Aloha."

Business sessions throughout the day Saturday filled the calendar for those attending the convention. Miss Emma Wood, state president, presided.

It was announced that the Oakdale Club was the winner of the Scrap Book contest.

With the business of the convention officially closed, convention goers were entertained Sunday with an al fresco luncheon at "Grassehaven," home of Mr. William Grasse. This was Monroe's treat to their guests, who greatly enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Grasse, his lovely home, and his many original oil paintings.

PARISH LIBRARY TO HAVE SUMMER READING CLUB FOR CHILDREN

All over Ouachita Parish boys and girls are talking about the summer reading club planned by the Ouachita Parish Public Library. All parents are urged to save this article as it contains all the information about the program for the coming summer. During the past three weeks the Librarian and her assistant Librarians have visited every school in Ouachita Parish and talked to the children about the program. The response has been very encouraging.

Everything connected with the Summer Reading Club is absolutely free. The only charges made by the Library are for lost, damaged or overdue books. The theme of the reading club is "Keep Louisiana Green." The Louisiana Forestry Commission is going to show picture shows at the Library in Monroe on June 5, 6 and 7 in West Monroe on June 8, 9 and 10. There will be three picture shows each morning. One will be given at 10:00 one at 10:30 and one at 11:00. Be sure to call the Library and make reservations for the day that your child plans to attend. Each child is required to read 12 books in order to earn a certificate. Of this 12, 2 books must deal with some phase of forestry. However, if a child attends one of the shows, he will receive credit for one book.

Each child who enrolls in the summer reading program will be given a button to wear, a book mark, a letter from "Smoky bear" and a notebook to use in keeping a list of the books read. These notebooks were donated by the Monroe Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Each child keeps a record of the books he reads during the summer. At the close of the summer, the Mother must sign the notebook stating that the child has actually read the books listed. All notebooks must be turnee in at the Library by August 26. The Brown paper mill is planning a picnic for all the boys and girls who earn certificates. Only those who have turned in their notebooks will be permitted to attend the picnic.

Children who read more than 12 books will be given a gold star for each five books over 12 read during the summer. This program will give much pleasure to the children engaged in it and will be an educational project also.

Almost every day new books for children are being added to the Library collection. All of these books are being processed, but saved back until June 1, when the Reading Club gets underway. Teen age gihls will be especially interested in "Confusion by Cupid" by Janet Lambert; "The wind's in the West" by Ella Porter Williams, "Linda's Homecoming" by Phyllis A. Whitney, and "Leave it to Beany" by Lenore Mattingly Weber". Boys will like "Sawdust in his shoes" by Eloise Jarvis McGraw and "Maple sugar for windy foot" by Frances Frost."

Children in the fourth and fifth grades will be especially interested in "Silver Stallion" by Bill and Bernard Martin, "Peter Styuvesant" by Mabel Widdemar and "Red Joker" by Margaret Johnson.

Beginning readers and those of the picture book age will love "Vavache" the cow who painted pictures by Frederic Attwood. Another delightful book is "Who dreams of Cheese" by Leonard Weisgard. "Big brother" by Laura Bannon is especially notable for the lovely color in the illustrations. Other delightful little books are "Bugs Bunny" and Pinocchio" by Walt Disney; "The fuzzy duckling" by Elsa Jane Warner and "Three Little Kittens" by Masha. Children who are interested in Bible stories will love "The Story of Jesus" by Beatrice Alexander.

Two new biographies for older boys and girls are "Amos Fortune free man" by Elizabeth Yates and "Victory Maid" by Helen L. Morgan. Many other new books have been ordered and will continue to arrive during the summer. There are books in the Ouachita Parish Public Library to appeal to every type of reader. Be sure that your child takes advantage of the opportunity given him to read without any cost, unless he destroys, damages, or loses a book, or fails to bring it back on time.

ST. MATTHEW'S JUNIOR-SENIOR SCHOOL PROM HELD RECENTLY

Traditional southern hospitality was dispensed in lavish manner Thursday night when members of St. Matthew's P. T. A. were hostesses for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom. The graduation days for the Seniors of St. Matthew's high school are overflowing with activities of a diversified nature but non were quite as thrilling as the banquet and dance held on the terrace of the Frances Hotel while the dance was held in the gym.

Members of the P. T. A. were responsible for the beautiful floral arrangements. Especially beautiful was the speaker's table centrally adorned with an immense plaque of magnolias and crimson colored oleander with white tapers burning in crystal candelabra placed at intervals along the table. Clever place cards and miniature hats marked covers for the seniors, juniors and the guest speakers as well as all the guests.

The following program arranged by the P. T. A. was presented following the serving of a delicious dinner.

Gloria Strong, Bride-Elect, Feted At Prenuptial Party

Home Of Mrs. E. H. Scott The Scene Of Tea On Saturday

Beautiful flowers, gladioli, Easter lilies, white jasmine, and Queen Anne's lace, were arranged in artistic profusion in the reception rooms of the E. H. Scott home when Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Robert May, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, and Mrs. F. H. DeLoach entertained Saturday in honor of Miss Gloria Strong, bride-elect of Henry Camp, with a very delightful tea.

Receiving the guests in the spacious living room were Mrs. E. H. Scott, Mrs. Robert May, Miss Gloria Strong, bride-elect, Mrs. C. J. Strong, mother of the bride, Mrs. E. N. Camp, and Miss Beryl Lynn DeLoach.

Miss Molly Jean May presided over the white quilted satin guest book.

Tall white tapers gleamed on the beautifully appointed lace covered tea table. The center piece, a bride's bust adorned with a lace trimmed veil and filled with Queen Anne's lace and a bridal bouquet of a single white calla lily, was encircled with white jasmine. The large crystal punch bowl at one end was presided over by Mrs. H. B. McClendon, alternating with Mrs. Earl Hamm and Mrs. Charlie Chrisholm.

Assorted canapes, carrying out the color scheme of pale green and white, individual cakes embossed in lily of the valley, and bride's mints in the shape of orange blossoms were served to over a hundred guests that called during the appointed hours.

Others assisting were Miss Bettie Jo Camp, Miss Loraine McClendon, Miss Jo Chisholm, and Miss Ginger Strong.

MRS. J. L. WILLIAMS IS INSTALLED AS SHERROUSE P.-T. A. PRESIDENT

"I pledge your support to carry on the work of this unit," said Mrs. J. Leroy Williams after being installed as president of the Sherrouse Parent-Teacher Association at the last regular meeting of the school year on Wednesday. Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Fifth District Secretary, conducted a very impressive service and installed the following officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. J. Leroy Williams; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Raymond John; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Sidney L. Williams; secretary, Mrs. E. H. Lyons; and treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Foster.

Mrs. Raymond John presented a very interesting program in the form of a panel discussion on the "Highlights and Achievements of the Past Year." Those taking part were Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose and Mrs. W. G. Miller.

In evaluating the work of the past school year, it was noted that the largest membership had been attained, due in part, to the increased enrollment and also to work of the membership committee. Attendance was good at all of the meetings.

The welfare committee collected clothes that have been used for children who got wet or muddy during school hours. This committee also made dental work possible for needy children.

The publicity chairman and historian served well, resulting in the Sherrouse P. T. A. scrapbook winning a "superior" rating and being one of two local books sent to the National Congress of P. T. A. convention in Long Beach Calif. this week.

Founder's Day was observed with an effective program and a sum of money was turned in for extension work. On this occasion a life membership was presented.

During the year, two active discussion groups have functioned benefitting many mothers of pre-school and elementary children. Mothers need training just as any public worker and the earlier they begin, the better their job will be.

Room mothers have been very generous with their time and effort on all projects, especially during the state convention held in Monroe last month.

The school visitation program resulted in good attendance of parents. The hospitality committee has been responsible for refreshments and the social hour after each regular meeting.

Most of the sixty children examined during the summer roundup clinic proved to be healthy The few defects found will be corrected during the summer, enabling the child to be ready for school in the fall.

During the business session it was resolved that "we, of Sherrouse P. T. A., work actively toward the bond issue on May 23rd to enlarge and improve the needs of all schools."

Mrs. James D. Kelly, outgoing president, was presented a sterling coffee spoon as recognition for her splendid leadership during the past year which was responsible for the successful results obtained by the unit.

As a token of appreciation for outstanding cooperation, a coffee spoon was presented to the dietician and each teacher of Sherrouse School as follows: Mrs. L. G. Hunt, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, principal, Mrs. H. L. Abbott, Mrs. L. N. Blair, Mrs. Bob Burns, Mrs. Carolyn Shelton, Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. D. E. Garr, Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, Miss Mirdie Vining, Mrs. E. J. Brown and Mrs. Ruth Dufresne.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refrshments were served and a social hour followed.

It is hoped that Orlon, the new textile developed as a member of the nylon family, will make an automobile top that will last for the life of the car. Resistance to sun and weather is one of its most valuable characteristics.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby
Written for NEA Service

"I watched a very good player the other night," relates a Cincinnati reader, "and noticed that she habitually discarded three cards that matched her closed canastas. For example, she would have a canasta of kings and would pick up an extra king. Instead of melding it, she would discard it as quickly as she could.

"I didn't like to ask questions for fear of seeming ignorant. However, maybe you will be good enough to tell me why she did good idea."

It will be a pleasure to oblige, First, however, lat me assure you that any good player loves to answer an occasional intelligent question. Just wait until the hand is over and pop your question. The person you ask will feel flattered that you came to her (or him) for advice.

Now for the question itself. Suppose you have a canasta of kings, including five kings and two wild cards. There are only three kings left in the whole deck. It isn't very likely that either opponent has two of those three kings in his hand, particularly if you have the third one yourself.

xIn other words when you pick up an extra king, you can discard it with great confidence that it will not get picked up by the next player. If you melded the king (by adding it to your canasta), you would score ten points. It may cost you as much as 20 points to discard the king instead of melding it. Wouldn't you gladly pay 20 points each turn to be assured of a safe discard? Safety is actually worth a great deal more.

That's not all, however. Suppose you discard your king safely enough but that your next discard is picked up. Now your opponent has a king that he doesn't know what to do with. He can't meld it. If he keeps it in his hand, he has to make room for it by throwing a more useful card. If he discards it, your partner can pick it up — together with any other cards there may be in the discard pile.

In short, when you discard a card that matches one of your closed canastas, you are putting into the discard pile a card that your opponent cannot use immediately and that will be a thorn in his flesh if he gets it later on.

—We were playing two-hand Canasta. I made an insufficient meld. Can I just put the cards back in my hand without penalty, or is there a penalty as there is in four-hand Canasta?

A — There is no penalty. You may put the cards back in your hand and continue the hand as though notning had happened. In the two-hand game you haven't helped a partner by showing your cards. If anything, you have helped your opponent. Hence there is no need to penalize you.

—In a three-hand game, the winner collects from both opponents. Does the second-best player collect from the last man?

A—Both methods are used. In some games, only the winner collects. In other games the man in the middle wins from the bottom man as well. When playing with a new group, it's wise to agree beforehand which method you will use. If you forget to ask what they do, you must abide by the custom of the other players.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Gloria Strong, Bride-Elect, Feted At Prenuptial Party

Home Of Mrs. E. H. Scott The Scene Of Tea On Saturday

Beautiful flowers, gladioli, Easter lilies, white jasmine, and Queen Anne's lace, were arranged in artistic profusion in the reception rooms of the E. H. Scott home when Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Robert May, Mrs. R. G. Taylor, and Mrs. F. H. DeLoach entertained Saturday in honor of Miss Gloria Strong, bride-elect of Henry Camp, with a very delightful tea.

Receiving the guests in the spacious living room were Mrs. E. H. Scott, Mrs. Robert May, Miss Gloria Strong, bride-elect, Mrs. C. J. Strong, mother of the bride, Mrs. E. N. Camp, and Miss Beryl Lynn DeLoach.

Miss Molly Jean May presided over the white quilted satin guest book.

Tall white tapers gleamed on the beautifully appointed lace covered tea table. The center piece, a bride's bust adorned with a lace trimmed veil and filled with Queen Anne's lace and a bridal bouquet of a single white calla lily, was encircled with white jasmine. The large crystal punch bowl at one end was presided over by Mrs. H. B. McClendon, alternating with Mrs. Earl Hamm and Mrs. Charlie Chrisholm.

Assorted canapes, carrying out the color scheme of pale green and white, individual cakes embossed in lily of the valley, and bride's mints in the shape of orange blossoms were served to over a hundred guests that called during the appointed hours.

Others assisting were Miss Bettie Jo Camp, Miss Loraine McClendon, Miss Jo Chisholm, and Miss Ginger Strong.

The hostesses presented Miss Strong with a steak set in her chosen pattern of silver.

MRS. J. L. WILLIAMS IS INSTALLED AS SHERROUSE P.-T. A. PRESIDENT

"I pledge your support to carry on the work of this unit," said Mrs. J. Leroy Williams; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Raymond John; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Sidney L. Williams; secretary, Mrs. E. H. Lyons; and treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Foster.

Mrs. Raymond John presented a very interesting program in the form of a panel discussion on the "Highlights and Achievements of the Past Year." Those taking part were Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose and Mrs. W. G. Miller.

"I didn't like to ask questions for fear of seeming ignorant. However, maybe you will be good enough to tell me why she did good idea."

It will be a pleasure to oblige. First, however, lat me assure you that any good player loves to answer an occasional intelligent question. Just wait until the hand is over and pop your question. The person you ask will feel flattered that you came to her (or him) for advice.

Now for the question itself. Suppose you have a canasta of kings, including five kings and two wild cards. There are only three kings left in the whole deck. It isn't very likely that either opponent has two of those three kings in his hand, particularly if you have the third one yourself.

xIn other words when you pick up an extra king, you can discard it with great confidence that it will not get picked up by the next player. If you melded the king (by adding it to your canasta), you would score ten points. It may cost you as much as 20 points to discard the king instead of melding it. Wouldn't you gladly pay 20 points each turn to be assured of a safe discard? Safety is actually worth a great deal more.

That's not all, however. Suppose you discard your king safely enough but that your next discard is picked up. Now your opponent has a king that he doesn't know what to do with. He can't meld it. If he keeps it in his hand, he has to make room for it by throwing a more useful card. If he discards it, your partner can pick it up — together with any other cards there may be in the discard pile.

In short, when you discard a card that matches one of your closed canastas, you are putting into the discard pile a card that your opponent cannot use immediately and that will be a thorn in his flesh if he gets it later on.

—We were playing two-hand Canasta. I made an insufficient meld. Can I just put the cards back in my hand without penalty, or is there a penalty as there is in four-hand Canasta?

A—There is no penalty. You may put the cards back in your hand and continue the hand as though nothing had happened. In the two-hand game you haven't helped a partner by showing your cards. If anything, you have helped your opponent. Hence there is no need to penalize you.

—In a three-hand game, the winner collects from both opponents. Does the second-best player collect from the last man?

A—Both methods are used. In some games, only the winner collects. In other games the man in the middle wins from the bottom man as well. When playing with a new group, it's wise to agree beforehand which method you will use. If you forget to ask what they do, you must abide by the custom of the other players.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Cautious Duck Play Cinches A Contract

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

"I don't really enjoy looking at the gloomy side of life," said Pessimistic Pete. "I just like to be careful."

"I'll bet you look at the bottom of a sandwich as well as the top before you bite into it," remarked one of his opponents bitterly. He had good reason to be annoyed, since Pessimistic Pete had just made a contract by super-cautious play.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, dummy played low, and East won with the king. South won the diamond return with the queen, and led a low club from his hand.

It was routine play to duck this first club, allowing East to win the trick. Pete hoped to develop at least one low-card trick in clubs, and the ducking play was the best way to do so while still keeping entries to the dummy.

East returned his remaining diamond, and dummy won with the ace. It was at this point that Pete made his super-cautious play. He led another low club from the dummy!

This play would be unnecessary two times out of three, since the clubs would normally split 3-2. However, this play assured the contract against the actual 4-1 club split.

West could take his remaining diamond, the fourth trick for the defenders. Any return, however, was sure to give declarer the rest of the tricks Dummy's last low club was bound to produce the ninth trick.

It is instructive to see that it Pete had tried to take the second round of clubs with a high card, he would win only the two top clubs.

Pete would not have played the hand in this way if he had needed ten tricks. In that case he would have ducked only one round of clubs, hoping for a normal break in that suit. Since he needed only nine tricks, however, he took no chances. The "duck" was the sure-fire play.

SEPARATE UNITS FURNITURE TREND

Wide Choice Offered For Individual Needs In Travis Court Group

The trend to separate units rather than "suites" of furniture is aided and abetted by the addition of over thirty bedroom pieces to the Travis Court group which only a year ago held the record as the largest open-stock dining room collection. Now surpassing itself with a grand total of ninety pieces, Drexel's traditional furniture opens wider vistas than ever before to those who are starting a home, adding to present furnishings, or making needed replacements.

In the new bedroom furniture there is the same wide choice to meet the individual needs. Four styles of dressers include both single and "Mr. and Mrs." types. Six chests show varying sixes from small commodes to spacious highboys. Among the eight beds in the group are sleigh, poster and tester types; and there is one styled without a footboard for those who welcome the comtemporary feeling in traditional form. Accessory pieces feature two styles of vanities, bedside tables, chairs and benches.

The original Travis Court dining room furniture now presents 22 tables, 9 pairs of side and arm chairs, 6 buffets, and 3 breakfronts among its many pieces. The scope of the entire presentation offers seemingly limitless possibilities to the homemaker. Now her careful planning may indeed take the long, lifetime view for she is assured that her selection may go beyond the needs of the moment into a future of continued usefulness.

A small commode chest chosen today as an accessory for the living room may later find its twin to flank the tester bed when additional drawer space is needed in that part of the house. The acquisition of a larger home retires the little Pembroke extension table from the dining room to a point of distinction in foyer or living room. A career girl or bachelor apartment can be the nucleus of that first real home because the furniture was so right it can adapt to new surroundings and hold its own among new selections.

Much charm and individuality results to the home from this increasingly popular system of buying open-stock furniture. Two families may start with the same number of pieces, of identical or similar design, but the different way in which they place each piece to meet their own tastes and needs reflects originality that is seldom possible when arranging "sets" of furniture And to this end, versatility is inherent in the Travis Court group with many pieces actually designed for a dual role.

Though econmoy is often a controlling factor in the selection of open-stock furniture, craftsmanship and design are of paramount importance. These considerations are assured by Drexel's method of building for long-lasting satisfaction, always at prices that range from moderate to surprisingly low.

The high Drexel standard of construction provides the best possible material and workmanship. Hardwood corner blocks, carefully mortised and dovetailed joints, perfectly matched joinery, permanent glues and resins promise years of enduring beauty and service.

Summer Roundup Held In Ramson

Summer Round-up at Ransom was a big success this year as there was th largest number in the history of the school participating. Registration was in charge of Mrs. L. C. Hearn and Dr. W. L. Spencer was the examining physician. He was assisted by a nurse from the Ouachita Parish Health Department. Fifty children were given the pre-school check-up that day.

Mrs. W. D. Clark, the principal of Ransom, had issure invitations to the mothers of pre-school children to bring their child and have lunch in the school lunch room prior to the check-up. She thought it would be a good time to acquaint both the child and the mother with the lunch program and with the school in general. She felt that a child was always placed at a disadvantage when his first trip to school was to see the doctor and get a vaccination.

TO GRADUATE

Miss Ida Elizabeth Carter of Oak Ridge, who will graduate from the Hockaday College Preparatory School in Dallas in June.

Elizabeth Carter Of Oak Ridge Will Be Hockaday Graduate

Miss Elizabeth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Carter of Oak Ridge, Louisiana, will graduate from Hockaday Preparatory School in Dallas, Tex., Tuesday, May 30, in the traditional outdoor commencement exercises on the school terrace at five in the afternoon. These exercises will climax several days of year-end activities, both social and school.

Miss Carter and several of her classmates entertained the class and their teachers at a picnic in Fort Worth, Saturday, April 22, at the farm home of Miss Isabelle Brown, one of the hostesses. This was one of a series of parties honoring the graduating class. Still ahead on the calendar is a barge party on White Rock Lake Friday night, May 26.

Miss Carter has played an active part in school affairs in the two years she has been at Hockaday. She has served as treasurer of the Spanish Honor Society, and as president of her residence hall. She is a member of the White Team, the modern dance group, the Typing Club, and the French Honor Society. She has won the boarding pin for good citizenship in the boarding department. Before coming to Hockaday Miss Carter attended the Oak Ridge public schools.

Sunday evening, May 28, at 6:30 on the campus, in the beautiful outdoor auditorium which is formed by the school terrace with the clematis covered pergola as a background, the final Sunday evening vesper service of the year, or baccalaureate service, will take place. With music provided by the three hundred and twenty-five girls of the Hockaday Lower School and Hockaday Preparatory School joined in a white-clad chorus, the graduates will receive a special message from Dr. John Anderson, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Tyler, Tex.

Monday, May 29, at two-thirty in the afternoon, the school will hold the Field Day exercises, in which every girl will participate, and then the honors assembly, when prizes for the year's work will be awarded.

At seven o'clock Monday night, all the graduates and their parents will be honored with a formal dinner by President and Mrs. Hobart Foster Mossman of Hockaday. Other guests are members of the staff.

Miss Carter will wear a floor length white organdy dress and a horsehair picture hat and will carry a basket of spring flowers for the formal graduation exercises Tuesday afternoon. Again the outdoor auditorium will be the setting. An honor guard of the junior class will hold an arch of gladiolas under which the graduates will walk to their places on an especially constructed platform in front of the pergola. Dr. T. V. MY MAN and YOURS

Margene

By Margene Danch

Mrs. C. R. dV. of Fall River, Mass. has a real problem. Here's what she has to say:

". . . My husband and I have been living in an apartment for six years. We've had two little boys since we moved here and like most landlords, ours isn't too happy about having children around. He doesn't come right out and say so, but he might as well!

The boys haven't been eating enough lately, so my husband and I took them to a doctor. He found everything in good order. All they needed was to get out and play in the fresh air. A very simple remedy we thought. So, the next day, bright and early, I put the children out. In about 10 minutes, a rapping came at the window, then loud calling:

'Are the children in the yard? My watch says it's time for them to come in!' It was our landlady. The boys came in crying because they couldn't play outside.

I got mad and put them over the fence into the vacant lot next door. This has tall grass and the boys love to play there. They each had a stick over their shoulder and were marching like little soldiers when there again came a knock at the window:

'Scoot! Get out of here!'

You can imagine how the children felt. They begged me to take them to a park, but gosh! I have work to do. Margene, it's hard to believe that some landlords were ever children!"

About the only advice I could give, Mrs. C. R. dV, is what I would do in a similar situation. Go to your landlord and ask if h[e] could mark off a certain place tha[t] the children can play in. Prom[-]ise that they will stay within th[e] bounds and see that your promis[e] is kept.

Because landlords do have th[e] responsibility of their propert[y] they naturally want to keep it [in] good condition. If your landlor[d] sees that you understand his prob[-]lem, I'm sure he will be willing t[o] help provide a children's play are[a].

Margene.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, and everyone should. You can easily learn it. If you learn shorthand, still better, Many top executives have got there by knowing typing and shorthand. A four-year study by psychologists and motion engineers shows most high school and college methods of teaching typing are "The American Comedy of Errors." The study showed teaching touch typing with blind keys is all wrong, as is making a fetish of "accuracy" from the beginning and failure to give far more dictation. They also proved keys can be re-arranged so you can be re-arranged so you can learn typing in half the usual time.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. Metropolitan Life statistician L. I. Dublin shows children were involved in 42 per cent of 1948 divorces. This explodes the fallacy that children prevent divorces. From 1922 to 1932 the number of divorces involving children was 38 per cent almost the same. But ince the average number of children involved per divorce was 1.8, plainly children, orphaned by divorce, are increasing faster than divorces. Our only hope seems to be better, earlier, profounder education for marriage.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes. Any firm that does not do this is losing a lot of profits. First, the top brass gets the benefits of the best thinking of their employees. Hosts of examples are on record where some humble worker has made a suggestion worth thousands of dollars. Second, this system increases the worker's feeling of importance. Numerous researches show the employee values this more than pay. Third, it increases loyalty. The worker feels he "belongs," that it is his business. He is a partner, not merely an employee.

Miss Elizabeth Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe S. Carter of Oak Ridge, Louisiana, will graduate from Hockaday Preparatory School in Dallas, Tex., Tuesday, May 30, in the traditional outdoor commencement exercises on the school terrace at five in the afternoon. These exercises will climax several days of year-end activities, both social and school.

Miss Carter and several of her classmates entertained the class and their teachers at a picnic in Fort Worth, Saturday, April 22, at the farm home of Miss Isabelle Brown, one of the hostesses. This was one of a series of parties honoring the graduating class. Still ahead on the calendar is a barge party on White Rock Lake Friday night, May 26.

Miss Carter has played an active part in school affairs in the two years she has been at Hockaday. She has served as treasurer of the Spanish Honor Society, and as president of her residence hall. She is a member of the White Team, the modern dance group, the Typing Club, and the French Honor Society. She has won the boarding pin for good citizenship in the boarding department. Before coming to Hockaday Miss Carter attended the Oak Ridge public schools.

Sunday evening, May 28, at 6:30 on the campus, in the beautiful outdoor auditorium which is formed by the school terrace with the clematis covered pergola as a background, the final Sunday evening vesper service of the year, or baccalaureate service, will take place. With music provided by the three hundred and twenty-five girls of the Hockaday Lower School and Hockaday Preparatory School joined in a white-clad chorus, the graduates will receive a special message from Dr. John Anderson, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Tyler, Tex.

Monday, May 29, at two-thirty in the afternoon, the school will hold the Field Day exercises, in which every girl will participate, and then the honors assembly, when prizes for the year's work will be awarded.

At seven o'clock Monday night, all the graduates and their parents will be honored with a formal dinner by President and Mrs. Hobart Foster Mossman of Hockaday. Other guests are members of the staff.

Miss Carter will wear a floor length white organdy dress and a horsehair picture hat and will carry a basket of spring flowers for the formal graduation exercises Tuesday afternoon. Again the outdoor auditorium will be the setting. An honor guard of the junior class will hold an arch of gladiolas under which the graduates will walk to their places on an especially constructed platform in front of the pergola. Dr. T. V. Smith, professor of philosophy of Syracuse University and professor of citizenship and philosophy of the Maxwell Graduate School of Syracuse University, will deliver the commencement address. Diplomas will be conferred by Mr. Mossman.

Bob Thomas IN MOVIELAND

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.—(AP)—Jolly, white-haired Lauritz Melchoir and his vivacious blonde "Kleinchen" (little one) celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last night with champagne, caviar and a cake. And they offered this advice for marital success:

"Understand each other's problems."

Kleinchen follows the formula to the extent of handling all her husband's business. He consults her about everything.

"That's our recipe for happiness," smiled Melchoir at their massive hilltop house. "When it is something she knows more about, she decides. When I kr w more about a situation, then I decide. Neither of us is boss all the time. It's a 50-50 thing."

Mrs. Melchoir, who is a foot shorter than her hulking husband, gave up her acting career after they married in Copenhagen in 1925. Her reason: "We would be separated by our different careers —and what kind of a marriage is that?" Since then she has accompanied him everywhere, except on his big game hunts.

The opera singer enjoys telling about meeting his wife, and no wonder:

"I was studying Wagner in Munich. Kleinchen was studying as an actress in a studio nearby. She did her own stunt work and one day she had to bail out of an airplane in a parachute. I heard a big commotion in my garden and ran out to find her caught in a tree. I didn't even know it was a girl until I had untangled her.

"I guess it was love at first sight. We had a date that evening."

The courtship lasted two years. "I think it's very important that a couple wait until they really know each other," Mrs. Melchoir remarked.

She debunked the common belief that opera stars are temperamental and denied that her husband is nard to live with. "They aren't all like that," she said, adding with a sign, "Thank goodness."

She had only one semblance of a complaint to make: Laurence sings in the shower. But loud.

"However, I don't mind," she confessed.

HOW MUCH IS RELIGIOUS FREEDOM WORTH

ASK THE PILGRIMS

who braved the ocean and the wilderness and death to secure it.

ASK THE SOLDIERS who fought in both World Wars that religious freedom might be established everywhere as one of four freedoms essential to men.

ASK THE PEOPLE of the thirteen original states who refused to ratify the Constitution until religious freedom was guaranteed in an added Bill of Rights of people in other lands who even now, struggle and suffer to wrest it from their rulers.

ASK THE MILLIONS

THEN ASK YOURSELF

is religious freedom worth enough to you so that you guard it by using it?

Are you among the Americans who worship regularly! ! ! Each in his own church and according to his own conscience! ! ! Yet all united by a common faith in the brotherhood of men under the Fatherhood of God?

Girl Scout News

Troop 34, Brownie, Mrs. H. V. Brady and Mrs. S. C. Strausser leaders, had their birthday and re-registration celebration in the form of an old-timers' picnic at Forsythe park Sunday evening. By old-timers' picnic, we mean that the tables were laden with delicious southern fried chicken, five or six bowls of potato salad, relishes and cakes, and a cooler, crammed with soda pop, of the side. Haven't eaten such delicious picnic food since those long ago church socials in the amusement park in our home town. But the Brownies even managed to over shadow the food with their clever program so very well handled, and we especially liked the way each girl introduced herself and her parents to the guests. Those proud looks when they'd say "This is my Daddy and this is my Mother" did quite a lot to our hearts. Miss Annis Klie and your reporter, Peggy Harris, were special guests at this daughter and parents' picnic and believe us, we felt quite honored. Mrs. Brady presented each troop member with a pendant to add to her Brownie pin, to denote a year's membership in Scouting. The girls presented their leaders, with demitasse cups inscribed with "Brownie Troop No. 34, 1949-50". Truly, it was a perfect party.

Troop 18, Mrs. Louis Kusin and Mrs. W. R. Crow leaders, held their "Fly-up" ceremony Monday afternoon in Mrs. Creo's home on Park avenue. Each troop member lighted a candle and gave a part of the meaning of Girl Scouting. Mrs. Prentice Gray, Jr. presented the Girl Scout Pins to these new intermediates. Ice Cream and cake were served by the girls to the mothers and friends presen

Troop 17, intermediates, Mrs. F. H. Peterson and Mrs. C. J. Shirah, leaders were given the opportunity for serious scout service last Saturday when the members were invited to act as pages at the Business and Professional Women's State Convention held here during the week-end. It was a novel and important experience for them to be active at such an impressive assembly. Convention members stated that everything went along smoothly due to having such capable pages, carying notes and running errands and just being generally useful. It is quite conceivable then that the girls of Troop 17 have decided that business careers are the only future, as they were tremendously impressed by the B, and P.W.'s casual conversations as to their "San Francisco trip by train—then on to Honoululu by boat for a month or more." Glamour! Glamour.! They were also pleased to see their own names in the beautiful programs right along with names of the B. and P. W. executive. A convention package of interesting miscellaneous article was given each page. What a treat!

Troop 14, intermediate, Mrs. W. H. Wells and Mrs. W. A. Newman leaders recently presented the pageant "Girl Scouts also Serve" by Mrs. Oleda Schrottky at the Lida Benton School. Troops 20 and 38 also participated in the program. Scenes enacted in the pageant were day nursery, sewing, tree conservation, Girl Scout canning, Red Cross instruction, and international friendship. Mr. Fran Brennan operated the loud speaker during the program and Mrs. Wallace Kendall accompanied the cast at the piano. Last but not least came the moment supreme as th following second class Scouts were awarded their new badges; Beulah Burkett, interior decorating, speaker, played and tree badges; Dale Fleming, player, speaker, sewing, cooking; Sandra Tooke, player, speaker, designing, interior decorating, sewing; Margie Newman, speaker, player, interior decorating, cooking; Betty Ruth Price, speaker, player; Barbara Panzico, dramatics appreciation and player; Patsy Holmes, sewing dramatics appreciation and player, Sandra Chitty received her second class badge, also dramatic appreciation and player.

The link that had to come

The two main roads to the solution of life's problems, divergent though they may have seemed to be, are the way of Science and the way of Religion.

These two paths converge in Christian Science. Today the rational thinker finds logic, supported by proof, in the religious thinker's deep conviction of a primal cause, or intelligence, called God.

Science and religion can now agree, for through the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the actual Scienee of Christianity has been revealed.

This great book shows, through reason and revelation, the solution to problems of health, supply, or of any other kind. It may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.

Girl Scout News

Troop 34, Brownie, Mrs. H. V. Brady and Mrs. S. C. Strausser leaders, had their birthday and re-registration celebration in the form of an old-timers' picnic at Forsythe park Sunday evening. By old-timers' picnic, we mean that the tables were laden with delicious southern fried chicken, five or six bowls of potato salad, relishes and cakes, and a cooler, crammed with soda pop, of the side. Haven't eaten such delicious picnic food since those long ago church socials in the amusement park in our home town. But the Brownies even managed to over shadow the food with their clever program so very well handled, and we especially liked the way each girl introduced herself and her parents to the guests. Those proud looks when they'd say "This is my Daddy and this is my Mother" did quite a lot to our hearts. Miss Annis Klie and your reporter, Peggy Harris, were special guests at this daughter and parents' picnic and believe us, we felt quite honored. Mrs. Brady presented each troop member with a pendant to add to her Brownie pin, to de-note a year's membership in Scouting. The girls presented their leaders, with demitasse cups inscribed with "Brownie Troop No. 34, 1949-50". Truly, it was a perfect party.

Troop 18, Mrs. Louis Kusin and Mrs. W. R. Crow leaders, held their "Fly-up" ceremony Monday afternoon in Mrs. Creo's home on Park avenue. Each troop member lighted a candle and gave a part of the meaning of Girl Scouting. Mrs. Prentice Gray, Jr. presented the Girl Scout Pins to these new intermediates. Ice Cream and cake were served by the girls to the mothers and friends presen

Troop 17, intermediates, Mrs. F. H. Peterson and Mrs. C. J. Shirah, leaders were given the opportunity for serious scout service last Saturday when the members were invited to act as pages at the Business and Professional Women's State Convention held here during the week-end. It was a novel and important experience for them to be active at such an impressive assembly. Convention members stated that everything went along smoothly due to having such capable pages, carying notes and running errands and just being generally useful. It is quite conceivable then that the girls of Troop 17 have decided that business careers are the only future, as they were tremendously impressed by the B, and P.W.'s casual conversations as to their "San Francisco trip by train—then on to Honoulul by boat for a month or more." Glamour! Glamour.! They were also pleased to see their own names in the beautiful programs right along with names of the B. and P. W. executive. A convention package of interesting miscellaneous article was given each page. What a treat!

Troop 14, intermediate, Mrs. W. H. Wells and Mrs. W. A. Newman leaders recently presented the pageant "Girl Scouts also Serve" by Mrs. Oleda Schrottky at the Lida Benton School. Troops 20 and 38 also participated in the program. Scenes enacted in the pageant were day nursery, sewing, tree conservation, Girl Scout canning, Red Cross instruction, and international friendship. Mr. Fran Brennan operated the loud speaker during the program and Mrs. Wallace Kendall accompanied the cast at the piano. Last but not least came the moment supreme as th following second class Scouts were awarded their new badges; Beulah Burkett, interior decorating, speaker, played and tree badges; Dale Fleming, player, speaker, sewing, cooking; Sandra Tooke, player, speaker, designing, interior decorating, sewing; Margie Newman, speaker, player, interior decorating, cooking; Betty Ruth Price, speaker, player; Barbara Panzico, dramatics appreciation and player; Patsy Holmes, sewing dramatics appreciation and player, Sandra Chitty received her second class badge, also dramatic appreciation and player.

The link that had to come

The two main roads to the solution of life's problems, divergent though they may have seemed to be, are the way of Science and the way of Religion.

These two paths converge in Christian Science. Today the rational thinker finds logic, supported by proof, in the religious thinker's deep conviction of a primal cause, or intelligence, called God.

Science and religion can now agree, for through the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, the actual Sciene of Christianity has been revealed.

This great book shows, through reason and revelation, the solution to problems of health, supply, or of any other kind. It may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for you. use.

SHERIFF AND CHIEF DEPUTY CONSULT FILE

Sheriff Bailey Grant points to a file kept in the Burl Cole case as E. L. "Pop" Walker looks on. Cole was caught last year in Missouri following his alleged murder of a Shreveport mechanic. He is at present in the asylum in Pineville undergoing mental observation. He has been classed as "temporarily insane." Fast work on the part of the sheriff's department, together with a tri-state dragnet engineered the quick apprehension of Cole near Licking, Mo.

Work Of Sheriff Dept. Is Difficult, Involved

By Oland Silk
(Of The Morning World Staff)

A telephone call usually sets the stage.

For Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant and his staff of criminal deputies it means what most of their lives have meant since taking office about two years ago—a series of questions and answers.

What criminal work comprises is more than that, but inevitably there are the questions and answers. The former in investigation may be patterned along certain lines, but they are naturally attuned to the circumstances. The answers they get are often as varied as the questions. Each story has to be checked and double-checked to disengage fiction from fact. A constant interrogation goes on for affirmation of stories or perhaps suspicion in order to file away information marked "evidence." This is called "building a case."

All this of course takes place in investigations of crimes such as murder, aggravated battry, robbery, aggravated burglary. The same intensity of inquiry may often follow a relatively minor crime, however.

Work Explained

In Louisiana, building a case for the state is part of the work of the sheriff's department. But it is never in the hands of one man. It involves co-ordination of the department as a whole.

For simplification, the work of E. L. "Pop" Walker will be cited as an integral part of the job that faces field deputies at large. "Pop" Walker is a slightly balding, 36 year-old peace officer who believes that an officer's two main attributes should be to: Know evidence when he sees it, and know how to preserve it once he has it.

When Walker played football for Coach Jim Malone in 1936 and '37, he handled the position of blocking back under the single wing formation. In football as well as in criminal investigation, he learned that the shortest distance to the goal was not always straight ahead. There must be a certain amount of deviation from that geometrical principle in either field.

He explained that "people tell you a lot of things they don't think they telling you." Just as much pertinent information is ultimately recorded as evidence by indirect questioning as by direct. In contrast, a fake-spinner play with the end around can sometimes gain more yardage than all the line plunges in the world.

Other Duties

The brick wall that often obstructs the strategy of a quarterback can be analogous to a stubborn criminal who won't confess until every shred of evidence is stacked against him. It is on these occasions that a deputy sheriff earns his pay.

But lest a wrong impression of deputy's work be conveyed—that they only investigate crimes in the parish—a list of their other duties should be considered.

For instance, 2,689 summons' have been served since Sheriff Grant took office. That would average, he explained, about 3 1/2 witnesses to a case.

They must assist when needed by city police; they must serve state police warrants, summon witnesses for two misdemeanor courts, the juvenile court, and district court; handle all prisoners for the courts; summon witnesses for coroner's inquest; subpoena witnesses for the district attorney; extradite prisoners; transport them to prison; get evidence in criminal cases which is good enough to go to court with the district attorney's standards.

Asked to single out a case that contained the elements of hard work, luck, both good and bad, which the sheriff's department has solved, Walker picked this one. But in particular because it happened recently.

Case Citeo

Shortly after nightfall on January 3, a storekeeper and his wife closed shop near here and went home. As they started to enter the kitchen door of their home, a powerful form struck from out of the shadows, knocking the man to the floor and pummeling him with a heavy flashlight.

The storekeeper's wife hysterical with fear, fought the assailent in the dark. She beat him with her fists, trying desperately to prevent serious injury to her husband.

The couple had been robbed of over $200.

In a half-conscious state, the storekeeper ran to the doorway and fired three times with a 20-guage shotgun into the speeding automobile.

That night it rained, washing away all evidence of tire tracks.

After questioning the couple, the sheriff's department made notes on things to look for. As Pop Walker explained it: We were on the lookout for a light green Plymouth with shotgun holes in it; a large Negro well over six feet tall; a Negro or Negroes who knew that the money would be worth taking a risk for—i. e. who knew the business and habits of the storekeeper well.

Working day and night, the sheriff's department combed this area for suspects. A few were picked up and later released.

The storekeeper knew the Negroes who frequented his store the most. One Negro in particular, moved from his residence near Monroe. They learned his whereabouts and started out to find him late one night.

Approaching the home of Peter Stewart, Negro, in the vicinity of Fondale, a light green Plymouth was seen in the yard. Telltale dents where the shots had landed were in the side of the car.

Stewart knew the habits of the storekeeper well. He had even sold him a load of corn the week before the incident.

Under questioning, Stewart told Grant and his deputies who had helped him move. He said it was "Tenderfoot Slim." He told them "Slim" lived in Alexandria. The police in that city were notified and Slim's residence was searched. Found: The gun belonging to the robbed storekeeper.

The Negro, whose real name is Lawrence Ladd, was brought back to Monroe. After days of stubborn denial of any connection with the robbery, he finally confessed. He is still in the parish jail awaiting sentence.

But his partner in crime held out and took his chances in court. Over a week ago, Stewart was sentenced to nine years in Angola.

More Gardeners Growing Dahlias

Almost every garden has a place for gladiolus and more and more gardeners are growing dahlias. Neither is difficult to grow, both add immeasureably to the garden's beauty, but both do take a little extra effort.

Thrips, almost invisible little pests, once made growing both flowers rather chancy. Control was attempted by treating them with moth flakes and dunking them in germicides. Today, however, DDT can do the control job, effectively and easily.

Gladiolus—whose name means little sword—is a relative of the iris, and their leaves are similar, narrow and handsome. There are literally thousands of forms, ranging from pure white over the whole spectrum, and from huge, showy spikes to small varieties.

Many gardeners think of gladiolus in terms of cut flowers, but they are a useful flower in the garden as well. They give authority to the border when grown in clumps—and with the huge leeway in color it's easy to select varieties which blend or contrast with the perennials and annuals.

They may be planted as soon as the weather becomes settled, about six inches apart if in rows, and from three to six inches deep. The largest bulbs are planted deepest. Before planting, it is a good idea to treat them with DDT dust. Succession plantings, a week or two apart, until mid-July assures blooms from mid-summer until almost frost.

The corms must be dug before freezing weather sets in, cured and the old, used-up corm separated from the new and discarded. Many tiny bulblets will have formed around the corms, and all of these should be saved if the gardener wants to greatly increase his collection. Planted like peas and dug for a couple of years, they become flowering plants.

Mature corms and the infants, after drying, should be treated with DDT (dust and corms shaken together in a bag) and then stored for the winter in a cool, dark place in ventilated containers.

They like sun, fairly rich, well-drained soil and appreciate an additional feeding when the leaves are about a foot high. Some of the plants need staking. And they should be sprayed or dusted with DDT every two weeks during the growing season.

Dahlias are more fussy than gladiolus, insisting on loam which is well-drained, requiring water but refusing to flourish with wet feet. They need a long growing season, and in the north Atlantic states may be set out at the end of May—earlier in warmer climates. They like plenty of room—two or three feet between plants, and all except the dwarf varieties should be staked, at the time they are set out.

Planting is a tricky business, necessitating separating clumps and selecting tubers with one or two good "eyes." The tuber must be placed in a hole six inches deep, horizontally, and with the eye upward. At first the tuber is covered with about three inches of soil, and as the plant grows, the hole gradually filled in. Only one or two shoots may be allowed to develop.

The plants are lifted after the first killing frost, care taken not to break the necks of the tubers. The plants should be cut to one-inch stumps, dried in sunshine for a few hours, and treated with DDT. They are stored in coolness and darkness, with a temperature between 35 and 50 degrees.

It sounds like a lot of work, but the dahlia, with its many colors and beauty, is worth every bit of it.

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Aqua sportsmen get a big splash every year out of the "good ole summertime," and in Ouachita parish, these guys and gals have a lot to work with: the Ouachita river, surrounding bayous and lakes, and the awyze Natatorium.

A close observer will find that watersportsmen (and women) are divided and subdivided into many categories, classes and to degrees of interest.

There's the "human fish." These you can find most anywhere—anywhere there's water, that is. The more water the better, and deeper and wider the water is, the more fun they have. This type person feels more at home in "aquaville" than they do taking a stroll down Lovers' Lane or participating in a common, dry land sport. For these persons, there's but one paradise: Atlantis. They swim in bayous, the local natatorium, the river—it's all the same to them.

Then invariably you'll run across another class, the type that can "swim pretty good" but would much rather cool off motoring up and down the river or bayou in a motorboat. There are the real "river-faring" patrons of "ole man river."

In this group, like the others, there fall some extremists who can't be content with just streaking across the water in a boat. So they hitch up a couple of skiis to the rivercraft and spray themselves good and proper. It's quite a thrill—if you don't believe them, try it yourself.

Taking a somewhat hurried glance about the local swimming pool, one would wonder if man was really made for dry land. This is especially true if you see a swimmer "go under," kicking feet and waving hands. In a few minutes, just before you're completely satisfied the person has drowned, you see him emerge on the other side of the pool, take a deep breath, then submerge again.

But while we're busy classing our water lovers, let's go on to another group, the kind that like to go swimming, but once inside the pool gates, proceed to lie out on the sides and soak in the sunshine. They boast of their tan and explain that it makes them look athletic and out-doorish.

Occasionally, though, these persons might tickle their toes in the water, or take a dip every hour, but it's a fact, they're out there, sun oil and all, to get burned brown.

Then you find the divers. These display artistic talent by flipping their bodies in mid air for all to see. It takes a long time to develop this skill and it's not at all surprisnig. They work hard all summer to perfect many different ways of "splitting" the water.

But let's drop down a notch and take a look at the "beginners." In this category are the children, those little darlings that screw up dad's hose and take a half dozen showers daily in the back yard. To them, it's just a simple method to make a hot day pleasant.

And so you can go on and on—all the while uncovering other groups who take to water like ducks. You sometime wonder too if there's a future in just being a plain ole land lover, the kind your ancestors were.

You stop and think it over for a minute—you think of the large percentage of people in Ouachita parish that get a real kick out of watersports—and you say to yourself:

"It might really be fun. Believe I'll try it out and see for myself."

So you do, and the aqua population is increased.

Pow Wow Editor Has Trouble With Name

By Louie E. Mathis

Some of my best friends have names. Now as far as I know, there is nothing wrong with having names. I knew a Mexican once named Ignacio Pietro de Lizardi who lived a pleasant life and was called Pete by all who knew him.

My name is Louie E. Mathis. For sixteen years I carried that name with genuine affection. Then, in May 1945, I graduated from Oak Grove High School and drifted westward. That's when I discovered another Louie E. Mathis, managing the Bish Mathis Institute here in Monroe.

In order to get a job, I needed a social security card. At the local office, I received the same cordial welcome given all youngsters during wartime. In other words, I waited two days for an interview. When I finally told the lady my name, she proceeded to lambast me verbally for what seemed like years. She made it clear that I was an imposter. The real Louie E. Mathis had been in Monroe for years.

However, I got the security card and eventually found work with a large company here in Monroe. They proceeded to mail all my checks to Louise Mathis, and I had to sign them that way for eight months. Determined to get away from it all, I lurched tiredly into the recruiting office and joined the air force. The air force had a simple solution. They didn't pay me at all for several months.

After three convulsive years with Uncle Sam, I returned to Monroe to enter college. The fun started all over again, only this time it was worse. When I went to the public library to check out a book I signed my name, Louie E. Mathis, which was a natural thing to do. I kept the books two weeks overdue, which is also a natural thing to do.

Not being familiar with my bad habits, the librarian mailed an overdue notice to Mr. Mathis, the elder. He was no doubt surprised to discover that he was weeks overdue with Erskine Caldwell's latest books, and consequently, the library was informed of a mistake. Upon my return to the library, the lady met me at the door.

"Why," she demanded, "did you sign your name Louie E. Mathis?"

I took time to collect my driver's license, discharge papers, and wits. She reluctantly conceded the possibility and nothing else was said. However, I feel like an ex-convict when I go to the library.

The VA was in charge of my G. I. bill. My authorization to attend Northeast Junior College came through without a hitch. My checks, however, went to Mr. Mathis, were returned to the VA, to New Orleans, to the VA, to my brother, and to me. I paid an outrageous bill for two months of hotdogs just in time. I also bought a new belt, having cut six inches off the old one while waiting for my check.

Besides all these troubles, I am constantly besieged by well-meaning friends who find "my name" in the telephone directory and discover that I am out of town with my wife or at an important business conference. Several friends think I am secretly married. Others think I'm a liar.

I would either like to meet Mr. Mathis, or change my name. After all, "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Bugs Get Goats Of Garden Bugs

It is the unhappy lot of every gardener who would pick tasty vegetables and handsome flowers to spend a portion of his time as a hunter. Every gardener's tool shed or garage is frequently used to ready his hunting equipment—compounding lethal sprays, cleaning spray guns, loading dust guns—and reading directions.

For the war against insects and pests begins in March and continues right through the season until cold weather drives us back into the winter siesta.

For the purposes of classification, garden insects fall roughly into two classes: Chewing and sucking. Into the chewing class are the slimy slugs, amusing grasshoppers, caterpillars, beetles, grubs and cutworms. This enemy settles itself on leaves and blooms and munches contentedly until there's only a skeleton left. The sucking pests are more devious in their methods, but equally vicious. Aphids, or plant lice, are the most common members of the family, and they insert a tiny needle into the plant and suck out its life juices. Infected plants may be identified by yellowing leaves, spots and a general appearance of illness.

Use Two Sprays

To catch both before damage is done, it's necessary to keep two types of sprays on hand. The chewing pests are controlled by poisons which they take into their stomachs. The sucking pests are killed by poisons which kill on contact.

Arsenate of lead is the best known of the stomach poisons: Nicotine, of the contact killers. Rotenone, however, works both as a stomach poison and a contact poison. So does DDT for those who are willing to use it and study carefully so as not to cause injury to garden friends.

These chemical sprays like arsenate of lead and nicotine are old, tried and true. With science's terrific progress, the market is flooded with new, strong insecticides which take careful handling. It's best to ask for help from a reputable seedsman in selecting some of the newer pest removers.

Sprays vs. Dusts

Some people use sprays for all their bug-fighting work, others prefer using dusts. There's something to be said for both sprays and dusts—and most gardeners use both. In the event a dust gun is used, it's wise to spray after a rain or in the morning when plants are moist so the dust sticks to the plants. When a spray is compounded, soap is usually added to the mixture to help liquid stick to the plants.

Japanese beetles, of course, seem impervious to any chemical warfare. One effective method of controls to treat the ground in the early spring—when the beetle grubs are still in the soil, with a specific preparation which infects the grubs with a lethal Jap beetle disease. In the alternative, the best control is picking the beetles off foliage by hand and dropping them into a jar of kerosene—or turpentine—and water.

Tomatoes frequently are bothered by sucking insects—but they should be sprayed or dusted only with Bordeaux mixture for the plant is susceptible to a pest called tobacco mosaic which can be present in the nicotine-based spray.

Combatting Mexican Beetles

Beans infected with the disgusting golden grubs of Mexican bean beetle should be sprayed assiduously—and the plants burned when pulled from the garden.

'Mine Host' Is Friend To Kings

BAD HOMBURG, Germany—An 82-year-old German claims he has known more emperors and kings than any man in the world. He is Carl ("Charlie") Ritter. He owns the luxurious Ritter's Park Hotel where royalty and millionaires formerly stayed when they came to take the cures in this spa.

Now he knows hundreds of American GI's, officers and civilians who go often to eat at his famous hotel.

But whether it was General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the German kaisers, the prince of Wales or the Siamese emperor they were all alike to him—his guests.

A Sartorial Model

Ritter has the appearance of a British diplomat. Elegantly clad he looks 30 years younger than 82. His thin white hair carefully combed, he has the air of a man at ease on golf course or at gala receptions.

The day "Charlie" was born was symbolic for his whole life. On August 17, 1868, the city of Bad Homburg was bedecked with flags for the first visit to the town of the first German kaiser, Wilhelm I.

The little spa already had some reputation at that time and many German princes and counts had built their castles in its vicinity—but it was Charlie's indefatigable energy that later led the town to real prosperity.

Edward VII Was Tame

The British nobility came with Edward VII, when prince of Wales, who returned regularly to Bad Homburg until shortly before his death in 1910.

Although biographies describe Edward VII as a famous sportsman and creator of men's fashion (one of his designs was the Homburg hat), Ritter claims he was one of the most austere clients of the Homburg baths.

The king sternly dieted himself, Charlie remembers. For lunch and dinner he ate spinach and trout—for three weeks without a change. There was only one luxury Edward afforded himself — unsweetened stewed peaches.

All his company at table had to eat the same frugal food—only other visiting monarchs were permitted to be exceptions. His father-in-law, Christian IX, King of Denmark, Empress Victoria, Edward's sister and wife of the second German Kaiser Friedrich II were allowed to dine more opulently.

Some Other Famous Guests

The empress of Austria and queen of Hungary, the beautiful Elizabeth, who was killed by anarchists in Geneva 1907; Constantine I, of Greece; Chulalongkorn emperor of Siam; Nicholas I, of Montenegro and father-in-law of the last Italian king, Victor Emmanuel III; King Alfonso XIII of Spain and the family of Nicholas II, czar of Russia, who were murdered by the Bolsheviks in 1917, all were among Charlie's guests.

Siam's Chulalongkorn, who later gave the city a gilded Siamese temple which still stands near the hotel, brought an entourage of 40 attendants with him. Once, on his 50th birthday, he invited the whole population of Bad Homburg for a night of free drinks and free food.

The "Damned Wars"

It was not too long before the Wanamakers, the Marshall Fields, the Vanderbilts and other American millionaires appeared on the golf courses of Bad Homburg and in the dining halls of Charlie's Park.

With the beginning of the first "damned war" as Charlie calls it business dropped. Happy old prewar days did not come back. Bad Homburg lost many of its attractions.

Then Came Hitler

In World War II, the park was turned into a recreation center for Hitler's black-booted SS-guards. Charlie retired into his apartment sadly thinking of the days gone by.

The first American who stepped into the hotel in March 1945 after Bad Homburg was captured by U. S. Troops was the son of a hotel owner. He was Capt. John Mayo of the Mayo Hotel in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Charlie's table became a favorite among U. S. occupation officers.

Generals Eisenhower, McNarney, Clay and now U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy—all liked the park, Charlie says.

Great Britain Girds For Octopus Invasion

By Arthur W. White

LONDON—Scared of octopuses? Then don't try to swim the English Channel this summer.

Signs point to an octopus "plague" in French-English waters.

It's not as horrifying as it sounds, though. Experts say the danger to cross channel aspirants from the evil-looking "devil fish" is remote. The same goes for ordinary close-to-shore bathers.

Reason: Octopuses fear humans as much as humans fear them.

If an eight-footer (that's as big as they come here) should wrap a quivering tentacle round you and squirt ink in your eyes, experts say, it's only because he's petrified at bumping into you. Most likely, the octopus will flee.

Swimmers Have Felt Them

No channel swimmer ever has been attacked, though many have reported encounters with mysterious slithering objects, mostly at night.

Warnings from the channel islands of an impending octopus plague are worrying south coast lobster fishermen. The last plague, in 1900, put scores of English lobster-men out of business. The Channel crawled with the eight-armed pests raiding lobster - post and devouring all types of shell fish.

Dr. William J. Rees, marine zoologist at London's Natural History Museum, says life was so tough for crabs they scurried ashore by the thousand. There were minor plagues in 1921 and 1933.

The channel type is the common octopus, found in the Atlantic (up to North Carolina), Mediteranean and Caribbean. They grow up to eight feet from tentacle to tentacle, with a large head armed with a strong beak and a small oval sac-like body. Rows of suckers for gripping prey cover the tentacles. The horrible man-drowning Pacific type grow up to 40 feet.

Although English fisherman at Brighton two years ago had to chop tight-clinging octopuses off their boats with axes, limb by limb, there's no record of anybody being hurt here.

However, in 1936, near Cannes on the French riviera, a 13-year-old London boy was seized by a common octopus while fishing off some rocks and dragged screaming into the water. A 55-year-old British swimming instructor dived in, rescued him after hacking off two tentacles with a knife, and stabbed the octopus to death. Said he: "The most terrifying moment was after I stabbed the thing. Black fluid spurted out, blinding me."

Afraid of Boats in Motion

Good insurance against them, boatmen declare, is an armada like that which accompanied 17-year-old American Swimmer Shirley May France on her unsuccessful attempt last summer. A belligerent octopus would have been scared silly by the bucking motorboats circling her.

Biggest danger to the swimmer is psychological, trainers believe. The mere word octopus is enough to start shivers scooting down many spines.

SHERIFF AND CHIEF DEPUTY CONSULT FILE

Sheriff Bailey Grant points to a file kept in the Burl Cole case as E. L. "Pop" Walker looks on. Cole was caught last year in Missouri following his alleged murder of a Shreveport mechanic. He is at present in the asylum in Pineville undergoing mental observation. He has been classed as "temporarily insane." Fast work on the part of the sheriff's department, together with a tri-state dragnet engineered the quick apprehension of Cole near Licking, Mo.

Work Of Sheriff Dept. Is Difficult, Involved

By Oland Silk
(Of The Morning World Staff)

A telephone call usually sets the stage.

For Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant and his staff of criminal deputies it means what most of their lives have meant since taking office about two years ago—a series of questions and answers.

What criminal work comprises is more than that, but inevitably there are the questions and answers. The former in investigation may be patterned along certain lines, but they are naturally attuned to the circumstances. The answers they get are often as varied as the questions. Each story has to be checked and double-checked to disengage fiction from fact. A constant interrogation goes on for affirmation of stories or perhaps suspicion in order to file away information marked "evidence." This is called "building a case."

All this of course takes place in investigations of crimes such as murder, aggravated battery, robbery, aggravated burglary. The same intensity of inquiry may often follow a relatively minor crime, however.

Work Explained

In Louisiana, building a case for the state is part of the work of the sheriff's department. But it is never in the hands of one man. It involves co-ordination of the department as a whole.

For simplification, the work of E. L. "Pop" Walker will be cited as an integral part of the job that faces field deputies at large. "Pop" Walker is a slightly balding, 36 year-old peace officer who believes that an officer's two main attributes should be to: Know evidence when he sees it, and know how to preserve it once he has it.

When Walker played football for Coach Jim Malone in 1936 and '37, he handled the position of blocking back under the single wing formation. In football as well as in criminal investigation, he learned that the shortest distance to the goal was not always straight ahead. There must be a certain amount of deviation from that geometrical principle in either field.

He explained that "people tell you a lot of things they don't think they telling you." Just as much pertinent information is ultimately recorded as evidence by indirect questioning as by direct. In contrast, a fake-spinner play with the end around can sometimes gain more yardage than all the line plunges in the world.

Other Duties

The brick wall that often obstructs the strategy of a quarter-back can be analogous to a stubborn criminal who won't confess until every shred of evidence is stacked against him. It is on these occasions that a deputy sheriff earns his pay.

But lest a wrong impression of deputy's work be conveyed—that they only investigate crimes in the parish—a list of their other duties should be considered.

For instance, 2,689 summons' have been served since Sheriff Grant took office. That would average, he explained, about 3 1/2 witnesses to a case.

They must assist when needed by city police; they must serve state police warrants, summon witnesses for two misdemeanor courts, the juvenile court, and district court; handle all prisoners for the courts; summon witnesses for coroner's inquest; subpoena witnesses for the district attorney; extradite prisoners; transport them to prison; get evidence in criminal cases which is good enough to go to court with the district attorney's standards.

Asked to single out a case that contained the elements of hard work, luck, both good and bad, which the sheriff's department has solved, Walker picked this one. But in particular because it happened recently.

Shortly after nightfall on January 3, a storekeeper and his wife closed shop near here and went home. As they started to enter the kitchen door of their home, a powerful form struck from out of the shadows, knocking the man to the floor and pummeling him with a heavy flashlight.

The storekeeper's wife hysterical with fear, fought the assailent in the dark. She beat him with her fists, trying desperately to prevent serious injury to her husband.

The couple had been robbed of over $200.

In a half-conscious state, the storekeeper ran to the doorway and fired three times with a 20-guage shotgun into the speeding automobile.

That night it rained, washing away all evidence of tire tracks.

After questioning the couple, the sheriff's department made notes on things to look for. As Pop Walker explained it: We were on the lookout for a light green Plymouth with shotgun holes in it; a large Negro well over six feet tall; a Negro or Negroes who knew that the money would be worth taking a risk for—i. e. who knew the business and habits of the storekeeper well.

Working day and night, the sheriff's department combed this area for suspects. A few were picked up and later released.

The storekeeper knew the Negroes who frequented his store the most. One Negro in particular, moved from his residence near Monroe. They learned his whereabouts and started out to find him late one night.

Approaching the home of Peter Stewart, Negro, in the vicinity of Fondale, a light green Plymouth was seen in the yard. Telltale dents where the shots had landed were in the side of the car.

Stewart knew the habits of the storekeeper well. He had even sold him a load of corn the week before the incident.

Under questioning, Stewart told Grant and his deputies who had helped him move. He said it was "Tenderfoot Slim." He told them "Slim" lived in Alexandria. The police in that city were notified and Slim's residence was searched. Found: The gun belonging to the robbed storekeeper.

The Negro, whose real name is Lawrence Ladd, was brought back to Monroe. After days of stubborn denial of any connection with the robbery, he finally confessed. He is still in the parish jail awaiting sentence.

But his partner in crime held out and took his chances in court. Over a week ago, Stewart was sentenced to nine years in Angola.

More Gardeners Growing Dahlias

Almost every garden has a place for gladiolus and more and more gardeners are growing dahlias. Neither is difficult to grow, both add immeasureably to the garden's beauty, but both do take a little extra effort.

Thrips, almost invisible little pests, once made growing both flowers rather chancy. Control was attempted by treating them with moth flakes and dunking them in germicides. Today, however, DDT can do the control job, effectively and easily.

Gladiolus—whose name means little sword—is a relative of the iris, and their leaves are similar, narrow and handsome. There are literally thousands of forms, ranging from pure white over the whole spectrum, and from huge, showy spikes to small varieties.

Many gardeners think of gladiolus in terms of cut flowers, but they are a useful flower in the garden as well. They give authority to the border when grown in clumps—and with the huge leeway in color it's easy to select varieties which blend or contrast with the perennials and annuals.

They may be planted as soon as the weather becomes settled, about six inches apart if in rows, and from three to six inches deep. The largest bulbs are planted deepest. Before planting, it is a good idea to treat them with DDT dust. Succession plantings, a week or two apart, until mid-July assures blooms from mid-summer until almost frost.

The corms must be dug before freezing weather sets in, cured and the old, used-up corm separated from the new and discarded. Many tiny bulblets will have formed around the corms, and all of these should be saved if the gardener wants to greatly increase his collection. Planted like peas and dug for a couple of years, they become flowering plants.

Mature corms and the infants, after drying, should be treated with DDT (dust and corms shaken together in a bag) and then stored for the winter in a cool, dark place in ventilated containers.

They like sun, fairly rich, well-drained soil and appreciate an additional feeding when the leaves are about a foot high. Some of the plants need staking. And they should be sprayed or dusted with DDT every two weeks during the growing season.

Dahlias are more fussy than gladiolus, insisting on loam which is well-drained, requiring water but refusing to flourish with wet feet. They need a long growing season, and in the north Atlantic states may be set out at the end of May—earlier in warmer climates. They like plenty of room—two or three feet between plants, and all except the dwarf varieties should be staked, at the time they are set out.

Planting is a tricky business, necessitating separating clumps and selecting tubers with one or two good "eyes." The tuber must be placed in a hole six inches deep, horizontally, and with the eye upward. At first the tuber is covered with about three inches of soil, and as the plant grows, the hole gradually filled in. Only one or two shoots may be allowed to develop.

The plants are lifted after the first killing frost, care taken not to break the necks of the tubers. The plants should be cut to one-inch stumps, dried in sunshine for a few hours, and treated with DDT. They are stored in coolness and darkness, with a temperature between 35 and 50 degrees.

It sounds like a lot of work, but the dahlia, with its many colors and beauty, is worth every bit of it.

LOCAL WATERLOVERS GO ALL OUT DURING SUMMERTIME

Water Sports In Ouachita Parish Include Swimming, Boating, Diving, And 'Tanning'

By Percy Fant
(Of The Morning World Staff)

Aqua sportsmen get a big splash every year out of the "good ole summertime," and in Ouachita parish, these guys and gals have a lot to work with: the Ouachita river, surrounding bayous and lakes, and the awyze Natatorium.

A close observer will find that watersportsmen (and women) are divided and subdivided into many categories, classes and to degrees of interest.

There's the "human fish." These you can find most anywhere—anywhere there's water, that is. The more water the better, and deeper and wider the water is, the more fun they have. This type person feels more at home in "aquaville" than they do taking a stroll down Lovers' Lane or participating in a common, dry land sport. For these persons, there's but one paradise: Atlantis. They swim in bayous, the local natatorium, the river—it's all the same to them.

Then invariably you'll run across another class, the type that can "swim pretty good" but would much rather cool off motoring up and down the river or bayou in a motorboat. There are the real "river-faring" patrons of "ole man river."

In this group, like the others, there fall some extremists who can't be content with just streaking across the water in a boat. So they hitch up a couple of skiis to the rivercraft and spray themselves good and proper. It's quite a thrill—if you don't believe them, try it yourself.

Taking a somewhat hurried glance about the local swimming pool, one would wonder if man was really made for dry land. This is especially true if you see a swimmer "go under," kicking feet and waving hands. In a few minutes, just before you're completely satisfied the person has drowned, you see him emerge on the other side of the pool, take a deep breath, then submerge again.

But while we're busy classing our water lovers, let's go on to another group, the kind that like to go swimming, but once inside the pool gates, proceed to lie out on the sides and soak in the sunshine. They boast of their tan and explain that it makes them look athletic and out-doorish.

Occasionally, though, these persons might tickle their toes in the water, or take a dip every hour, but it's a fact, they're out there, sun oil and all, to get burned brown.

Then you find the divers. These display artistic talent by flipping their bodies in mid air for all to see. It takes a long time to develop this skill and it's not at all surprisnig. They work hard all summer to perfect many different ways of "splitting" the water.

Anna Lea DuBos, 2 1/2 years old, has found a good way to keep cool with "pop's" hose.

But let's drop down a notch and take a look at the "beginners." In this category are the children, those little darlings that screw up dad's hose and take a half dozen showers daily in the back yard. To them, it's just a simple method to make a hot day pleasant.

And so you can go on and on—all the while uncovering other groups who take to water like ducks. You sometime wonder too if there's a future in just being a plain ole land lover, the kind your ancestors were.

You stop and think it over for a minute—you think of the large percentage of people in Ouachita parish that get a real kick out of watersports—and you say to yourself:

"It might really be fun. Believe I'll try it out and see for myself."

So you do, and the aqua population is increased.

Pow Wow Editor Has Trouble With Name

Some of my best friends have names. Now as far as I know, there is nothing wrong with having names. I knew a Mexican once named Ignacio Pietro de Lizardi who lived a pleasant life and was called Pete by all who knew him.

My name is Louie E. Mathis. For sixteen years I carried that name with genuine affection. Then, in May 1945, I graduated from Oak Grove High School and drifted westward. That's when I discovered another Louie E. Mathis, managing the Bish Mathis Institute here in Monroe.

In order to get a job, I needed a social security card. At the local office, I received the same cordial welcome given all youngsters during wartime. In other words, I waited two days for an interview. When I finally told the lady my name, she proceeded to lambast me verbally for what seemed like years. She made it clear that I was an imposter. The real Louie E. Mathis had been in Monroe for years.

However, I got the security card and eventually found work with a large company here in Monroe. They proceeded to mail all my checks to Louise Mathis, and I had to sign them that way for eight months. Determined to get away from it all, I lurched tiredly into the recruiting office and joined the air force. The air force had a simple solution. They didn't pay me at all for several months.

After three convulsive years with Uncle Sam, I returned to Monroe to enter college. The fun started all over again, only this time it was worse. When I went to the public library to check out a book I signed my name, Louie E. Mathis, which was a natural thing to do. I kept the books two weeks overdue, which is also a natural thing to do.

Not being familiar with my bad habits, the librarian mailed an overdue notice to Mr. Mathis, the elder. In World War II, the park was turned into a recreation center for Hitler's black-booted SS-guards. Charlie retired into his apartment, sadly thinking of the days gone by.

The first American who stepped into the hotel in March 1945 after Bad Homburg was captured by U. S. Troops was the son of a hotel owner. He was Capt. John Mayo, of the Mayo Hotel in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Charlie's table became a favorite among U. S. occupation officers.

Generals Eisenhower, McNarney, Clay and now U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy—all liked the park, Charlie says.

Great Britain Girds For Octopus Invasion

By Arthur W. White

LONDON—Scared of octopuses? Then don't try to swim the English Channel this summer.

Signs point to an octopus "plague" in French-English waters.

It's not as horrifying as it sounds, though. Experts say the danger to cross channel aspirants from the evil-looking "devil fish" is remote. The same goes for ordinary close-to-shore bathers.

Reason: Octopuses fear humans as much as humans fear them.

If an eight-footer (that's as big as they come here) should wrap a quivering tentacle round you and squirt ink in your eyes, experts say, it's only because he's petrified at bumping into you. Most likely, the octopus will flee.

Swimmers Have Felt Them

No channel swimmer ever has been attacked, though many have reported encounters with mysterious slithering objects, mostly at night.

Warnings from the channel islands of an impending octopus plague are worrying south coast lobster fishermen. The last plague, in 1900, put scores of English lobster-men out of business. The Channel crawled with the eight-armed pests raiding lobster-post and devouring all types of shell fish.

Dr. William J. Rees, marine zoologist at London's Natural History Museum, says life was so tough for crabs they scurried ashore by the thousand. There were minor plagues in 1921 and 1933.

The channel type is the common octopus, found in the Atlantic (up to North Carolina), Mediteranean and Caribbean. They grow up to eight feet from tentacle to tentacle, with a large head armed with a strong beak and a small oval sac-like body. Rows of suckers for gripping prey cover the tentacles. The horrible man-drowning Pacific type grow up to 40 feet.

Although English fisherman at Brighton two years ago had to chop tight-clinging octopuses off their boats with axes, limb by limb, there's no record of anybody being hurt here.

However, in 1936, near Cannes on the French riviera, a 13-year-old London boy was seized by a common octopus while fishing off some rocks and dragged screaming into the water. A 55-year-old British swimming instructor dived in, rescued him after hacking off two tentacles with a knife, and stabbed the octopus to death. Said he: "The most terrifying moment was after I stabbed the thing. Black fluid spurted out, blinding me."

Afraid of Boats in Motion

Old Channel swimming hands at Dover say nothing like that ever happened there. Small octopuses have been spotted wriggling furiously to get out of the way of swimmers' accompanying boats.

Good insurance against them, boatmen declare, is an armada like that which accompanied 17-year-old American Swimmer Shirley May France on her unsuccessful attempt last summer. A belligerent octopus would have been scared silly by the bucking motorboats circling her.

Biggest danger to the swimmer is psychological, trainers believe. The mere word octopus is enough to start shivers scooting down many spines.

Dorothy McGuire, Lundigan Starred In Romantic Comedy

'Mother Didn't Tell Me' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

Dorothy McGuire and William Lundigan in a new romantic comedy, "Mother Didn't Tell Me," is the attraction opening today at the Paramount Theater. The Twentieth Century-Fox film marks the return to light comedy of Miss McGuire, who achieved her first fame as "Claudia." Like "Claudia" of fond memory, "Mother Didn't Tell Me" is classified basically as a comedy about the gay adventures of a newly married young couple, but sensitive as well to the tender aspect of young marriage.

For Miss McGuire "Mother Didn't Tell Me" is also the first picture in two years, during which time she became a mother, equipping her perfectly for her part as the young mother in the film. In this same period Lundigan has had a phenomenally fast rise to stardom, auspiciously capped with his work in "Pinky."

Claude Binyon, who also directed "Mother Didn't Tell Me" for Producer Fred Kohlmar, based his autobiographical novel, "The Doctor Wears Three Faces," by Mary Bard. Miss Bard recounted her own experiences as a doctor's wife.

Briefly, the screenplay concerns a young woman who falls in love with her doctor and, despite the warning of the doctor's mother that she won't be happy as a doctor's wife, they marry. It develops that the mother was right, for the hard-working doctor, like most doctors, is always away on emergency calls at the wrong time. As a result, the household is in constant turmoil. And, to add to the wife's trouble, a striking brunette, an old flame of the doctor's, moves into the picture to deliberately provoke jealousy.

Lundigan is the young doctor and Miss McGuire the determined young lady who starts out as his patient and before long is his wife. Besides Miss McGuire in the non-violent role of man-hunter and Lundigan as the fairly willing quarry she bags, June Havoc and Gary Merrill are principally featured in "Mother Didn't Tell Me," playing another doctor-and-wife couple who set a helpful example to the newlyweds. Miss Havoc is, of course, a screen and theater veteran, while Merrill, a former Broadwayite, recently scored in "12 O'Clock High."

The primary object of the Hague Conference held at the instance of the czar of Russia in 1899 was to check the race in armaments. This was the first real gesture toward arms reduction by modern states.

'Cinderella' Opens Here Next Thursday

No other girl's name has so often been on the lips of women the world over for the last 300 years as that of the fabulous heroine of Walt Disney's spectacular all-cartoon magical musical, "Cinderella." It opens at the Paramount Thursday.

For the first time this most persistent of legends receives the rich romantic treatment it deserves, in any medium. It is also Walt Disney's first all-out devotion to romantic human love—a revel of intermingled fantasy and warm earthy reality; of color, and music and fun and stardust enchantments.

No previous Disney picture has been offered in more lavish style or with more perfection of animation artistry. From the variations of the fundamental tale, which has been current in all civilized lands, there has been selected the French version of the pattern. Charles Perrault put it into print over 300 years ago. Disney has had it on his preferential list for many years.

To provide the humorous balance for the idyllic romance, the producer has surrounded his heroine and her human associates with a group of little animal characters—mice, birds, a cat and a dog and other barnyard creatures, as amusing as any he has ever created. Gus, the captured field mouse, is the equal of Dopey, the drollest dwarf in Snow White. Jaq, head of the household mouse clan, runs him a close second. The fun and excitement they perpetrate in foiling Lucifer, the villainous cat, is inimitable Disney comedy.

Six songs saturate the picture with music, keyed to its romantic nature.

Birds' blood is warmer, as a rule, than that of mammals. Small birds, such as robins, bluebirds, grosbeaks and cardinals, usually average from 105 to 108 degrees.

Lois Butler To Appear At Joy Theater Here Today

Young Beauty Starred In 'Boy From Indiana'; New Romantic Film

It took Lois Butler 10 years of steady trying before she got her first screen role but when she did she started her career as a star.

Now 18 and with physical beauty to match her gorgeous voice, blonde, blue-eyed Lois is making her second screen appearance, co-starring with Lon McCallister in "Boy From Indiana," a romance of modern Arizona which Frank Melford produced for Ventura Pictures. The Eagle Lion Films release is now at the Joy Theater.

On the advice of enthusiastic friends, Lois' mother brought her daughter to Hollywood from their native Indianapolis when the young lady was five years old. Although she sought a studio opportunity steadily it was not until she was 15 that, by chance, she won the starring and title role in Eagle-Lion's "Mickey."

A veteran of the concert stage and a contract recording artist for Capitol Records, Lois' coloratura voice was the plus value that won her, at last, her film chance.

In "Boy From Arizona" Lois sings four songs.

In addition to Lon McCallister and the petite Lois, the cast of the picture includes Billie Burke and George Cleveland. John Rawlins directed the production.

MOMENT OF DANGER!

A moment of tense suspense from M-G-M's big adventure drama, "Malaya," which will be shown at the Joy Drive-In Theater this week. Spencer Tracy and James Stewart are the men behind the door, with Richard Loo enacting the Jap officer who walks into a trap. Also in the stellar cast are Valentina Cortesa, Sydney Greenstreet, John Hodiak and Lionel Barrymore.

Stewart Plays His 5th Reporter Role

Hollywood's ace "reporter" is on the job again. He is James Stewart, who enacts an adventurous newshawk on the screen for the fifth time in the new M-G-M drama, "Malaya," in which he co-stars with Spencer Tracy and the glamorous Italian actress, Valentina Cortesa.

Stewart played a reporter in his very first motion picture, "Murder Man," filmed in 1935, and, incidentally, his teammate in that picture was also Spencer Tracy. Subsequently Stewart won an Academy Award as a reporter in "The Philadelphia Story," and also went out after scoops in "Next Time We Love" and "Call Northside 778."

In "Malaya" he is seen as John Royer, a correspondent who returns to the United States shortly after the outbreak of the war, following three years in the Far East. America's most desperate raw material need is rubber and Royer goes immediately to a newspaper publisher and suggests a daring plan for securing huge rubber stocks from under the very guns of the Japanese.

There is one hitch. The one man who can carry out the plan because he knows Malaya like the palm of his hand is Carnahan, played by Tracy. And Carnahan is in prison. Carnahan is released and with Royer leaves for Malaya. There the two make contact with men who are willing to risk their lives to pirate the rubber stores.

Lionel Barrymore plays the newspaper publisher, with other stellar roles in the production filled by Sydney Greenstreet and John Hodiak.

CUB PACK BEING RE-REGISTERED

Reorganization Taking Place In Group At First Baptist Church

Cub Pack No. 13, B. S. A., Sponsored by the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, is now being re-registered and re-chartered with the following leaders in charge: Hugh Taylor, cubmaster; George Lawn and E. L. Smith, assistant cubmasters; W. W. Brewer, pack chairman; Calvert Frantom, treasurer of pack committee; Roy Lee, Sr. and Coy Pratt, committeemen; Edmund Keith, institutional representative; and the following den mothers: Mrs. E. L. Smith, Mrs. W. F. Boyd, Mrs. C. E. Pratt, Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. H. H. Douglas and Mrs. W. E. Crawford.

These leaders met Thesday, May 23rd, to formulate plans for the summer activities of the cubs. Outstanding events include a weiner roast June 27th at the Boy Scout hut, at which time a new den will be enrolled and welcomed into the pack. Olympic games are scheduled for July, the exact date not yet decided upon. The soap box derby will be held August 16th at the railroad crossing "dump" by the Methodist church, a gala event eagerly anticipated by all cubs and their parents and interested friends.

The membership of pack No. 13 is now 29, and all boys of cub age who desire to join the organization are urged to contact Mr. Hugh Taylor, Cubmaster, at the Unique Cleaners.

SPEAR FEEDS have joined the ALBERS Family

Mrs. Jones: All my chicks are on Spear—Sam's pigs, too . . . we sure don't want to change brands!

Dealer: Don't worry, Mrs. Jones . . . you won't have to change feeds. They'll be the same good Spear Feeds plus the backing of valuable Albers research.

Mrs. Jones: Well, I heard Albers were big people in the feed business.

Dealer: You bet . . . Albers is a part of the Carnation Milk Company, Mrs. Jones. They're the biggest producers of evaporated milk in the world . . . and Albers are one of the biggest feed sellers in the U. S.

Mrs. Jones: Well, my sister on the coast feeds Albers and she sure likes it.

Dealer: I'm not surprised . . . because Albers and Carnation together operate a 1400-acre research station.

Mrs. Jones: Well, I'm sure glad to hear a really good, experienced company will continue putting out our favorite Spear Feeds.

Dealer: I'm glad too, Mrs. Jones, because I'm positive the Albers people really know their business . . . and I'm mighty proud to be your Albers dealer for Spear Feeds!

BETTER THAN EVER... Thanks to ALBERS RESEARCH!

Reorganization Taking Place In Group At First Baptist Church

Cub Pack No. 13, B. S. A., Sponsored by the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, is now being re-registered and re-chartered with the following leaders in charge: Hugh Taylor, cubmaster; George Lawn and E. L. Smith, assistant cubmasters; W. W. Brewer, pack chairman; Calvert Frantom, treasurer of pack committee; Roy Lee, Sr. and Coy Pratt, committeemen; Edmund Keith, institutional representative; and the following den mothers: Mrs. E. L. Smith, Mrs. W. F. Boyd, Mrs. C. E. Pratt, Mrs. Roy Lee, Mrs. H. H. Douglas and Mrs. W. E. Crawford.

These leaders met Thesday, May 23rd, to formulate plans for the summer activities of the cubs. Outstanding events include a weiner roast June 27th at the Boy Scout hut, at which time a new den will be enrolled and welcomed into the pack. Olympic games are scheduled for July, the exact date not yet decided upon. The soap box derby will be held August 16th at the railroad crossing "dump" by the Methodist church, a gala event eagerly anticipated by all cubs and their parents and interested friends.

The membership of pack No. 13 is now 29, and all boys of cub age who desire to join the organization are urged to contact Mr. Hugh Taylor, Cubmaster, at the Unique Cleaners.

YES MAM! ... IT IS GOOD NEWS

SPEAR FEEDS have joined the ALBERS Family

Mrs. Jones: All my chicks are on Spear—Sam's pigs, too . . . we sure don't want to change brands!
Dealer: Don't worry, Mrs. Jones . . . you won't have to change feeds. They'll be the same good Spear Feeds plus the backing of valuable Albers research.
Mrs. Jones: Well, I heard Albers were big people in the feed business.
Dealer: You bet . . . Albers is a part of the Carnation Milk Company, Mrs. Jones. They're the biggest producers of evaporated milk in the world . . . and Albers are one of the biggest feed sellers in the U. S.
Mrs. Jones: Well, my sister on the coast feeds Albers and she sure likes it.
Dealer: I'm not surprised . . . because Albers and Carnation together operate a 1400-acre research station.
Mrs. Jones: Well, I'm sure glad to hear a really good, experienced company will continue putting out our favorite Spear Feeds.
Dealer: I'm glad too, Mrs. Jones, because I'm positive the Albers people really know their business . . . and I'm mighty proud to be your Albers dealer for Spear Feeds!

BETTER THAN EVER... Thanks to ALBERS RESEARCH!

HE KNEW TO BE TAKEN NOW MEANT DEATH IN THE SERPENT PIT. AS HE REACHED THE WALL, A SPEAR WHIZZED PAST HIS HEAD.
WITHOUT PAUSE, HE LEAPED TO THE TOP OF THE WALL, THREW HIMSELF AND HIS BURDEN OVER.
DROPPING TO THE GROUND, HE HEADED FOR THE EDGE OF THE FOREST NEARBY.
AS HE NEARED THE JUNGLE, HE HEARD A SHOUTING BEHIND HIM. GLANCING BACK, HE SAW A CLOUD OF DAGOMBAS RAPIDLY BEARING DOWN ON HIM.

OH, MIN!
GET BACK WHERE YOU BELONG, YOU FOUL DESTROYERS!
THESE WERE MY STRING BEANS! AND LOOK AT MY TOMATO SHOOTS! I'LL-- I'LL--- YOU'LL WHAT?
IF LUCIUS MOOCH DOESN'T KEEP HIS DRATTED CHICKENS IN HIS OWN YARD, I'LL KILL THEM!
CALM DOWN, DEAR-- LET'S THINK THIS THING OUT!
I'VE GOT THE PERFECT PLAN TO MAKE OLD LUCIUS MOOCH KEEP HIS CHICKENS IN HIS OWN BACK YARD!
I'LL BET YOU THAT NEW HAT YOU'VE BEEN WANTING THAT YOU CAN'T!
WHAT'S THE IDEA OF PUTTING ALL THOSE EGGS IN MY GARDEN? ARE YOU CRAZY?!
LIKE A FOX-- GO IN THE KITCHEN AND GET A BASKET--- QUICK---
OK-- START COLLECTING THE EGGS--- HERE COMES MR. MOOCH!
YOU DON'T KEEP CHICKENS, GUMP! HOW'D THOSE EGGS GET THERE?!
SINCE YOU INSIST THAT YOUR CHICKENS DIDN'T COME INTO MY GARDEN, THE BUNNY RABBIT MUST HAVE LEFT 'EM HERE!
AFTER THIS, MY CHICKENS WILL LAY THEIR EGGS IN MY YARD IF I HAVE TO BUILD A WIRE FENCE HIGH AS THE MOON!
MY LITTLE WIFE HAS BRAINS ENOUGH FOR TWO HEADS!
DOES THAT MEAN YOU'RE GOING TO BUY ME TWO NEW HATS, DEAR?

NO TRACE OF JIM, SLYE?
NO, HE PROBABLY WAS DROWNED--AND GOOD RIDDANCE. NOW, CLAIR--HOW MUCH RANSOM CAN YOU PAY ME?
BUT JIM IS SAFE ABOARD THE SCHOONER.
ANYBODY ELSE GET AWAY WHEN I WRECKED SLYE'S YACHT, JIM?

KOLU, WE'VE GOT TO RESCUE CLAIR. BUT WE CAN'T TRUST GRUM.
NO, TUAN. HE'D KILL ANYBODY TO GET TREASURE.
JIM AND GRUM DIVE AGAIN FOR THE SUNKEN TREASURE JUNK.
WATCH FOR SIGNALS, BUTCH. THAT GIANT OCTOPUS MAY STILL BE DOWN THERE.
THE LURKING OCTOPUS TRAPS JIM.
I SAVED YOU ONCE, GRUM--NOW IT'S YOUR TURN TO HELP ME.
GRUM INSTANTLY DESERTS JIM, YANKING SHARPLY ON HIS LIFELINE TO BE PULLED UP.
JIM FACES HOPELESS ODDS AS A HUNGRY SHARK JOINS THE ATTACK.

WITH EVERY EXILE ON THE MOON TRYING TO HUNT HIM DOWN, FLASH THINKS ONLY OF RESCUING DALE. HANGING ONTO ZIN'S CAR, HE IS SPOTTED BY A PEASANT WHO SHOUTS A WARNING--BUT ZIN CAN'T QUITE TRAIN HIS GUN ON THE CROUCHING FLASH.
"BACK INTO THE CLIFF," ZIN ORDERS THE DRIVER. "WE'LL SMASH HIM LIKE AN EGG!" BUT FLASH DROPS FLAT AN INSTANT BEFORE THE CAR STRIKES THE CLIFF.
THE CAR BURSTS INTO FLAMES AS IT CRASHES, PINNING FLASH AGAINST THE ROCK. DALE BEGS ZIN AND RUBIA TO SAVE HER SWEETHEART, BUT THEY ONLY LAUGH.
CHOKING, FLASH MANAGES TO PULL LOOSE. SCREENED FROM VIEW BY THE BILLOWING SMOKE, HE SCRAMBLES FOR THE SHELTER OF A NEAR-BY HUT.
FINDING THE HUT OCCUPIED, FLASH TENSES FOR A FIGHT. BUT THE OWNER, LOYO, SAYS: "FLASH! YOU SAVED MY LIFE ONCE--NOW LET ME HELP YOU." AND FLASH NEEDS HELP, FOR HE CAN HEAR ZIN APPROACHING.
